U. S. MOVES TO REVIVE COAL STRIKE TALKS

Poland Asks United Nations Action Against Spain as Threat to Peace

Lange Charges Franco's Regime Shelters Nazis

Russian-Iranian Case Will Confront Council Next Monday

ISSUE IS EXPECTED TO STAY ON AGENDA

U. S. Position on Spain Is That Situation Is Internal One

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Poland accused the Franco government of Spain before the United Nations Security Council today of endangering world peace, sheltering Nazis, and aiding German scientists in "devising new means of warfare." It asked the council to crack down on the regime with the full weight of the United Nations.

The Polish charges against Generalissimo Francisco Franco were announced by the United Nations secretary general as the council, in executive session, decided to meet again next Monday at 3 p. m. EST.

At that time the council will be confronted once more with the Russian-Iranian case. Russia is demanding that the whole affair be dropped from the council agenda. Iran is insisting it should be held pending until May 6 to see whether Red army troops completely evacuate Iran.

The consensus of United Nations observers tonight was that Russia would be voted down and the case would remain before the council.

Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate, in his letter to the secretary general, Trygve Lie, dated April 9 and made public today, ticked off these charges against Franco and his regime:

France Closed Frontier

1. The United Nations Assembly in London condemned the "Fascist regime of Spain" as having been founded with Axis support. Developments since then make it clear the Franco government has "already caused international friction and endangered international peace and security."

2. The French government on February 26, 1946, was compelled to close the frontiers between France and Spain and the border still is closed.

3. On February 27, the Franco government ordered the concentration of troops at the border of France.

4. Franco has given haven to "the largest aggregation of Nazi assets and personnel."

5. Franco has given refuge to a large number of war criminals and Nazi leaders who continue to act from Spanish territory.

6. Franco "allows and promotes scientific research by German scientists engaged in devising new means of warfare."

A member of the Polish delegation said he could not elaborate at the present on what particular means of warfare were being devised.

Russia Appoints Novikov as Envoy To United States

Gromyko Is Named Reds' Permanent Representative on U. N. Council

By GRAHAM HOVEY

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Russia tonight appointed Nikolai V. Novikov ambassador to the United States to succeed Andrei A. Gromyko, who was named the permanent representative of the Soviet Union on the United Nations Security Council.

The Soviet appointments had been expected in Washington for some time.

For the 43-year-old Novikov, the announcement, which came from the Moscow radio, meant formally taking over a job he has held in everything but title for nearly a year.

For the 38-year-old Gromyko, it meant the actual assumption of a position for which his experiences have prepared him virtually since the major Allies decided in the middle of the war to establish a United Nations Organization to keep the peace.

Novikov came to Washington in November, 1944, to be minister counselor of the Soviet embassy under Gromyko. When Gromyko left Washington for San Francisco on April 23 1945, to attend the United Nations Charter conference, Novikov became embassy charge d'affaires. He has held that title ever since.

During that period, he has acted in the capacity of ambassador on all occasions and become well known in Washington diplomatic circles. He has served as Soviet representative on the Far Eastern Commission since that policy-making body was established two months ago.

Novikov was his country's spokesman during three of this country's exchanges with Moscow over Bulgarian recognition and withdrawal of Russian troops from Iran. He was

Arson Is Blamed For Boston Fire, Fatal to Eight

Fireman Perishes in Blaze in Heart of Allentown, Pa.

BOSTON, April 10. (AP)—Arson was blamed for a Back Bay apartment house fire today in which eight persons perished, including an entire family of five, and six others were injured.

After viewing the scene, and those of two other fires in the immediate neighborhood, which occurred as firemen battled the fatal blaze, City Fire Commissioner Russell J. Codman said in his opinion it was "clearly evident that all three were set."

"All three," he said, "started under main stairways and in each instance there was debris under the stairways."

Codman criticized state legislation, which he said placed responsibility for safety measures under the state fire marshal, leaving the city's fire department "merely a fire extinguishing organization" with authority only to order removal of rubbish.

Allentown Blaze Kills Fireman

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 10. (AP)—The worst Allentown fire in a score of years roared out of control for seven hours in the heart of the business district today, killing one fireman and injuring five others.

Public Safety Director Edgar Wolf, a former fire chief, said loss would exceed $1,000,000. Three buildings including a theater lobby and twenty apartments were gutted.

Assistant Fire Chief Marcus Good was killed in a plunge into a debris-filled basement of the Rialto theater. He and two other firemen were fighting the flames in the lobby when it collapsed.

Fellow firemen pulled Good's companions to safety with a rope but the rope broke as the assistant fire chief clung to it. His body was

Wallace Denies Talk of "Purge"; Says He Favors "Self-Discipline"

WASHINGTON, April 10. (AP)—Secretary Henry A. Wallace, explaining a speech he made March 18 about party regularity, said today he favored "self-discipline" and no committee appointments for party members who break party lines on major issues.

He said he had not used the word "purge" as some headlines had it, disclosed he had opposed the Roosevelt "purge of 1938," and asserted:

"In the days ahead we will need a sense of party responsibility and I tremble for the nation unless we have it."

The commerce secretary's observations toned down considerably the remarks attributed to him in an informal speech to the Women's Democratic club here. Then, he was quoted—without challenge—as saying that senators and representatives who oppose their own parties on major legislation should be banned from seeking election on their party tickets.

His statement today came before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee when Sen. Reed (R-Kans), mindful of testimony about "coercion" in railroad rate-making, recalled the "coercion you (Wallace) suggested a short time ago."

"I suggested that the parties — both of them—should agree on certain major questions and that the members should stick together," Wallace replied. "If they didn't agree with the way their party had voted, they could make their own stands clear at the country level or state level by speeches and so on."

Asserting "something has to be worked out within the parties so that the electorate will know what they're voting for," the secretary added:

"I suggested that the two parties work out some party issues—three, four or five points—and that the majority leaders and the party whips participate. They could hold a caucus to make sure just which were to be the major points."

Servicemen's Pay Boost Is Approved

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) A House Military subcommittee approved a flat $400 a year pay increase for servicemen today and Rep. Harness (R-Ind) announced he would move to make it a basis for halting draft inductions.

"With a $400 increase, the army and navy will get enough volunteers so continued drafting will not be required," Harness told a reporter.

"Army spokesmen have told us they can get along for several months with a suspension of inductions and still have enough men. If they can do that and then we give them the pay raise to provide still more inducements for enlisting, they ought to be able to do without the draft at all."

Other committeemen contended, however, that additional enlistments which a pay increase would bring would be sufficient only to prevent the necessity for increasing the rate of draft inductions beyond its present level.

Harness predicted that the full Military committee will approve the $400 increase before the House takes up Friday the bill to continue the draft for nine months beyond its May 15 expiration date. He said he will offer on the floor his proposal to suspend inductions which the committee yesterday rejected.

The $400 a year increase would be paid to all officers and men in the army and navy. This would increase the pay of private, now $50 a month, to $93.38.

Senate Approves Veterans Housing Measure, 63 to 14

Bill Is Designed To Speed Construction of 2,700,000 Homes

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, April 10. (AP)—A veterans housing bill designed to speed the construction of 2,700,000 new dwellings by the end of next year passed the Senate today and went back to the House for consideration of numerous amendments.

The Senate provided for $600,000,000 in subsidies on scarce building materials—an item denied by the House—but neither body gave its approval for the establishment of price ceilings on existing homes and building lands. Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt had laid great stress on the necessity for both those provisions.

Final approval came on a roll call vote of 63 to 14. Twelve Republicans and two Democrats voted against it.

While the veterans housing measure headed toward a conference with the House for adjustment of differences, the Senate made a long-range housing measure its unfinished business and will get down to work on that tomorrow.

Although the administration lost, 33 to 41, in its attempt to apply price ceilings on existing houses, it triumphed 50 to 25 in beating down an amendment by Sen. Buck (R-Del) which would have reduced the subsidy fund to $400,000,000.

By an even heavier majority—54 to 19—it crushed an effort by Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) to give veterans direct subsidies of five per cent on the purchase of old or new homes, with no veteran to get more than $500. Wherry proposed that a substitute for the building material subsidies, which the administration prefers to call "premium payments."

In a final flurry before the bill passed, Sen. Cordon (R-Ore) tried unsuccessfully to change the title of the bill, cutting out all reference to "veterans' emergency" legislation. Cordon contended the bill offered no special aid to veterans other than priority to buy new homes, but the Senate couldn't see it his way. The vote was 45 to 31.

Housewife Leads Diet Candidates In Jap Election

TOKYO, Thursday, April 11 (AP)—A 38-year-old housewife — whose husband was ousted from the Diet by Allied decree—today became the first candidate of either sex to be virtually assured of election to that body.

As incomplete returns from Japan's general election yesterday rolled in, Mrs. Satoko Togano, a candidate of the Japan People's party —a minor organization—had piled up 24,000 votes.

She is the wife of Takeshi Togano, former newspaperman and a member of ex-Premier Tojo's House of Representatives who was disqualified by Gen. MacArthur's purge of ultra-nationalists.

Mrs. Togano was the only woman candidate in Tochigi prefecture, about 100 miles north of Tokyo.

Exact bearing of the vote on immediate governmental affairs depends upon behind-the-scenes political deals. Japan, in transition, lacks a clear precedent for determining beforehand whether the cabinet will resign.

The Shidehara cabinet has been divided recently on the advisability of remaining in office after the first meeting of the new house, reportedly scheduled for May 10.

Tabulation began at 8 a. m., and it was yet too early to detect a trend for any of the four major parties seeking the 468 seats in the House of Representatives. The Conservative, Liberal and Progressive parties had been accorded pre-election favored position.

Already, however, some Japanese Communist leaders in talks with the Tokyo press were demanding another election, asserting that war-time population shifts had deprived many of their franchise.

A total vote of from sixty-five to seventy per cent was indicated in Tokyo, which if equalled by the rest of the nation would mean that 25,000,000 of the 36,000,000 eligible voters had gone to the polls.

That would be a slightly higher percentage than in the restricted election of 1937, although less than the 83 per cent which turned out under Tojo's pressure in 1942 when he sought to show the world Japan was solidly behind his war in the Pacific.

Fifty per cent of the women in Tokyo, eligible to vote for the first time in history, cast their ballots. This was twice as many as predicted by Japanese political experts, who also had forecast only a sixty per cent total vote in Tokyo.

Loan to Britain Receives Senate Group's Blessing

Barkley Predicts Approval; Prospects of Sharp Debate Appear

WASHINGTON, April 10 — The Senate Banking committee gave the proposed British loan a 14 to 5 blessing today and Sen. Barkley (D-Ky) predicted "a substantial majority" of the Senate would approve it.

Prospects of sharp debate, however, appeared in the 11 to 7 margin by which the committee turned down one proposal. This was that none of the $3,750,000,000 loan be granted until Britain agrees to permanent United States ownership of wartime bases now held under a ninety-nine-year lease arrangement.

Four of the committee votes against the base transaction plan were case by proxies. The author of the proposal, Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz), took notice of these absentee votes in telling a reporter he would raise the issue again on the Senate floor.

Sen. Barkley told reporters the loan legislation would be called up for Senate action the first of next week and predicted that a week's consideration would precede a vote. Barkley, Democratic leader of the Senate, acted as chairman of the Banking committee during public hearings, in which testimony on the bill was almost wholly favorable.

The bill would set up a $3,750,000,000 credit which would be interest-free until 1951 and then carry an annual rate of two per cent.

Proponents have argued that without the loan, Britain would be forced into continuing restrictive world trade practices harmful to the United States and the rest of the world. They said the loan is needed to help Great Britain back on her feet and to expand world trade generally.

Opponents have called the loan unwise charity, a bad precedent for possibly other loans, and a mistaken attempt to buy good will. They also have recalled the non-payment of Britain's old World war debt.

The situation in France was laid before the Senate Foreign Relations committee today by Leon Blum, former premier and now a special envoy here.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said Blum had discussed a four-year French economic program which would "call for about $4,000,000,000" worth of United States goods.

Connally emphasized, however, that Blum asked for no specific loan but "simply explained what France needs" to modernize her industry.

Treasury officials have said that any loans beyond the proposed British credit would be handled by the government's export-import bank or the world bank to be set up under the Bretton Woods financial agreements.

11 Have Been Quizzed In Strangling of Girl

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 10—(AP)—Police Capt. William H. Peters, predicting an early "break" in the case, disclosed today that eleven persons, including five women, had been questioned in the slaying of Betty Jane Kennedy, 19, Hagerstown.

Capt. Peters said those questioned were released but added investigating authorities would interrogate a number of others, including a 17-year-old boy who he said was taken into custody early today.

Meanwhile, he said, further lie detector tests would be given to a taxi driver who is held for investigation. Peters said information gained in lie detector tests given the man yesterday justified police in holding him for further examination.

U. S. Does Not Plan Rationing Of Bread, Anderson Reports

New York Night Spot Offers "Sitter Service" To Parents of Babies

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — The shortage of baby sitters found a Manhattan night spot volunteering today to find someone to mind the youngsters while papa and mama have a night out.

Customers were invited to call the restaurant's "sitter service" which, at prevailing rates, will hire someone to stay with the baby while the folks wine, dine or attend the theater.

Britain Will Match Any Wheat-Saving Measures by United States

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said tonight the government does not contemplate rationing bread during the current wheat crisis but he did not rule out the possibility of limiting distribution of flour to bakers and retailers.

Anderson held a news conference shortly after an Agriculture department crop report indicated that supplies of wheat in this country may not be sufficient to meet export commitments and unrestricted domestic demands.

The secretary said it was essential for this country to follow through on wheat conservation measures to meet lagging exports to famine-stricken areas.

He would not say whether the government will issue an order designed to cut domestic consumption of flour twenty-five per cent until the new wheat crop is harvested.

He said yesterday he had instructed aides to draft such an order which would have the effect of rationing flour to bakers and retailers.

"I still feel that such limitations are desirable," he said, "but I don't know yet whether they would be workable."

The news conference was held after he returned from the White House where he and Stabilization Director Chester Bowles discussed the wheat and flour situation with President Truman.

Asked about a London announcement that the British cabinet had offered to ration bread if this country would do the same, Anderson said it appeared strange to him that the offer had not also been made to Canada, Australia and Argentina—other major wheat exporting countries.

"The circumstances that would make rationing workable in England are entirely different from conditions in the United States," he said. "It is much easier for a small nation, depending mostly on imports, to control the distribution of wheat than for a large nation like the United States which produces so much wheat over such a large area.

"Our most critical period in this country will be between now and the next harvest and it does not seem likely that we could put rationing into effect for a difficult commodi-

Tawes Raps OPA Milk Regulations; Urges Price Hike

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—In a sharp attack on OPA milk regulations, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said today that higher retail prices "perhaps three cents to four cents per quart" would avoid a potential breakdown of orderly milk marketing processes.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Lauraville Democratic Club, Tawes said Maryland's "great dairy farm business" was "being strangled to death by the OPA controls and regulations."

He said Maryland dairy farmers were unable to supply the Baltimore market "at current price levels." The farmers, he continued, wanted an opportunity to produce milk at "fair market prices" and the consumer "is willing and now able to pay a fair price."

A stimulus to production resources through higher market prices is necessary, he added, and "the only way this can be done is to modify the government regulations which now hamper the industry.

"In fairness to consumers, it is to be pointed out that until supply balances the demand factor, slightly higher prices, perhaps three cents to four cents per quart, probably would be effective."

Tawes said the federal government was subsidizing the milk bill and said the general public would

Reece Tells Hannegan How GOP Would Handle Nation's Problems

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The new Republican national chairman warmed up for the campaign today by telling his Democratic opposite, Robert E. Hannegan, how the GOP would handle the country's problems.

With heavy sarcasm, B. Carroll Reece, elected last week to the party post, replied to a demand from the Democratic chairman and postmaster general for a statement on "exactly where the Republican party stands."

Reece based his answers on the declaration adopted by GOP congressmen last December—and sent his letter by special messenger "instead of entrusting it to the mails."

Reece wrote Hannegan that he does not "conceive it to be the duty or function of the chairman of the national committee to formulate policy."

"Not being the product, or head, of a corrupt political machine," he continued in the letter made public by GOP headquarters, "I certainly do not conceive it to be the duty of the national chairman to attempt to 'purge' the party of duly elected members of the legislative branch who may refuse to jump through any hoop for an irresponsible bureaucracy."

He added a hope that "it will never be necessary for me to make a public apology to members of my party in Congress for having, through the official machinery of the national committee, questioned their honor or integrity."

This was a reference to a statement in a Democratic publication, disavowed by Hannegan, criticizing Democrats in the House who voted for the strike control bill by Rep. Case (R-SD).

Reece also took a crack at Hannegan's dual role of Democratic chairman and postmaster general. He said that Hannegan's letter of April 2 reached him "through the post office approximately fifteen hours after it had been released to the press." He acquitted Hannegan "of any intentional discourtesy" but

Schwellenbach Plans Meetings With Operators And Lewis Today

Government Intervenes after UMW Chief Walks Out of Parley

INDUSTRY SAYS LEWIS ENGAGES IN "TRIVIA"

Explosion Comes after Failure To Get Together on Issues

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—The government intervened in an attempt to revive collapsed coal strike negotiations tonight after John L. Lewis had jammed his hat on his head and walked out of the parley with a blast at the mine owners.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach announced that he had arranged to meet with Lewis and the operators tomorrow and try to get the negotiations resumed.

As Lewis took his walk, he growled to the operators that he trusts "time" will "modify your niggardly anti-social propensities."

The operators in turn challenged "the right of any labor organization to stall and play politics when a basic American industry is shut down." Their statement expressed hope that Lewis "will change his attitude and resume meetings."

The walkout of the United Mine Workers chief sent government officials scurrying to find a way of keeping the talks going. It was generally recognized that the ten-day-old coal strike, if prolonged, will confront the nation with perhaps its greatest postwar economic crisis. There was some expectation that Dr. John R. Steelman, special labor assistant to President Truman, might take an active hand.

Truman Opposes Seizure

Paul W. Fuller, special conciliator, went into a long huddle with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren. None of them would comment on the conference. Fuller said, however, that he understands the president does not want to seize the struck mines and that the union and the operators do not want a fact-finding board.

The operators wanted to consider wages and hours while Lewis insisted that they first commit themselves on a health and welfare fund and mine safety provisions.

Lewis exploded after he tried for the fourth time in the four weeks of negotiations, to get the operators to agree to report disagreement to the full bituminous joint wage conference. After a week's session of the full conference, beginning March 12, the negotiating committees went to work to make the contract.

Lewis's spokesman, K. C. Adams, editor of the UMW Journal, said that the mineworkers found the situation "useless and hopeless and that the operators would not discuss anything in a serious vein on the health and welfare and safety proposals."

Adams said the miners' committee "withdrew from the meeting until such time as the operators show evidence they are willing to meet and discuss these things which are just as important as wages and hours."

The operators later issued a statement declaring that Lewis "has brazenly refused to enter into any semblance of collective bargaining.

Draft of Atomic Bill Is Completed

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Legislation for the domestic control of atomic power received tentative approval of a special Senate committee today while calls for early action on international control came from other official sources.

Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn), of the Senate Atomic Energy committee, told reporters the committee agreed unanimously in closed sessions on all portions of the bill, "including the troublesome problem of the dissemination of information." Terms of the final draft will not be made public until tomorrow.

On the subject of international control, David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the State department's Committee on Atomic Energy, said agreement on control would be more difficult to reach after other nations possess the secret.

Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), Kilgore (D-Wash), Morse (R-Ore) and Fulbright (DArk) introduced a resolution calling for action by the United Nations on a proposal for international control.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—A House Military subcommittee approved a flat $400 a year pay increase for servicemen today and Rep. Harness (R-Ind) announced he would move to make it a basis for halting draft inductions.

"With a $400 increase, the army and navy will get enough volunteers so continued drafting will not be required," Harness told a reporter.

"Army spokesmen have told us they can get along for several months with a suspension of inductions and still have enough men. If they can do that and then we give them the pay raise to provide still more inducements for enlisting, they ought to be able to do without the draft at all."

Other committeemen contended, however, that additional enlistments which a pay increase would bring would be sufficient only to prevent the necessity for increasing the rate of draft inductions beyond its present level.

Harness predicted that the full Military committee will approve the $400 increase before the House takes up Friday the bill to continue the draft for nine months beyond its May 15 expiration date. He said he will offer on the floor his proposal to suspend inductions which the committee yesterday rejected.

The $400 a year increase would be paid to all officers and men in the army and navy. This would increase the pay of private, now $50 a month, to $98.38.

Senate Approves Veterans Housing Measure, 63 to 14

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, April 10. (AP)—A veterans housing bill designed to speed the construction of 2,700,000 new dwellings by the end of next year passed the Senate today and went back to the House for consideration of numerous amendments.

The Senate provided for $600,000,000 in subsidies on scarce building materials—an item denied by the House—but neither body gave its approval for the establishment of price ceilings on existing homes and building lands. Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt had laid great stress on the necessity for both those provisions.

Final approval came on a roll call vote of 63 to 14. Twelve Republicans and two Democrats voted against it.

While the veterans housing measure headed toward a conference with the House for adjustment of differences, the Senate made a long-range housing measure its unfinished business and will get down to work on that tomorrow.

Although the administration lost, 33 to 41, in its attempt to apply price ceilings on existing houses, it triumphed 50 to 25 in beating down an amendment by Sen. Buck (R-Del) which would have reduced the subsidy fund to $400,000,000.

By an even heavier majority—54 to 19—it crushed an effort by Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) to give veterans direct subsidies of five per cent on the purchase of old or new homes, with no veteran to get more than $500. Wherry proposed that a substitute for the building material subsidies, which the administration prefers to call "premium payments."

In a final flurry before the bill passed, Sen. Cordon (R-Ore) tried unsuccessfully to change the title of the bill, cutting out all reference to "veterans' emergency" legislation. Cordon contended the bill offered no special aid to veterans other than priority to buy new homes, but the Senate couldn't see it his way. The vote was 45 to 31.

Housewife Leads Diet Candidates In Jap Election

TOKYO, Thursday, April 11 (AP)—A 38-year-old housewife — whose husband was ousted from the Diet by Allied decree—today became the first candidate of either sex to be virtually assured of election to that body.

As incomplete returns from Japan's general election yesterday rolled in, Mrs. Satoko Togano, a candidate of the Japan People's party —a minor organization—had piled up 24,000 votes.

She is the wife of Takeshi Togano, former newspaperman and a member of ex-Premier Tojo's House of Representatives who was disqualified by Gen. MacArthur's purge of ultra-nationalists.

Mrs. Togano was the only woman candidate in Tochigi prefecture, about 100 miles north of Tokyo.

Exact bearing of the vote on immediate governmental affairs depends upon behind-the-scenes political deals. Japan, in transition, lacks a clear precedent for determining beforehand whether the cabinet will resign.

The Shidehara cabinet has been divided recently on the advisability of remaining in office after the first meeting of the new house, reportedly scheduled for May 10.

Tabulation began at 8 a. m., and it was yet too early to detect a trend for any of the four major parties seeking the 468 seats in the House of Representatives. The Conservative, Liberal and Progressive parties had been accorded pre-election favored position.

Already, however, some Japanese Communist leaders in talks with the Tokyo press were demanding another election, asserting that war-time population shifts had deprived many of their franchise.

A total vote of from sixty-five to seventy per cent was indicated in Tokyo, which if equalled by the rest of the nation would mean that 26,000,000 of the 36,000,000 eligible voters had gone to the polls.

That would be a slightly higher percentage than in the restricted election of 1937, although less than the 88 per cent which turned out under Tojo's pressure in 1942 when he sought to show the world Japan was solidly behind his war in the Pacific.

Fifty per cent of the women in Tokyo, eligible to vote for the first time in history, cast their ballots. This was twice as many as predicted by Japanese political experts, who also had forecast only a sixty per cent total vote in Tokyo.

Loan to Britain Receives Senate Group's Blessing

Barkley Predicts Approval; Prospects of Sharp Debate Appear

WASHINGTON, April 10 — The Senate Banking committee gave the proposed British loan a 14 to 5 blessing today and Sen. Barkley (D-Ky) predicted "a substantial majority" of the Senate would approve it.

Prospects of sharp debate, however, appeared in the 14 to 7 margin by which the committee turned down one proposal. This was that none of the $3,750,000,000 loan be granted until Britain agrees to permanent United States ownership of wartime bases now held under a ninety-nine-year lease arrangement.

Four of the committee votes against the base transaction plan were case by proxies. The author of the proposal, Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz), took notice of these absentee votes in telling a reporter he would raise the issue again on the Senate floor.

Sen. Barkley told reporters the loan legislation would be called up for Senate action the first of next week and predicted that a week's consideration would precede a vote. Barkley, Democratic leader of the Senate, acted as chairman of the Banking committee during public hearings, in which testimony on the bill was almost wholly favorable.

The bill would set up a $3,750,000,000 credit which would be interest-free until 1951 and then carry an annual rate of two per cent.

Proponents have argued that without the loan, Britain would be forced into continuing restrictive world trade practices harmful to the United States and the rest of the world. They said the loan is needed to help Great Britain back on her feet and to expand world trade generally.

Opponents have called the loan unwise charity, a bad precedent for possibly other loans, and a mistaken attempt to buy good will. They also have recalled the non-payment of Britain's old World war debt.

The situation in France was laid before the Senate Foreign Relations committee today by Leon Blum, former premier and now a special envoy here.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said Blum had discussed a four-year French economic program which would "call for about $4,000,000,000" worth of United States goods.

Connally emphasized, however, that Blum asked for no specific loan but "simply explained what France needs" to modernize her industry.

Treasury officials have said that any loans beyond the proposed British credit would be handled by the government's export-import bank or the world bank to be set up under the Bretton Woods financial agreements.

11 Have Been Quizzed In Strangling of Girl

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 10—(AP)—Police Capt. William H. Peters, predicting an early "break" in the case, disclosed today that eleven persons, including five women, had been questioned in the slaying of Betty Jane Kennedy, 19, Hagerstown.

Capt. Peters said those questioned were released but added investigating authorities would interrogate a number of others, including a 17-year-old boy who he said was taken into custody early today.

Meanwhile, he said, further lie detector tests would be given to a taxi driver who is held for investigation. Peters said information gained in lie detector tests given the man yesterday justified police in holding him for further examination.

U. S. Does Not Plan Rationing Of Bread, Anderson Reports

New York Night Spot Offers "Sitter Service" To Parents of Babies

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — The shortage of baby sitters found a Manhattan night spot volunteering today to find someone to mind the youngsters while papa and mama have a night out.

Customers were invited to call the restaurant's "sitter service" which, at prevailing rates, will hire someone to stay with the baby while the folks wine, dine or attend the theater.

Britain Will Match Any Wheat-Saving Measures by United States

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said tonight the government does not contemplate rationing bread during the current wheat crisis but he did not rule out the possibility of limiting distribution of flour to bakers and retailers.

Anderson held a news conference shortly after an Agriculture department crop report indicated that supplies of wheat in this country may not be sufficient to meet export commitments and unrestricted domestic demands.

The secretary said it was essential for this country to follow through on wheat conservation measures to meet lagging exports to famine-stricken areas.

He would not say whether the government will issue an order designed to cut domestic consumption of flour twenty-five per cent until the new wheat crop is harvested.

He said yesterday he had instructed aides to draft such an order which would have the effect of rationing flour to bakers and retailers.

"I still feel that such limitations are desirable," he said, "but I don't know yet whether they would be workable."

The news conference was held after he returned from the White House where he and Stabilization Director Chester Bowles discussed the wheat and flour situation with President Truman.

Asked about a London announcement that the British cabinet had offered to ration bread if this country would do the same, Anderson said it appeared strange to him that the offer had not also been made to Canada, Australia and Argentina—other major wheat exporting countries.

"The circumstances that would make rationing workable in England are entirely different from conditions in the United States," he said. "It is much easier for a small nation, depending mostly on imports, to control the distribution of wheat than for a large nation like the United States which produces so much wheat over such a large area.

"Our most critical period in this country will be between now and the next harvest and it does not seem likely that we could put rationing into effect for a difficult commodi-

Tawes Raps OPA Milk Regulations; Urges Price Hike

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—In a sharp attack on OPA milk regulations, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said today that higher retail prices "perhaps three cents to four cents per quart" would avoid a potential breakdown of orderly milk marketing processes.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Lauraville Democratic Club, Tawes said Maryland's "great dairy farm business" was "being strangled to death by the OPA controls and regulations."

He said Maryland dairy farmers were unable to supply the Baltimore market "at current price levels." The farmers, he continued, wanted an opportunity to produce milk at "fair market prices" and the consumer "is willing and now able to pay a fair price."

A stimulus to production resources through higher market prices is necessary, he added, and "the only way this can be done is to modify the government regulations which now hamper the industry.

"In fairness to consumers, it is to be pointed out that until supply balances the demand factor, slightly higher prices, perhaps three cents to four cents per quart, probably would be effective."

Tawes said the federal government was subsidizing the milk bill and said the general public would

Reece Tells Hannegan How GOP Would Handle Nation's Problems

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The new Republican national chairman warmed up for the campaign today by telling his Democratic opposite, Robert E. Hannegan, how the GOP would handle the country's problems.

With heavy sarcasm, B. Carroll Reece, elected last week to the party post, replied to a demand from the Democratic chairman and postmaster general for a statement on "exactly where the Republican party stands."

Reece based his answers on the declaration adopted by GOP congressmen last December—and sent his letter by special messenger "instead of entrusting it to the mails."

Reece wrote Hannegan that he does not "conceive it to be the duty or function of the chairman of the national committee to formulate policy."

"Not being the product, or head, of a corrupt political machine," he continued in the letter made public by GOP headquarters, "I certainly do not conceive it to be the duty of the national chairman to attempt to 'purge' the party of duly elected members of the legislative branch who may refuse to jump through any hoop for an irresponsible bureaucracy."

He added a hope that "it will never be necessary for me to make a public apology to members of my party in Congress for having, through the official machinery of the national committee, questioned their honor or integrity."

This was a reference to a statement in a Democratic publication, disavowed by Hannegan, criticizing Democrats in the House who voted for the strike control bill by Rep. Case (R-SD).

Reece also took a crack at Hannegan's dual role of Democratic chairman and postmaster general. He said that Hannegan's letter of April 2 reached him "through the post office approximately fifteen hours after it had been released to the press." He acquitted Hannegan "of any intentional discourtesy" but

Government Intervenes after UMW Chief Walks Out of Parley

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—The government intervened in an attempt to revive collapsed coal strike negotiations tonight after John L. Lewis had jammed his hat on his head and walked out of the parley with a blast at the mine owners.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach announced that he had arranged to meet with Lewis and the operators tomorrow and try to get the negotiations resumed.

As Lewis took his walk, he growled to the operators that he trusts "time" will "modify your niggardly anti-social propensities."

The operators in turn challenged "the right of any labor organization to stall and play politics when a basic American industry is shut down." Their statement expressed hope that Lewis "will change his attitude and resume meetings."

The walkout of the United Mine Workers chief sent government officials scurrying to find a way of keeping the talks going. It was generally recognized that the ten-day-old coal strike, if prolonged, will confront the nation with perhaps its greatest postwar economic crisis. There was some expectation that Dr. John R. Steelman, special labor assistant to President Truman, might take an active hand.

Truman Opposes Seizure

Paul W. Fuller, special conciliator, went into a long huddle with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren. None of them would comment on the conference. Fuller said, however, that he understands the president does not want to seize the struck mines and that the union and the operators do not want a fact-finding board.

The operators wanted to consider wages and hours while Lewis insisted that they first commit themselves on a health and welfare fund and mine safety provisions.

Lewis exploded after he tried for the fourth time in the four weeks of negotiations, to get the operators to agree to report disagreement to the full bituminous joint wage conference. After a week's session of the full conference, beginning March 12, the negotiating committees went to work to make the contract.

Lewis's spokesman, K. C. Adams, editor of the UMW Journal, said that the mineworkers found the situation "useless and hopeless and that the operators would not discuss anything in a serious vein on the health and welfare and safety proposals."

Adams said the miners' committee "withdrew from the meeting until such time as the operators show evidence they are willing to meet and discuss these things which are just as important as wages and hours."

The operators later issued a statement declaring that Lewis "has brazenly refused to enter into any semblance of collective bargaining.

Draft of Atomic Bill Is Completed

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP) — Legislation for the domestic control of atomic power received tentative approval of a special Senate committee today while calls for early action on international control came from other official sources.

Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn), of the Senate Atomic Energy committee, told reporters the committee agreed unanimously in closed sessions on all portions of the bill, "including the troublesome problem of the dissemination of information." Terms of the final draft will not be made public until tomorrow.

On the subject of international control, David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the State department's Committee on Atomic Energy, said agreement on control would be more difficult to reach after other nations possess the secret.

Sen. Mitchell (D-Wash), Kilgore (D-Wash), Morse (R-Ore) and Fulbright (DArk) introduced a resolution calling for action by the United Nations on a proposal for international control.

Senators Learn Nylon Will Be Scarce for Year

CPA Official Tells of "Hysterical Buying" of Hose by Women

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 10. (AP)—Senators had a look at the nylon situation today and learned:

(A) It's bad, and

(B) It isn't likely to get any better for at least a year.

Maj. Herbert Rose, of the Civilian Production Administration, told a Senate special committee on small business that he thinks nylon will be scarce until a new plant is completed next spring.

But he said he thinks women could get by easily on the hose made now if they just would stop this "hysterical buying."

"Every woman in the country seems to want to get a year's supply of nylons," he said.

Rose said 54,000,000 pairs of hose are made each month, about the same as were produced throughout the war. Of these, 30,000,000 are nylons, 20,000,000 are rayon and 4,000,000 pairs are wool and cotton.

According to Rose, present production could supply each woman in the country with a new pair of nylons every two months and new pair of rayons every three months.

Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) said he realizes that there is no way to increase the immediate nylon supply, but why aren't more rayon hose being produced.

Rose replied that the rayon people feel certain that once the nylon supply is adequate, they won't be able to sell rayon stockings any more.

"They prefer to concentrate on other things," he said, "on things that will be their permanent market.

"What things?" asked Wherry.

"Intimate wearing apparel," replied Rose shyly.

"Mr. Rose," said Wherry, leaning forward, "just what is intimate wearing apparel?"

Rose's bald head got quite red as he said:

"Slips, panties, All, all kinds of things."

"That type of goods is short, too, isn't it?" asked Wherry.

"Yes," said Rose.

Oh, well, girls, don't fret too much. Warm weather is coming.

EX-GI SAYS HE WAS FORCED TO MARRY AT POINT OF PISTOL

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Charging he had been forced to marry a divorcee at the point of her policeman-brother's pistol, ex-GI William V. Steppe filed suit in state circuit court today for an annulment.

Steppe said he had met his wife, the former Mrs. Katherine Martin, Augusta, Ga., while stationed at an army camp near North Augusta, S. C., and that she had proposed to him two months after her divorce. He said that when he refused here, pointing out he was about to be sent overseas, she called her brother.

The policeman, he declared, brandished his revolver and declared "there's going to be a military wedding or a military funeral." Then he marched the pair off to a judge, who married them while the brother stood by with his hand on the holster at his hip, Steppe said.

Fitch Criticizes Sima's Sentence as "Inadequate"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10 (AP)—A sentence of six months' probation imposed today on Musician First Class William R. Sima, Jr., was criticized as "totally inadequate" by Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, naval academy superintendent, in the official announcement of the court-martial findings.

Sima, a naval academy bandsman, was found guilty by a summary court-martial of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline by introducing his wife to an all-night party February 9-10 in the quarters of negro Chief Steward Walter W. Rollins at the North Severn Officers' Club.

Sima's father, Lt. William R. Sima, suspended naval academy band leader, Rollins, and Musician First Class Ernest Tamanio, another bandsman, are still under detention as a result of an investigation into alleged irregularities.

President Reiterates Stand on Wage Bill

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—President Truman made it clear today he has not changed his mind—he will veto the minimum wage bill if it comes to him carrying a formula to hike farm prices.

The formula, requiring that farm labor costs be included in arriving at parity prices, was tacked on by the Senate when it voted to raise the forty-cent minimum wage to sixty-five cents, with a gradual rise to seventy-five.

Rep. Outland (D-Calif), chairman of a special House Steering committee pushing the wage bill, told reporters after a White House call that the president urged the group to fight for passage without "crippling amendments" and reported that he would veto it if it carried the Senate's parity amendment.

Man Dies in Plane Crash near Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 10 (AP)—George White, 36, son of the Rev. and Mrs. D. C. White, St. James, was killed today in the crash of a small airplane in a field a few miles from his home.

White was alone in a plane owned by the Thunderbird Flying Club of Hagerstown. The ship dived into a wheat field about a mile from Lappan's Crossing and nosed over. White was crushed inside.

The sheriff's office ordered an investigation of the accident and the Civil Aeronautics Board said it was sending an investigator.

White House Easter Egg Rolling Is Out

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—There will be no Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn this year, an annual event for children suspended since Pearl Harbor.

The White House announced today that President Truman has decided the waste of eggs that would result "would not be consistent with the effort to feed starving millions."

Jail-Conducted Business Story Amazes Probers

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—A congressional committee heard more today about the story that a prisoner did business from the district jail.

Supt. Claude O. Botkin told the committee, inquiring into recent escapes from the jail, that a jail employe was dismissed in 1944 for "accepting gratuities" from a prisoner who had been described as conducting a war contracts business from his cell.

He told the committee the prisoner was James G. Fuller who, the committee was informed yesterday, had formed Engineers Group, Inc., with another prisoner while in jail.

Botkin said his investigation showed Fuller was taken out of the jail on at least two occasions by the discharged assistant.

Fuller and others, including Rep. Curley (D-Mass), also mayor of Boston, were convicted on mail fraud charges recently in connection with transactions of Engineers Group, Inc.

The subcommittee heard about the jail-conducted business yesterday from Howard B. Gill, suspended as prison superintendent after a series of escapes a few months ago.

Gill amazed the congressmen with a story of business enterprises run from the jail, of liquor imported by inmates by the case for gambling parties and that on one occasion, two out-of-town models had been entertained.

Botkin told the committee that he and two others had made an investigation in 1943 and has submitted a report to Ray L. Huff, public welfare director and that a jail employe subsequently was discharged.

Asked by a congressman if his 1943 investigation revealed "parties or orgies in the jail," Botkin said: "No. I remember mention of two women who visited one of the prisoners but the only mention of models' visits to the jail was the unsupported statement made by Fuller's partner, whose memorandum was read yesterday. The investigators never did establish there were either drinking bouts or models at the jail."

Viscose Workers Reject Increase

WILMINGTON, Del., April 10 (AP)—A spokesman for American Viscose Corporation said tonight the company had been informed by the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) that locals at all seven company plants had rejected a company wage increase proposal.

The spokesman said the company offer was an increase of five cents an hour plus an additional three cents an hour, two per cent of which would go to hospital and surgical benefits and one per cent of which would go to liberalization of the pension plan.

The union is demanding a flat eight-cents-an-hour increase for its 17,000 workers in the company's plants at Meadville, Lewistown and Marcus Hook, Pa., Parkersburg and Nitro, W. Va., and Front Royal and Roanoke, Va.

The union informed the company the dispute would now be referred to the United States Conciliation Service and the federal Wage Stabilization Board, the spokesman reported.

He said the company had offered wage increases totaling 18.77 per cent since V-J day, including a ten-cents-an-hour increase granted last December.

Schwellenbach

Instead, he has engaged in time-killing trivia with the obvious intent of stalling negotiations and creating a national crisis."

"Exaggerated" Charges

They said that Lewis "presented a series of exaggerated and unfounded charges against the coal operators concerning alleged lack of safety in the mines as a buildup for a huge levy called a 'welfare fund' which was to be a royalty charge on coal to be paid into the union treasury for its unchecked use."

"The operators rejected the royalty proposal as unsound and un-American," the statement continued, "and that rejection must stand as final."

They recalled their offers for "joint exploration and consideration of a plan to create by joint contributions a reasonable fund" to be administered by an independent agency like the Red Cross, and "to work out jointly a union set of (safety) standards to be recommended to state legislatures."

The statement added that the operators "do not believe that collective bargaining consists of blindly accepting so-called principles arbitrarily laid down by Mr. Lewis and his union."

Lewis, before departing, made this declaration to the operators:

"For four weeks we have sat with you; we attended when you fixed the hour; we departed when weariness affected your pleasure.

"Our effort to resolve mutual questions has been vain; you have been intolerant of suggestions and impatient of analysis.

"When we sought surcease from bloodletting, you professed indifference; when we cried aloud for the safety of our numbers you answered—be content—'twas always thus!

"When we urged that you abate a stench you averred that your nostrils were not offended.

"Priority of Profits"

"When we emphasized the importance of life you pleaded the priority of profits; when we spoke of little children in unkempt surroundings you said—look to the state!

"You aver that you own the mines; we suggest that, as yet, you do not own the people.

"You profess annoyance at our temerity; we condemn your imbecility.

"You are smug in your complacency; we are abashed by your shamelessness; you prate of your respectability; we are shocked at your lack of public morality.

"You scorn the toils, the abstinence and the perils of the miner; we withhold approval of your luxurious mode of life and the nights you spend in merriment.

"You invert the natural order of things and charge to the public the pleasures of your own indolence; we denounce the senseless cupidity that withholds from the miner the rewards of honorable and perilous exertion.

"To cavil further is futile. We trust that time, as it shrinks your purse, may modify your niggardly and anti-social propensities."

Late Sports

Maryland Shades Quantico Marines

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 10 (AP) — The University of Maryland came from behind today to nose out the Quantico marine baseball team 10-9.

The Marines went ahead at the start, scoring twice each in the first and second innings, but Maryland evened matters with three markers in the second and one in the third. The visitors stayed ahead from the fourth inning but the Terps shoved across four runs in the eighth and nipped a Quantico rally in the ninth to take the victory.

Long-distance hitting marked the contest. Gleasner, Maryland catcher, polled a home run and a triple, while Brown, of Maryland, and Hugger, of Quantico, contributed a homer and a double apiece. The other players clouted two-baggers.

Coach Is Optimistic About Maryland's Football Prospects

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 10 (AP)—With one week left in the spring training for the University of Maryland football team, Coach Clark Shaughnessy is optimistic about prospects for 1946.

Although the players are "a little light," Shaughnessy said the spring workout had been satisfactory and that great strides had been made.

"I think we'll do well next fall," he said.

Maryland is expected to be particularly strong at fullback, with Jack (Reds) Wright and Joe Pokorny after the job, and Shaughnessy predicted that Tommy Mont, who is expected back at the university, would be as good a quarterback as there is in the country.

Tar Heel Cage Coach Is Reported in Line For Annapolis Post

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., April 10—(AP)—Reports on the University of North Carolina campus today said Ben Carnevale, Tar Heel mentor, was among those being considered for the head basketball coaching position at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Carnevale declined comment other than to say that he had not been offered the position.

Carnevale coached the Tar Heel basketball team to a Southern Conference title last year and to the N.C.A.A. eastern championship in New York last month.

New Industrial Plastic Withstands Acids and 575-Degree Temperature

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 10 (AP)—A new industrial plastic, described as resistant to corrosion by strong acids and capable of withstanding temperatures up to 575 degrees, was announced to the American Chemical Society today.

Chemists also were told of the experimental development of a new synthetic rubber which "bounces higher than present synthetic rubber (and) can be stretched more."

The new plastic, which already has had previously-undisclosed military use as an insulating material in jet engines and applications in radar and television, was announced by the du Pont Company which declared "it is the only plastic that will stand up under the high temperatures to which it is subjected."

The material conceivably would be useful to industry in applications requiring unusual resistance to solvents, heat endurance and insulation against high electrical frequencies.

No substance has been found which will dissolve or even swell the plastic, it was said. It withstands acids which dissolve gold and platinum and hot sulphuric acid, fuming nitric acid and boiling sodium hydroxide failed to affect the material which is transparent when thin, white or gray-colored when thick.

The report on the new synthetic rubber was made by Dr. Charles Fryling, of the Phillips Petroleum Company, Phillips, Texas.

He declared a technique had been developed experimentally for making rubber by combining isoprene—a material resembling gasoline—with styrne, one of the main constituents of previously announced synthetic rubbers.

"This new synthetic rubber," he said, "now appears very promising. x x x It can be bent about four times as much (as present synthetic rubber) before it breaks.

"The indications are that isoprene rubber will become a 'specialty' rubber to be used where the present types of synthetic rubber are not quite good enough."

Spain "makes the application of this provision imperative."

The letter pointed out that the paragraph cited "provides that the United Nations Organization shall insure that states not members of the United Nations act in accordance with the principles of the organization so far as may be necessary for the maintenance of international peace and security."

United Nations observers said that if this article was followed to its logical conclusion the United Nations could bring the force of its international police body to bear against any country which the United Nations decided was a threat to world peace. It was not considered likely that the Spanish issue would be carried that far at the present time, especially since the United Nations police body has not yet begun functioning.

The Polish embassy in London, which announced last Saturday that Poland would file the case against Spain, upset the possible tone for Dr. Lange's demands when it said that Poland favored the United Nations breaking off relations with Spain.

U. S. Position

The official United States position thus far, as laid down in State department notes on Spain, is that the situation is an internal one for the Spanish people to handle.

While the British profess no love for the Franco regime, they have sided with the Americans in a reluctance to have the United Nations interfere in the Spanish domestic problem—that is, unless any new evidence is brought up to show that Franco is endangering world peace.

A source close to the Brazilian delegate, Pedro Leao Velloso, said that Brazil would favor postponing discussion.

On the Iranian case, there were indications from various delegations that the majority would line up beside the United States and Britain in retaining the case on the agenda, especially in view of a letter from Hessein Ala, the Iranian envoy, to the council yesterday in which he asked that the council reject the Russian demand.

Iran Has Sent Ala No New Instructions

TEHRAN, April 10 (AP)—Propaganda Minister Prince Mozaffar Firouz said today "the Iranian government did not consider it necessary, in view of the joint Soviet-Iranian communique of last week, to give any further instructions to its representative in Washington" regarding retention of Iran's case on the United Nations Security Council agenda.

His statement was made in reply to a question whether Ambassador Hussein Ala had been authorized by Premier Ahmed Qavam to ask that the council keep the case.

"No official information as to what steps our representative has taken has been received," he said. "Our only information has been received from radio reports."

(In New York, a spokesman for Ala said the ambassador had acted on instructions when he filed his letter with the Security council yesterday. The spokesman declined to say precisely when the instructions were received).

agree to higher prices "once they fully understand that if the current trend continues, a drastic shortage of milk is inevitable."

This, the gubernatorial aspirant said, "could well be the cause of a complete breakdown of orderly marketing processes. This would cause a sharp and drastic increase in the price of retail milk."

Between dairy farmer and consumer, he continued "stands OPA which sponsors a program completely in conflict with all aspects of free enterprise, in conflict with the proven laws of supply and demands and with a program loaded with the elements of paternalism so repugnant that thinking consumers, to whom OPA chiefly appeals, recognize the unsoundness thereof."

"As governor of Maryland," Tawes declared, "it will be my firm purpose to assert again the constitutional rights of the states." He said present conditions required continuance of some war controls "but it is the bureaucratic approach of which I complain.

"To me, it seems that certain elements have wormed their way into the Washington government and they are moving to destroy rather than to aid private business enterprise."

"thought that if perchance you can, some time, find him engaged in his public duties you might wish to mention it to the postmaster general."

On the specific questions mentioned by Hannegan in demanding a statement of Republican position, Reece gave these replies:

Inflation—The GOP "proposes to avoid inflation by allowing the productive genius of America to provide the commodities which the people need."

Housing—"It would enact legislation designed actually to produce houses. It would put an end to the administration's attempt to deceive the people into thinking they are getting somehing for nothing when their government takes money from them with one hand and gives less back with the other."

Strikes—Reece cited the December declaration that a contract "must be equally binding" on labor and management and opposing "willful violence or unlawful destruction of property."

Defense—The declaration for an "army, navy and air force adequate to meet any emergency" with "adequate reserves of trained men" was recalled.

Health insurance — Republicans favor "any program which will, in fact, raise the health standards" but will not "support proposals which would make American citizens human guinea pigs for experimentation by a federal bureaucracy."

British loan — Since Republicans were not consulted when the agreement was formulated, "the respsonsibility rests with the administration to justify this proposal."

Soviet spokesman here against the Franco regime in Spain.

Novikov is a stocky man of middle height with light brown, thinning hair. He wears thick glasses with heavy, black rims. Although quiet, soft-spoken and even shy on occasions, he has enjoyed cordial relations with State department officials and other diplomats.

One veteran diplomat tonight described him as "a good guy—pleasant and easy to get along with, and with a lot of intelligence."

When Novikov formally presents his credentials to President Truman, it will not be the first time he has assumed the rank of ambassador.

While serving as Soviet minister to Egypt in 1943-44, he also became ambassador to the Greek and Yugoslav governments-in-exile, which then were located in Cairo.

Between 1942 and 1943 he worked in the Soviet foreign office and served as director consecutively of the Near Eastern, Balkans and so-called "Fourth European" departments.

Eight Railroads Seek Injunction Against ICC Order

PITTSBURGH, April 10. (AP)—A permanent injunction against an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling reducing rates on soft coal shipments from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and parts of West Virginia to the Youngstown, O., district, was being sought today by eight railroads in federal court here. The new rates are effective May 1.

The injunction petition, filed jointly, covers all-rail shipments and hauling in which the coal moves first by river barge and is then transferred to the railroads.

The ICC, in its order October 2, 1945, reduced all rail rates from the Leetonia district to Youngstown, ninety-four to eighty-nine cents a ton; all rail rates from Indianola and Russelton, Pa., to Youngstown, Warren, Niles, Struthers and Lowellville, O., from $1.44 to $1.32 a ton and from the Pittsburgh district to these Ohio points from $1.44 to $1.37 a ton.

Coal shipped by barge and rail from Conway and Colona, Pa. was reduced from ninety (in the case of Warren and Niles) to eighty cents a ton.

The ICC ruling followed complaints by Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, and the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association that the rates were unjust and unreasonable.

The railroads asked that three judges, one a circuit court judge, sit to hear the petition.

Coal Strike Makes 2,000 More Idle

PITTSBURGH, April 10 (AP)—Two steel corporations and two railroads today announced furloughing of another 2,000 employes as a result of the ten-day-old strike of 400,000 AFL-United Mine Workers.

The curtailment will bring to about 24,000 the number of workers in allied industries made idle by the coal strike.

The United States Steel Corporation, which already has a total of 15,000 idle or working part-time at its Pittsburgh and Chicago area mills, said open hearth furnaces and bar and blooming mill operations at its Vandergrift, Pa., plant would halt this weekend. From 600 to 700 employes of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, "Big Steel" subsidiary which operates the plant, will be idled.

The Illinois Central System railroad shops at Paducah, Ky., announced 1,200 employes will be furloughed "indefinitely" Saturday because of a business letdown caused by the coal strike.

The Columbia Steel Company at Ironton, Utah, furloughed twelve workers and the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad 150. The latter were principally crewmen not needed because coal trains aren't operating.

Some 7,000 employes of railroads, trucking firms and small steel plants are also idle in the Pittsburgh district.

Anderson said that the government, nevertheless, is prepared to take any steps necessary to restrict use of wheat in this country enough to meet government export goals. He added he was confident that this could be done without rationing.

Commenting on the department's crop report, Anderson said that the "wheat situation is not so tight as some had feared."

The report, issued by the crop reporting board of the Agriculture department, predicted a record harvest of winter wheat this year, but its figures indicated supplies may be only three quarters of the amount needed for domestic and foreign commitments.

The crop report predicted 830,636,000 bushels on winter wheat will be produced compared with 823,177,000 last year and with 618,019,000 for the 1935-44 ten-year average. No forecast was made on spring wheat, inasmuch as only part of this crop has been planted. Winter wheat was planted last fall.

Britain Will Follow U. S. Lead on Bread Rationing

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—Britain will ration bread if the United States agrees to do the same, or will match any measures by the United States to save wheat and flour for people facing starvation and death, the cabinet announced tonight.

A formal cabinet statement after a special meeting declared "the needs of the UNRRA countries are undoubtedly great, largely because the supplies which the United States hope to export during the current month fall considerably below expectations."

In Washington, a high official of the United States Department of Agriculture said "it would take ninety days to inaugurate bread rationing here, and the emergency is for the next seventy-five days."

He said the department was anxious to do all possible to assist in the food emergency, but emphasized that it did not consider an attempt to ration bread in the United States a solution to the problem.

Five building permits calling for $6,900 worth of construction have been issued at the city engineer's office in the past two days.

Enthusiasm Is Shown At Series of Revivals In South Cumberland

A series of enthusiastic revival services are currently being held at the Salvation Army outpost, 511 Virginia avenue, with the Rev. Paul W. Long serving as the guest evangelist.

The Rev. Mr. Long comes from East Liverpool, O., and is widely noted as an old-fashioned "fire and brimstone" evangelist.

The series of services opened Tuesday evening. A feature of the meetings has been the numbers by the Salvation Army choir, band and quartet. A special trio provided music at last night's service.

The Rev. Mr. Long's topic at last night's service was "There Were Other Little Ships," with his sermon being built around the story of the calming of the seas.

Senators Learn Nylon Will Be Scarce for Year

CPA Official Tells of "Hysterical Buying" of Hose by Women

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 10. (AP)—Senators had a look at the nylon situation today and learned:

(A) It's bad, and

(B) It isn't likely to get any better for at least a year.

Maj. Herbert Rose, of the Civilian Production Administration, told a Senate special committee on small business that he thinks nylon will be scarce until a new plant is completed next spring.

But he said he thinks women could get by easily on the hose made now if they just would stop this "hysterical buying."

"Every woman in the country seems to want to get a year's supply of nylons," he said.

Rose said 54,000,000 pairs of hose are made each month, about the same as were produced throughout the war. Of these, 30,000,000 are nylons, 20,000,000 are rayon and 4,000,000 pairs are wool and cotton.

According to Rose, present production could supply each woman in the country with a new pair of nylons every two months and new pair of rayons every three months.

Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) said he realizes that there is no way to increase the immediate nylon supply, but why aren't more rayon hose being produced.

Rose replied that the rayon people feel certain that once the nylon supply is adequate, they won't be able to sell rayon stockings any more.

"They prefer to concentrate on other things," he said, "on things that will be their permanent market.

"What things?" asked Wherry.

"Intimate wearing apparel," replied Rose shyly.

"Mr. Rose," said Wherry, leaning forward, "just what is intimate wearing apparel?"

Rose's bald head got quite red as he said:

"Slips, panties, All, all kinds of things."

"That type of goods is short, too, isn't it?" asked Wherry.

"Yes," said Rose.

Oh, well, girls, don't fret too much. Warm weather is coming.

EX-GI SAYS HE WAS FORCED TO MARRY AT POINT OF PISTOL

BALTIMORE, April 10 (AP)—Charging he had been forced to marry a divorcee at the point of her policeman-brother's pistol, ex-GI William V. Steppe filed suit in state circuit court today for an annulment.

Steppe said he had met his wife, the former Mrs. Katherine Martin, Augusta, Ga., while stationed at an army camp near North Augusta, S. C., and that she had proposed to him two months after her divorce. He said that when he refused here, pointing out he was about to be sent overseas, she called her brother.

The policeman, he declared, brandished his revolver and declared "there's going to be a military wedding or a military funeral." Then he marched the pair off to a judge, who married them while the brother stood by with his hand on the holster at his hip, Steppe said.

Fitch Criticizes Sima's Sentence as "Inadequate"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10 (AP)—A sentence of six months' probation imposed today on Musician First Class William R. Sima, Jr., was criticized as "totally inadequate" by Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, naval academy superintendent, in the official announcement of the court-martial findings.

Sima, a naval academy bandsman, was found guilty by a summary court-martial of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline by introducing his wife to an all-night party February 9-10 in the quarters of negro Chief Steward Walter W. Rollins at the North Severn Officers' Club.

Sima's father, Lt. William R. Sima, suspended naval academy band leader, Rollins, and Musician First Class Ernest Tamanio, another bandsman, are still under detention as a result of an investigation into alleged irregularities.

President Reiterates Stand on Wage Bill

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—President Truman made it clear today he has not changed his mind—he will veto the minimum wage bill if it comes to him carrying a formula to hike farm prices.

The formula, requiring that farm labor costs be included in arriving at parity prices, was tacked on by the Senate when it voted to raise the forty-cent minimum wage to sixty-five cents, with a gradual rise to seventy-five.

Rep. Outland (D-Calif), chairman of a special House Steering committee pushing the wage bill, told reporters after a White House call that the president urged the group to fight for passage without "crippling amendments" and reported that he would veto it if it carried the Senate's parity amendment.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 10 (AP)—George White, 36, son of the Rev. and Mrs. D. C. White, St. James, was killed today in the crash of a small airplane in a field a few miles from his home.

White was alone in a plane owned by the Thunderbird Flying Club of Hagerstown. The ship dived into a wheat field about a mile from Lappan's Crossing and nosed over. White was crushed inside.

White House Easter Egg Rolling Is Out

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—There will be no Easter egg rolling on the White House lawn this year, an annual event for children suspended since Pearl Harbor.

The White House announced today that President Truman has decided the waste of eggs that would result "would not be consistent with the effort to feed starving millions."

Jail-Conducted Business Story Amazes Probers

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—A congressional committee heard more today about the story that a prisoner did business from the district jail.

Supt. Claude O. Botkin told the committee, inquiring into recent escapes from the jail, that a jail employe was dismissed in 1944 for "accepting gratuities" from a prisoner who had been described as conducting a war contracts business from his cell.

He told the committee the prisoner was James G. Fuller who, the committee was informed yesterday, had formed Engineers Group, Inc., with another prisoner while in jail.

Botkin said his investigation showed Fuller was taken out of the jail on at least two occasions by the discharged assistant.

Fuller and others, including Rep. Curley (D-Mass), also mayor of Boston, were convicted on mail fraud charges recently in connection with transactions of Engineers Group, Inc.

The subcommittee heard about the jail-conducted business yesterday from Howard B. Gill, suspended as prison superintendent after a series of escapes a few months ago.

Gill amazed the congressmen with a story of business enterprises run from the jail, of liquor imported by inmates by the case for gambling parties and that on one occasion, two out-of-town models had been entertained.

Botkin told the committee that he and two others had made an investigation in 1943 and has submitted a report to Ray L. Huff, public welfare director and that a jail employe subsequently was discharged.

Asked by a congressman if his 1943 investigation revealed "parties or orgies in the jail," Botkin said:

"No. I remember mention of two women who visited one of the prisoners but the only mention of models' visits to the jail was the unsupported statement made by Fuller's partner, whose memorandum was read yesterday. The investigators never did establish there were either drinking bouts or models at the jail."

Viscose Workers Reject Increase

WILMINGTON, Del., April 10 (AP)—A spokesman for American Viscose Corporation said tonight the company had been informed by the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) that locals at all seven company plants had rejected a company wage increase proposal.

The spokesman said the company offer was an increase of five cents an hour plus an additional three cents an hour, two per cent of which would go to hospital and surgical benefits and one per cent of which would go to liberalization of the pension plan.

The union is demanding a flat eight-cents-an-hour increase for its 17,000 workers in the company's plants at Meadville, Lewistown and Marcus Hook, Pa., Parkersburg and Nitro, W. Va., and Front Royal and Roanoke, Va.

The union informed the company the dispute would now be referred to the United States Conciliation Service and the federal Wage Stabilization Board, the spokesman reported.

He said the company had offered wage increases totaling 18.77 per cent since V-J day, including a ten-cents-an-hour increase granted last December.

"Exaggerated" Charges

They said that Lewis "presented a series of exaggerated and unfounded charges against the coal operators concerning alleged lack of safety in the mines as a buildup for a huge levy called a 'welfare fund' which was to be a royalty charge on coal to be paid into the union treasury for its unchecked use."

"The operators rejected the royalty proposal as unsound and un-American," the statement continued, "and that rejection must stand as final."

They recalled their offers for "joint exploration and consideration of a plan to create by joint contributions a reasonable fund" to be administered by an independent agency like the Red Cross, and "to work out jointly a union set of (safety) standards to be recommended to state legislatures."

The statement added that the operators "do not believe that collective bargaining consists of blindly accepting so-called principles arbitrarily laid down by Mr. Lewis and his union."

Lewis, before departing, made this declaration to the operators:

"For four weeks we have sat with you; we attended when you fixed the hour; we departed when weariness affected your pleasure.

"Our effort to resolve mutual questions has been vain; you have been intolerant of suggestions and impatient of analysis.

"When we sought surcease from bloodletting, you professed indifference; when we cried aloud for the safety of our numbers you answered—be content—'twas always thus!

"When we urged that you abate a stench you averred that your nostrils were not offended.

"Priority of Profits"

"When we emphasized the importance of life you pleaded the priority of profits; when we spoke of little children in unkempt surroundings you said—look to the state!

"You aver that you own the mines; we suggest that, as yet, you do not own the people.

"You profess annoyance at our temerity; we condemn your imbecility.

"You are smug in your complacency; we are abashed by your shamelessness; you prate of your respectability; we are shocked at your lack of public morality.

"You scorn the toils, the abstinence and the perils of the miner; we withhold approval of your luxurious mode of life and the nights you spend in merriment.

"You invert the natural order of things and charge to the public the pleasures of your own indolence; we denounce the senseless cupidity that withholds from the miner the rewards of honorable and perilous exertion.

"To cavil further is futile. We trust that time, as it shrinks your purse, may modify your niggardly and anti-social propensities."

Late Sports

Maryland Shades Quantico Marines

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 10 (AP) — The University of Maryland came from behind today to nose out the Quantico marine baseball team 10-9.

The Marines went ahead at the start, scoring twice each in the first and second innings, but Maryland evened matters with three markers in the second and one in the third. The visitors stayed ahead from the fourth inning but the Terps shoved across four runs in the eighth and nipped a Quantico rally in the ninth to take the victory.

Long-distance hitting marked the contest. Gleasner, Maryland catcher, polled a home run and a triple, while Brown, of Maryland, and Hugger, of Quantico, contributed a homer and a double apiece. The other players clouted two-baggers.

Coach Is Optimistic About Maryland's Football Prospects

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 10 (AP)—With one week left in the spring training for the University of Maryland football team, Coach Clark Shaughnessy is optimistic about prospects for 1946.

Although the players are "a little light," Shaughnessy said the spring workout had been satisfactory and that great strides had been made.

"I think we'll do well next fall," he said.

Maryland is expected to be particularly strong at fullback, with Jack (Reds) Wright and Joe Pokorny after the job, and Shaughnessy predicted that Tommy Mont, who is expected back at the university, would be as good a quarterback as there is in the country.

Carnevale declined comment other than to say that he had not been offered the position.

New Industrial Plastic Withstands Acids and 575-Degree Temperature

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 10 (AP)—A new industrial plastic, described as resistant to corrosion by strong acids and capable of withstanding temperatures up to 575 degrees, was announced to the American Chemical Society today.

Chemists also were told of the experimental development of a new synthetic rubber which "bounces higher than present synthetic rubber (and) can be stretched more."

The new plastic, which already has had previously-undisclosed military use as an insulating material in jet engines and applications in radar and television, was announced by the du Pont Company which declared "it is the only plastic that will stand up under the high temperatures to which it is subjected."

The material conceivably would be useful to industry in applications requiring unusual resistance to solvents, heat endurance and insulation against high electrical frequencies.

No substance has been found which will dissolve or even swell the plastic, it was said. It withstands acids which dissolve gold and platinum and hot sulphuric acid, fuming nitric acid and boiling sodium hydroxide failed to affect the material which is transparent when thin, white or gray-colored when thick.

The report on the new synthetic rubber was made by Dr. Charles Fryling, of the Phillips Petroleum Company, Phillips, Texas.

He declared a technique had been developed experimentally for making rubber by combining isoprene—a material resembling gasoline—with styrne, one of the main constituents of previously announced synthetic rubbers.

"This new synthetic rubber," he said, "now appears very promising. x x x It can be bent about four times as much (as present synthetic rubber) before it breaks.

"The indications are that isoprene rubber will become a 'specialty' rubber to be used where the present types of synthetic rubber are not quite good enough."

Spain "makes the application of this provision imperative."

The letter pointed out that the paragraph cited "provides that the United Nations Organization shall insure that states not members of the United Nations act in accordance with the principles of the organization so far as may be necessary for the maintenance of international peace and security."

United Nations observers said that if this article was followed to its logical conclusion the United Nations could bring the force of its international police body to bear against any country which the United Nations decided was a threat to world peace. It was not considered likely that the Spanish issue would be carried that far at the present time, especially since the United Nations police body has not yet begun functioning.

The Polish embassy in London, which announced last Saturday that Poland would file the case against Spain, upset the possible tone for Dr. Lange's demands when it said that Poland favored the United Nations breaking off relations with Spain.

U. S. Position

The official United States position thus far, as laid down in State department notes on Spain, is that the situation is an internal one for the Spanish people to handle.

While the British profess no love for the Franco regime, they have sided with the Americans in a reluctance to have the United Nations interfere in the Spanish domestic problem—that is, unless any new evidence is brought up to show that Franco is endangering world peace.

A source close to the Brazilian delegate, Pedro Leao Velloso, said that Brazil would favor postponing discussion.

On the Iranian case, there were indications from various delegations that the majority would line up beside the United States and Britain in retaining the case on the agenda, especially in view of a letter from Hessein Ala, the Iranian envoy, to the council yesterday in which he asked that the council reject the Russian demand.

Iran Has Sent Ala No New Instructions

TEHRAN, April 10 (AP)—Propaganda Minister Prince Mozaffar Firouz said today "the Iranian government did not consider it necessary, in view of the joint Soviet-Iranian communique of last week, to give any further instructions to its representative in Washington" regarding retention of Iran's case on the United Nations Security Council agenda.

His statement was made in reply to a question whether Ambassador Hussein Ala had been authorized by Premier Ahmed Qavam to ask that the council keep the case.

"No official information as to what steps our representative has taken has been received," he said. "Our only information has been received from radio reports."

(In New York, a spokesman for Ala said the ambassador had acted on instructions when he filed his letter with the Security council yesterday. The spokesman declined to say precisely when the instructions were received).

agree to higher prices "once they fully understand that if the current trend continues, a drastic shortage of milk is inevitable."

This, the gubernatorial aspirant said, "could well be the cause of a complete breakdown of orderly marketing processes. This would cause a sharp and drastic increase in the price of retail milk."

Between dairy farmer and consumer, he continued "stands OPA which sponsors a program completely in conflict with all aspects of free enterprise, in conflict with the proven laws of supply and demands and with a program loaded with the elements of paternalism so repugnant that thinking consumers, to whom OPA chiefly appeals, recognize the unsoundness thereof."

"As governor of Maryland," Tawes declared, "it will be my firm purpose to assert again the constitutional rights of the states." He said present conditions required continuance of some war controls "but it is the bureaucratic approach of which I complain.

"To me, it seems that certain elements have wormed their way into the Washington government and they are moving to destroy rather than to aid private business enterprise."

Origin of the fire could not be immediately determined, Fire Chief Clarence Marcks said. He directed more than 100 firemen and scores of volunteers.

Flames shot through the lobby of the Rialto theater, an L-shaped structure, and spread to two other buildings, the Rialto building and the Keystone Furniture Company.

"thought that if perchance you can, some time, find him engaged in his public duties you might wish to mention it to the postmaster general."

On the specific questions mentioned by Hannegan in demanding a statement of Republican position, Reece gave these replies:

Inflation—The GOP "proposes to avoid inflation by allowing the productive genius of America to provide the commodities which the people need."

Housing—"It would enact legislation designed actually to produce houses. It would put an end to the administration's attempt to deceive the people into thinking they are getting somehing for nothing when their government takes money from them with one hand and gives less back with the other."

Strikes—Reece cited the December declaration that a contract "must be equally binding" on labor and management and opposing "willful violence or unlawful destruction of property."

Defense—The declaration for an "army, navy and air force adequate to meet any emergency" with "adequate reserves of trained men" was recalled.

Health insurance — Republicans favor "any program which will, in fact, raise the health standards" but will not "support proposals which would make American citizens human guinea pigs for experimentation by a federal bureaucracy."

British loan — Since Republicans were not consulted when the agreement was formulated, "the responsibility rests with the administration to justify this proposal."

Soviet spokesman here against the Franco regime in Spain.

Novikov is a stocky man of middle height with light brown, thinning hair. He wears thick glasses with heavy, black rims. Although quiet, soft-spoken and even shy on occasions, he has enjoyed cordial relations with State department officials and other diplomats.

One veteran diplomat tonight described him as "a good guy—pleasant and easy to get along with, and with a lot of intelligence."

When Novikov formally presents his credentials to President Truman, it will not be the first time he has assumed the rank of ambassador.

While serving as Soviet minister to Egypt in 1943-44, he also became ambassador to the Greek and Yugoslav governments-in-exile, which then were located in Cairo.

Between 1942 and 1943 he worked in the Soviet foreign office and served as director consecutively of the Near Eastern, Balkans and so-called "Fourth European" departments.

Eight Railroads Seek Injunction Against ICC Order

PITTSBURGH, April 10. (AP)—A permanent injunction against an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling reducing rates on soft coal shipments from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and parts of West Virginia to the Youngstown, O., district, was being sought today by eight railroads in federal court here. The new rates are effective May 1.

The injunction petition, filed jointly, covers all-rail shipments and hauling in which the coal moves first by river barge and is then transferred to the railroads.

The ICC, in its order October 2, 1945, reduced all rail rates from the Leetonia district to Youngstown, ninety-four to eighty-nine cents a ton; all rail rates from Indianola and Russelton, Pa., to Youngstown, Warren, Niles, Struthers and Lowellville, O., from $1.44 to $1.32 a ton and from the Pittsburgh district to these Ohio points from $1.44 to $1.37 a ton.

Coal shipped by barge and rail from Conway and Colona, Pa. was reduced from ninety (in the case of Warren and Niles) to eighty cents a ton.

The ICC ruling followed complaints by Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, and the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association that the rates were unjust and unreasonable.

The railroads asked that three judges, one a circuit court judge, sit to hear the petition.

Coal Strike Makes 2,000 More Idle

PITTSBURGH, April 10 (AP)—Two steel corporations and two railroads today announced furloughing of another 2,000 employes as a result of the ten-day-old strike of 400,000 AFL-United Mine Workers.

The curtailment will bring to about 24,000 the number of workers in allied industries made idle by the coal strike.

The United States Steel Corporation, which already has a total of 15,000 idle or working part-time at its Pittsburgh and Chicago area mills, said open hearth furnaces and bar and blooming mill operations at its Vandergrift, Pa., plant would halt this weekend. From 600 to 700 employes of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, "Big Steel" subsidiary which operates the plant, will be idled.

The Illinois Central System railroad shops at Paducah, Ky., announced 1,200 employes will be furloughed "indefinitely" Saturday because of a business letdown caused by the coal strike.

The Columbia Steel Company at Ironton, Utah, furloughed twelve workers and the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad 150. The latter were principally crewmen not needed because coal trains aren't operating.

Some 7,000 employes of railroads, trucking firms and small steel plants are also idle in the Pittsburgh district.

Six Area Men Take Army Physical Tests

The veteran is Charles R. Davy, 35, Keyser, W. Va. He has four and a half years' prior service and reenlisted for eighteen months, unassigned.

The others, all enlisting for the first time, are Donald Curtis VanMeter, 17, son of Mrs. Lillian VanMeter, of Bowman's Addition, entering the Air Corps for three years; Wade Chester Kinser, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kinser, of Bedford, Pa., a former employe of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, entering for 18 months, unassigned; James Froelich Baker, 17, son of Mrs. Sylvia Baker, of Valley Road, Air Corps, three years; Charles Wilson Whetsell, 17, son of Mrs. Martha Whetsell, of Kitzmiller, three years in the Air Corps, and Robert D. Mangold, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Mangold, of 7 West Harrison street, Piedmont, W. Va., enlisting for 18 months, unassigned.

Winds Force Plane Down Near Friendsville

A Fairmont, W. Va., pilot escaped without injury when his Fairchild trainer, a PT-19, was forced down by strong headwinds at Sand Springs, five miles west of Friendsville, about 7 p. m., Tuesday.

State police said the pilot was Edward J. Hunter. They added that he was making arrangements to take off yesterday from the field in which he landed. Officers said the plane was only slightly damaged.

ty like bread in time time to help in this critical period."

Anderson said that the government, nevertheless, is prepared to take any steps necessary to restrict use of wheat in this country enough to meet government export goals. He added he was confident that this could be done without rationing.

Commenting on the department's crop report, Anderson said that the "wheat situation is not so tight as some had feared."

The report, issued by the crop reporting board of the Agriculture department, predicted a record harvest of winter wheat this year, but its figures indicated supplies may be only three quarters of the amount needed for domestic and foreign commitments.

The crop report predicted 830,636,000 bushels on winter wheat will be produced compared with 823,177,000 last year and with 618,019,000 for the 1935-44 ten-year average. No forecast was made on spring wheat, inasmuch as only part of this crop has been planted. Winter wheat was planted last fall.

Britain Will Follow U. S. Lead on Bread Rationing

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—Britain will ration bread if the United States agrees to do the same, or will match any measures by the United States to save wheat and flour for people facing starvation and death, the cabinet announced tonight.

A formal cabinet statement after a special meeting declared "the needs of the UNRRA countries are undoubtedly great, largely because the supplies which the United States hope to export during the current month fall considerably below expectations."

In Washington, a high official of the United States Department of Agriculture said "it would take ninety days to inaugurate bread rationing here, and the emergency is for the next seventy-five days."

He said the department was anxious to do all possible to assist in the food emergency, but emphasized that it did not consider an attempt to ration bread in the United States a solution to the problem.

Construction Costs Totalling $6,900 Cited in Permits

Five building permits calling for $6,900 worth of construction have been issued at the city engineer's office in the past two days.

Despite the recently announced ban on building by the federal government, city officials are making no attempt to refuse permits. All permits are stamped "subject to federal regulations," however.

Charles and Lillian Gowland Hast, 48 Boone street, secured a permit to erect a one and one-half story home on Lot 19, Kent avenue. The frame structure, 28 by 30 feet, will have a rubberoid roof. The foundation will be of concrete block. Cost is estimated at $4,100 and Lloyd K. Hott is the contractor The plans were furnished by F. F. Moore.

The couple also obtained a permit for a concrete block garage 14 by 20 feet on the same lot. Cost is estimated at $400.

Mrs. William Kelly, 404 Virginia avenue, received a permit for a four-room frame one story home on Lot 18, White avenue. The 24 by 24 building will have a composition roof. Virgil McDonald will do the work, estimated to cost $400.

P. R. Rinker, 610 Montreal avenue, will build a two-story 16 by 18-foot addition to his home. It will have a concrete block foundation and the superstructure will be of frame covered with shingle. It will have a composition roof. Work is being done by the owner and is estimated at $500.

James Juliano, 409 Springdale street, secured a permit to erect a six room house at Lot 9 on South Cedar street. The one story 24 by 33-foot building will have a concrete block foundation, frame walls, and a tarpaper roof.. Cost is estimated at $1,500 and the owner will do the work.

A permit was granted to Charles L. Moyer, 223 Pear street, to use the basement of his home for general small repair work. The building is located in a Residential B zoning district.

Enthusiasm Is Shown At Series of Revivals In South Cumberland

A series of enthusiastic revival services are currently being held at the Salvation Army outpost, 511 Virginia avenue, with the Rev. Paul W. Long serving as the guest evangelist.

The Rev. Mr. Long comes from East Liverpool, O., and is widely noted as an old-fashioned "fire and brimstone" evangelist.

The series of services opened Tuesday evening. A feature of the meetings has been the numbers by the Salvation Army choir, band and quartet. A special trio provided music at last night's service.

The Rev. Mr. Long's topic at last night's service was "There Were Other Little Ships," with his sermon being built around the story of the calming of the seas.

Adjutant Robert S. Ball, commander of the Cumberland branch of the Salvation Army, said last night that the meetings continued to grow in "spirited enthusiasm" each night with attendance continually increasing.

Soldier's Widow Wants To Remarry But She Hesitates

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a widow of 26 and very much in love with a man about 33 years old. I have a little girl 4 years old, and this man seems very devoted to my child.

My husband was killed in Germany many months ago, and I have been very lonely since then, and I wish to marry this man, but am undecided what to do, since I probably will get my husband's body back and would like to stay single until then. Will they send his body back, and if so, how soon? I loved him very much and was true to him. I also love this other man, a lot, and would like to marry him soon. Should I wait and find out more about the shipping of bodies from Germany, or should I go on and marry? I'm sure he would make me very happy, and I know he'd be good to my little girl. Please tell me what to do.

JOEY

By all means, go ahead and marry this man as soon as you want to. No definite plans have been made as yet about bringing the bodies of veterans back home, and I see no point in your waiting for anything like that. Besides which, your husband's body would not be returned to this country as a matter of routine. You would have to make a special request. Why not let him rest where he fell? That would seem to me a much better plan. That chapter of your life is ended, and you have every right to begin a new one. I hope you will be very happy in this second marriage.

Girl Loves Man Who's Married

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a senior in high school and very much in love with a man seven years older than I am. He went away for four months, and everyone who knows him told me he would never come back. Well I tried going out with other boys, but I never enjoyed myself. Certain songs would remind me of him and I'd get to crying.

A week ago I was walking down the street and I saw him. He called me and talked to me for half an hour. He said he was getting a divorce from his wife, also that he was working in a downtown store. He knows I like him and I've been out with him once. He is nice to talk to, but he has never asked me out again. Do you think he thinks I'm too young for him, and how can I get him to ask me out again? I don't think I'm too young for him, because my Dad is nine years older than my Mom and their marriage is a success.

H. G. H.

All right, H. G. H.,—if your mother and father have made a successful marriage with nine years between them, here's what I'd advise you to do. I'd suggest that you ask your mother and father what they think of your going out with this man. Was your mother in high school when she fell in love with your father, and was your father already married and considering getting a divorce at the time? I have an idea that the advice they'd give you would be to stop thinking about this man and put your mind on the boys your own age. That would be my advice, too.

Savings Are Possible In Depression Items

THE FEDERAL BUDGET now before Congress, calls for appropriations of millions of dollars which it may be impossible for the government to spend, according to figures released by the Maryland Public Expenditure Council.

In the category of aids to agriculture, totaling $501,000,000, inclusive of the appropriation for the regular department of Agriculture, there are several items born of the depression, and the time when there was a vast surplus of farm commodities. At that time the federal government bought up surpluses for distribution to those on relief, and iniated a program to encourage farmers to export their surplus products. The use of farm commodities for byproduct and new uses was encouraged, and sugar planters in Hawaii, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines were given a quota to limit production and a financial reward for not exceeding the quota.

With the world short of food and begging us to export it, the conditins which originally prompted such legislation have entirely disappeared. Nevertheless, the proposed Budget contains the following appropriations:

For the purchase of surplus agricultural commodities for distribution through other agencies, $12,000,000.

For the encouragement of export of farm commodities, $30,000,000.

For the diversion of agricultural commodities to by-product and new uses, $7,000,000.

For marketing agreements and administration, $99,000,000.

For the Sugar Act, $53,000,000.

These items, totaling $201,000,000, according to the Maryland Public Expenditure Council, afford Congress an excellent opportunity to save many millions for taxpayers in this one category of the budget alone, and Congress should take due note of them.

Curbing Petrillo Is a Tough Job

IT APPEARS that it is going to be a rather tough job curbing James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL). Much of what he would be prevented from doing by the restrictive measure passed by overwhelming votes in both houses of Congress he is attempting to do through collective bargaining.

The Petrillo curb bill was at last accounts on the president's desk for action. If signed by him, it would make it a federal crime for any person to use force, threats or intimidation to compel broadcasters to hire more persons than they actually need, pay money to a union or a person for services not performed, halt foreign programs or any type of non-commercial, educational or cultural programs, pay unions for using phonograph records, or pay again for sending out a transcription of a program previously broadcast.

But look what Petrillo is now demanding of eight major film producers in negotiations for a new union contract to run two years and four months, ending on Labor day, 1948! He demands of them that musicians' salaries be doubled, that they be placed on a work week of ten hours, "including time spent on rehearsals," that their numbers be more than doubled and that music recording be strictly limited in time.

These demands are among ninety-one presented by Petrillo to producers' representatives. The demands, if granted, would increase from $100 to $200 the minimum weekly salary of studio musicians and require each studio to employ at least ninety instead of the present thirty-five. He also demands that "not more than two minutes of recorded music be recorded during one hour." With respect to the ten-hour week inclusion of rehearsals, Petrillo said that the union regarded the musicians as "highly skilled artists" who continually practice long hours at home to maintain their proficiency.

Why such extensive demands? J. K. Wallace, president of the union's local 47 at Los Angeles, gives the reason. While 2,000 musicians would be affected, he said, these 2,000 have "displaced 100,000 musicians throughout the world as the result of film distribution."

It is the same old fight against technological advance, such as was waged in other days against sewing machines, the harvester, the linotype and other labor-saving inventions, which invariably resulted in creating more employment than was displaced for the time being.

It seems that it will take more than the adoption of a bill aimed specifically at one man and one union to straighten out this deplorable situation.

Food Consumption Aided by Subsiides

AN INTERESTING ANGLE of the related subject of food subsidies and scarcity is given in an editorial letter by an Indianapolis man, Oscar W. Cooley.

During the last year, he points out, the federal government paid out some two billion dollars in subsidies on foods and is about to pay out a similar amount this year. These subsidies, he correctly contends, shift a part of the consumer's grocery bill to the taxpayer, which, of course, includes the consumer.

"They have the effect," Cooley says, of "allowing the consumer to pay less for his food over the retail counter, which means that they aid and abet him to consume more. But at the same time, the government is urging the American consumer to consume less (of wheat and fats especially) so that there will be more available to ship to the starving overseas. How can such contradictory policies be justified?"

Well, they can't very well. Mr. Cooley says an obvious step toward making more food available for export is to eliminate the food subsidies and raise the consumer's price accordingly, thereby prompting him to save and economize more and consume less.

But the trouble about that is that while the basic cost would be the same by the shift from the paying pocket to the food-paying pocket, there would be incentive for increased wage demands to meet the increased cost of food by retail, and thus the same old vicious circle would be whirled again.

The contradictory angle presented by Cooley is now of probably only academic interest since the country has got itself into the food subsidy business to such an extent that it cannot get out without immediate untoward results, which are perhaps unduly emphasized by the fact that this is an election year. But it does show that the subsidy business is at bottom a delusion and a snare that should never have been employed in the first place.

Warm Spring Has One Drawback

IN VERMONT and other places where the maple sugar bushes grow —including the Western Maryland highlands—the sap run has ended with the first warm days of spring. The buckets have been taken down from the maple trees, the fires are out in the little gray, weathered shanties where the sap is boiled down to golden brown syrup and sweet, flat maple sugar cakes.

And the sad news is that the warm spring, which was so welcome, elsewhere, shortened the sap gathering season again this year and that, for a second successive season, the maple sugar harvest was less than a third of normal.

This is a minor tragedy to all who believe that there is nothing so good on hot cakes, waffles and cornbread as the delectable syrup gathered from the groves on these farms.

But it is a deeper disappointment to the thousands of small farmers who will hardly make enough out of the crop this season to pay for the trouble of hanging out the pails. There will not be much if any profit in the harvest this year. Most of the crop will be sold in the neighborhood countryside or at small roadside stands. Little will be available for the mail order customers and the dealers who serve the city trade.

According to the sugar producers it costs $4 to make a gallon of maple syrup. The OPA has set the price at only $3.39 a gallon, which may be all right for the big producer, the farmers say, but is too low for the little man.

Well, perhaps by next spring the weather man will provide a favorable season for the sugar harvest and the price lid on the produce of the sugar bushes will be off. But, in the meantime, it looks like those who like maple syrup on their waffles will have no alternative—the butter situation being what it is, to discs smeared with jelly.

Agency Separation Is Seen Marking Liberal Pattern

By MARK SULLIVAN

In what Congress is doing is a pattern and a direction. What these are can be illustrated by a recent action of the House.

Within the department of Agriculture are a number of agencies which make loans of government money to farmers, loans of several different kinds—the Farm Credit Administration, the Farm Security Administration; agencies which make emergency crop and feed loans, and the like.

Last month the House passed an act taking these lending agencies out of the department of Agriculture, and transferring them to an independent, consolidated agency, which the act set up.

The reasons for this step were stated many times in the House debate. One reason was that it is better governmental housekeeping. That reason would apply to any consolidation of different agencies carrying on the same function.

Other Reasons Expressed

But another group of reasons had to do with taking away from the department of Agriculture the function of lending money to farmers. As expressed in the report of the committee that wrote the measure, the purpose is to "keep agricultural credit out of politics." The reason was stated that way frequently: the secretary of agriculture, under any administration, is a political appointee; therefore neither he nor his subordinates should have power to grant or deny loans to farmers. As put by Representative Clifford H. Hope, of Kansas, the bill takes these lending agencies "out of a political agency and sets them up under a nonpartisan board . . . which is the way credit should be administered.

Representative August H. Andresen, of Minneapolis, put the reason in homely language. The step is taken, he said, so that no political office-holder can "put the bee on a man, and deny him credit because he refuses to vote" as the political office-holder desires. Mr. Andresen wanted government credit so administered that no matter what party is in power, a farmer "can come in and get a loan on merit without having to go to a Democratic county chairman or some other politician to get an O. K."

Applicable Elsewhere

That argument was for taking farm credit out of politics in the ordinary sense. It would be made for taking any agency out of any executive department whatever and putting it under a non-partisan board.

Another argument rested on the charge that in the department of Agriculture there has been politics in a special sense. Representative Gillie, of Indiana, said the purpose of the measure is to prevent farm credit from being used "as a big stick . . . or as an instrument to bring about the socialization of agriculture." Representative Hope said that on past occasions the department of Agriculture "wanted to use the coercive influence of agricultural credit to line up farmers on farm programs" laid down by the department.

There is the underlying pattern and direction of what Congress is doing. It is to keep citizens free from subjection to government officials and bureaus. In the present instance it is to make farmers free to apply for loans without loss of independence. And the spirit of Congress in taking this step has been its spirit in most of what it has done. It has, as in the present instance, repealed conditions which gave government officials power over citizens; and it has refused to enact proposed new measures which would have that effect.

Support Is Bi-Partisan

This spirit animates a large majority of Congress. The bill taking lending agencies out of the department of Agriculture, was passed by 239 to 80. The support for the bill came from both parties. The chairman of the committee that wrote it is a Democrat, Representative J. W. Flannagan, Jr., of Virginia, and many who spoke in favor of it were Republicans.

This spirit provides much of the attraction which in many matters involving this principle, draws together in common action most of the Republicans and a large number of the Democrats. Those who follow this course are described by their opponents as conservatives or denounced as reactionaries. Actually, they are the true liberals. As it was put the other day by Representative B. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee; "Today in the United States the true 'liberal' is the man who fights encroachment by the federal government upon the freedom of citizens."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Russia May Be Using Gen. Tito as Front In Conference Delay, Pearson Declares

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 10—There is an excellent reason why Secretary of State James Byrnes has been urging the Russians to sit down with him soon at the long-delayed peace conference. There is also a significant back-stage reason why the Russians up until this week had been hanging back.

Both reasons revolve round the same dynamite-laden situation — Trieste. Each side, however, views it from a different angle.

The Russians wanted to delay the peace conference until Marshal Tito could get his troops inside this controversial city. If he could get his troops inside, the Russian-Yugoslav bloc could present the peace conference with an accomplished fact and dare the diplomats to give Trieste to someone else.

Secretary Byrnes, on the other hand, wanted to confer with the foreign ministers this month, not only because the peace conference already was too long delayed, but because American troops in Trieste are already at the brink of open warfare with a former ally. And the longer they sit there, the more dangerous the situation becomes.

Troops Ordered To Fire

Several developments in the past few days have made Trieste even more explosive. They are:

1. Tito has forbidden American and British airplanes to fly over Jugoslav territory on reconnaissance flights. He has given his men orders to shoot such planes on sight.

2. Twenty thousand Russian troops have left Hungary and crossed the border into Jugoslavia. U. S. observers know this from the reconnaissance flights which Tito has now banned. Probably that's the reason he banned them—to prevent further knowledge of Russian troop movements.

3. U. S. troops in Trieste have been given orders to fire if the Jugoslavs enter the city.

4. The Italian Government has offered to place 15 divisions at the disposal of the Americans and British. However, they lack heavy arms and would have to be given new equipment. The United States has declined this offer.

In brief, Trieste has all the potentialities of war. Some diplomatic observers think this is what the Russians want—armed conflict between the United States and Jugoslavia. Obviously the Russians don't want to bear the brunt of this conflict or initiate it. However, if a puppet such as Tito, who has a reputation for irresponsible bragadoccio, can be the front man, the Russians might be delighted.

Capital Chaff

Judge Sam Rosenman, although off the White House pay-roll, was the chief author of the President's Army day speech in Chicago. . . . Bob Hannegan, who went to Arizona to regain his health, was ill again last week in Tucson with a strep throat. He is better now. . . . Two weeks ago, Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin sent two members of Parliament to northern Iran to investigate the Red Army of occupation. They are still sitting in Tabriz waiting for travel permits. The Russian Commander won't let them through. . . . . Wallace Murray, American Ambassador to Iran, is quite ill. . . . Parting advice which Randolph Churchill gave to Americans before he sailed from New York was: "Abolish the OPA." Some people are wondering if young Churchill wasn't satisfied with the trouble his father caused when he tried to advise the American people. However, like father, like son. . . . Randolph Churchill had a long secret conference with that great friend of England, Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, before he sailed.

Soviet Diplomat Laughs

Even after the Soviet Ambassador walked out of the U. N., one Russian remained at the Security Council table—Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet Deputy Director-General.

The other day Sobolev was in Washington and attended a luncheon given by the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees for U. N. officials. Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, arriving late, sat down next to Sobolev without recognizing who he was.

Wanting to be sociable, Guffey turned to Sobolev, asked:

"Well, tell me, how's everything in the House."

Sobolev caught on immediately, knew Guffey had mistaken him for a member of the House of Representatives.

"I think things are all right," replied Sobolev. "What do you think."

The Senator from Pennsylvania then launched on a long discourse on the lower chamber, following which Sobolev gleefully confessed his identity.

Note—Later, Sobolev reported to a friend: "Guffey was sure I wasn't a member of the Senate because I'm not fat enough."

G. I. Clothes in Alaska

The Doolittle "Caste System" Board really got an earful when it listened to the testimony of ex-Pvt. Malcolm C. Douglas, who once served with the Byrd Expedition to the Antarctic and later with the Air Forces in Alaska.

Douglas assailed the custom of AAF officers using "flight time" and "instrument checking" as excuses for flying fellow officers on dates; also criticized inequities in the type of clothes issued officers and enlisted men in Alaska.

Enlisted men stationed at Ladd Field, near Fairbanks in Alaska, were not permitted to wear the heavy Arctic clothes and furs issued to officers, Douglas said, "because the powers that be were afraid some visiting general might mistake us for officers." As a result, he added, a number of G. I.'s became ill from the intense Alaskan cold.

"It did us no good to gripe," Douglas testified, "because all our mail from Alaska was heavily censored."

General Doolittle said he was aware of the problem, but that efforts were under way to correct it by standardizing officers' and enlisted men's clothing and making it possible for enlisted men to voice their complaints to travelling inspectors general without going through the usual chain of command.

"I think I know what you were up against in Alaska," remarked Doolittle. "I once drove a dog team at Nome."

Merry-Go-Round

President Truman is still shopping around for a new Under Secretary of the Navy, wants a man who will support Army-Navy unification 100 per cent. Paul Porter may be the man. . . . Robert Rossow, the American consul in Tabriz, still reports no evacuation of Soviet troops from Iran. He's the consul the Russians put in jail several weeks ago. . . . Despite Henry Morgenthau's charge that Lew Douglas's appointment to the International Bank would turn the new world financial organization over to Wall Street, Secretary Vinson is still urging Douglas's nomination.

WORLD BANK HEAD?

ACCORDING to Washington reports, Lewis Douglas (above), insurance company president, may be proposed to head the World bank. Former Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in letters to President Truman and Treasury Secretary Vinson, opposed the administration's plan to name Douglas for the post.

Unified Service Quarrel Is Viewed As Costly Waste

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Time that should be spent on pressing problems of military and naval policy of an immediate nature has been virtually wasted on a measure to combine the armed services under a single civilian secretary.

The bill has just been completed by a Senate subcommittee on military affairs after many months of work. It represents the effort of a pressure group to get more appropriations for one service as against another. It is a controversy that could well have been postoned and the same amount of time and thought given to the extension of the Selective Service act and the maintenance of an adequate air force as well as navy.

While the various service chiefs and their lobbyists on Capitol Hill have been quarreling about a theoretical plan to consolidate the departments into one, the army has been demobilized far beyond the point that it should go, the air forces are not up to the strength they should be in a world that must inevitably see air power as of primary importance, and the navy has been cut down to the point where it is admittedly ineffective today.

Proud of Budget Cut

If anything were needed to prove the unwisdom of a single department with only one civilian at the cabinet table, it is what has happened already to the navy's appropriations. The director of the budget and not the men of experience in the navy have cut the budget. The same thing happened before 1939. That is why America had a Pearl Harbor tragedy and why it can conceivably have another if war comes again.

Fortunately for the present administration, it will be out of power when the next conflict comes and some congressional committee will be trying to find out what happened in a past era. That's why the United States expended tens of thousands of lives in the Pacific—and that's why many more tens of thousands are now at home maimed and sick. It's because the United States never listened to its military and naval men but put the responsibility for defense in the hands of civilians who cut the appropriations to fit their own conception of what ought to be done.

The army and navy and air forces got along fairly well together during the war in the arrangement known as the joint chiefs of staff, from an operating standpoint. The plan could be given the sanction of law and a joint operating set-up continued.

Study by Truman Needed

But the single department of defense isn't needed in order to make the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff effective.

Actually, Mr. Truman is a busy man and he has given only superficial consideration to the plan. He never brought it up before the cabinet and yet he publicly commended the plan in a message to Congress. When some of his cabinet remonstrated with him at a private luncheon, he did not agree. In other words, the president of the United States, who is entrusted with the responsibility of being commander-in-chief, did not make a study of the whole defense problem and hear all sides before coming to a conclusion.

What chance would there be for navy under a set-up which prompts the president to take a prejudiced view of the whole matter from the start? It has been said that Mr. Truman has favored the selection for secretary of the navy now of only a man who is willing to curtail the navy's present position in the cabinet. This is not a happy augury.

More Bickering Seen

If the plan goes through, it will mean more instead of less bickering. Will Congress in both houses agree to consolidate the naval and military committees? Obviously separate committees will remain, and the navy will be asking for reconsideration there of cuts made by persons unfriendly to the navy program. Similarly the air forces will quite naturally be out for their service and the army will likewise seek to keep its concept of what should be spent for ground forces.

Just why the president wants a single secretary at the cabinet table, when he doesn't really allow any of the cabinet to discuss the problem nowadays at cabinet meetings anyhow, is a mystery. The man who really runs the armed services is the budget director, and he acts on instructions from the president, who doesn't give the matter the study he should for the simple reason that he hasn't the time. The Pearl Harbor committee records ought to be read and re-read. What America needs is three secretaries—for army, navy and air force—and the president should listen to all three and then formulate policy.

The Power Of The Plan

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

All great enterprises are carefully planned out. The useful life is the result of a plan, in which will, courage, faith, self-reliance, and a multitude of human ingredients are essential—but the plan is the thing that clicks the forward march. It has cumulative power. It is power!

If the non-military nations were as wise as the military nations in their planning, or if all nations planned as carefully, and as enthusiastically, for perpetual peace as they do for war, there would be a different, and a happier, picture before the eyes of the world today. Had the world planned for peace before this recent tragic war there would have been no war. Even Churchill admitted this to be a fact.

The Russian nation has risen from an almost illiterate nations, to a powerful literate state, through the means of a definite plan. And this in hardly more than two generations! It's a good idea to watch the man, or nation, with a plan. Neither is traveling backward. One of the gravest faults of the democracies is that they rarely have a definite plan toward which to work ceaselessly. Their enemies never rest. They have plans!

When the late W. R. Harper, the first president of Chicago University, died I read that he had made plans, and had them all outlined for fifty years ahead for that great institution. No wonder it has had such a remarkable growth since he left.

There is incentive, the imagination is stirred, and enthusiasm is greatly increased when a carefully worked out plan is made. The builder is always studying his plan. Those who plan ahead by regular savings, and careful investments, build a security for the later years that greatly rewards their efforts. They earn their independence.

The UNO plan for a permanent peace is one of the greatest steps forward in the history of the world, but the plans of the individual nations must melt and mold into this greater plan, if it is to be successful. Certainly the ambitions of no single nation should be of more importance than the unity and the happiness of all the nations. If all agree upon peace, how can any one nation fear for war?

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I spent most of the morning in my backyard dickering with a gopher. I just heard that the navy is planning to drop another atom bomb this spring and I want to get a large hole dug for crawling-into purposes . . . . Just in case anything gets out of hand.

They're going to drop the bomb out in the Marshall islands on a fleet of outdated and enemy ships. If they were really looking for a good target, they shuld've taken a lot of the old cars off the roads for atom bait . . . . And I would have gladly thrown in a few relatives.

The bomb it still very mysterious. It's really nothing but a big noise followed by a blast of hot air. Of course, it's not new. We've had the same thing here for years and called it a "congressional debate."

They're setting up equipment to send the explosion out by television. Maybe they can even get someone to sponsor it. It'd make a wonderful spot for an aspirin commercial.

They're keeping the test a secret. All the fish around the Marshalls have to wear special badges before they can swim in that area.

But this is just going to be a preliminary test. If the bomb is powerful enough to sink the fleet of battleships, they're going to give it the supreme test and see if it can blast a nickle back out of a drugstore telephone.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Professor Zogi, The Magician Marvelous!

Professor Zogi, the magician, came to our town Saturday and put on a performance for the benefit of the Orphanage.

It was quite a show! Among other things, the professor holds a pitcher in his hands, and asks folks what they'd have to drink. Ma Hoskins asks for buttermilk and the professor promptly pours her a rich, creamy glassful.

Then Zeb Collins asks for cider, and out of the same pitcher comes a mug of cider. Doc Hollister next calls for beer—and presto, from the pitcher comes a sparkling glass of beer, white collar and all!

"Just goes to show," says Doc, astonished, "that it takes a magician to satisfy all tastes."

From where I sit, the professor has a mighty good act ... one that points a moral too. Tastes differ—but people can have a friendly, happy time enjoying the beverage that each prefers—and being tolerant of one another's preferences.

Savings Are Possible In Depression Items

THE FEDERAL BUDGET now before Congress, calls for appropriations of millions of dollars which it may be impossible for the government to spend, according to figures released by the Maryland Public Expenditure Council.

In the category of aids to agriculture, totaling $501,000,000, inclusive of the appropriation for the regular department of Agriculture, there are several items born of the depression, and the time when there was a vast surplus of farm commodities. At that time the federal government bought up surpluses for distribution to those on relief, and iniated a program to encourage farmers to export their surplus products. The use of farm commodities for byproduct and new uses was encouraged, and sugar planters in Hawaii, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines were given a quota to limit production and a financial reward for not exceeding the quota.

With the world short of food and begging us to export it, the conditins which originally prompted such legislation have entirely disappeared. Nevertheless, the proposed Budget contains the following appropriations:

For the purchase of surplus agricultural commodities for distribution through other agencies, $12,000,000.

For the encouragement of export of farm commodities, $30,000,000.

For the diversion of agricultural commodities to by-product and new uses, $7,000,000.

For marketing agreements and administration, $99,000,000.

For the Sugar Act, $53,000,000.

These items, totaling $201,000,000, according to the Maryland Public Expenditure Council, afford Congress an excellent opportunity to save many millions for taxpayers in this one category of the budget alone, and Congress should take due note of them.

Curbing Petrillo Is a Tough Job

IT APPEARS that it is going to be a rather tough job curbing James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL). Much of what he would be prevented from doing by the restrictive measure passed by overwhelming votes in both houses of Congress he is attempting to do through collective bargaining.

The Petrillo curb bill was at last accounts on the president's desk for action. If signed by him, it would make it a federal crime for any person to use force, threats or intimidation to compel broadcasters to hire more persons than they actually need, pay money to a union or a person for services not performed, halt foreign programs or any type of non-commercial, educational or cultural programs, pay unions for using phonograph records, or pay again for sending out a transcription of a program previously broadcast.

But look what Petrillo is now demanding of eight major film producers in negotiations for a new union contract to run two years and four months, ending on Labor day, 1948! He demands of them that musicians' salaries be doubled, that they be placed on a work week of ten hours, "including time spent on rehearsals," that their numbers be more than doubled and that music recording be strictly limited in time.

These demands are among ninety-one presented by Petrillo to producers' representatives. The demands, if granted, would increase from $100 to $200 the minimum weekly salary of studio musicians and require each studio to employ at least ninety instead of the present thirty-five. He also demands that "not more than two minutes of recorded music be recorded during one hour." With respect to the ten-hour week inclusion of rehearsals, Petrillo said that the union regarded the musicians as "highly skilled artists" who continually practice long hours at home to maintain their proficiency.

Why such extensive demands? J. K. Wallace, president of the union's local 47 at Los Angeles, gives the reason. While 2,000 musicians would be affected, he said, these 2,000 have "displaced 100,000 musicians throughout the world as the result of film distribution."

It is the same old fight against technological advance, such as was waged in other days against sewing machines, the harvester, the linotype and other labor-saving inventions, which invariably resulted in creating more employment than was displaced for the time being.

It seems that it will take more than the adoption of a bill aimed specifically at one man and one union to straighten out this deplorable situation.

Food Consumption Aided by Subsiides

AN INTERESTING ANGLE of the related subject of food subsidies and scarcity is given in an editorial letter by an Indianapolis man, Oscar W. Cooley.

During the last year, he points out, the federal government paid out some two billion dollars in subsidies on foods and is about to pay out a similar amount this year. These subsidies, he correctly contends, shift a part of the consumer's grocery bill to the taxpayer, which, of course, includes the consumer.

"They have the effect," Cooley says, of "allowing the consumer to pay less for his food over the retail counter, which means that they aid and abet him to consume more. But at the same time, the government is urging the American consumer to consume less (of wheat and fats especially) so that there will be more available to ship to the starving overseas. How can such contradictory policies be justified?"

Well, they can't very well. Mr. Cooley says an obvious step toward making more food available for export is to eliminate the food subsidies and raise the consumer's price accordingly, thereby prompting him to save and economize more and consume less.

But the trouble about that is that while the basic cost would be the same by the shift from the paying pocket to the food-paying pocket, there would be incentive for increased wage demands to meet the increased cost of food by retail, and thus the same old vicious circle would be whirled again.

The contradictory angle presented by Cooley is now of probably only academic interest since the country has got itself into the food subsidy business to such an extent that it cannot get out without immediate untoward results, which are perhaps unduly emphasized by the fact that this is an election year. But it does show that the subsidy business is at bottom a delusion and a snare that should never have been employed in the first place.

Warm Spring Has One Drawback

IN VERMONT and other places where the maple sugar bushes grow —including the Western Maryland highlands—the sap run has ended with the first warm days of spring. The buckets have been taken down from the maple trees, the fires are out in the little gray, weathered shanties where the sap is boiled down to golden brown syrup and sweet, flat maple sugar cakes.

And the sad news is that the warm spring, which was so welcome, elsewhere, shortened the sap gathering season again this year and that, for a second successive season, the maple sugar harvest was less than a third of normal.

This is a minor tragedy to all who believe that there is nothing so good on hot cakes, waffles and cornbread as the delectable syrup gathered from the groves on these farms.

But it is a deeper disappointment to the thousands of small farmers who will hardly make enough out of the crop this season to pay for the trouble of hanging out the pails. There will not be much if any profit in the harvest this year. Most of the crop will be sold in the neighborhood countryside or at small roadside stands. Little will be available for the mail order customers and the dealers who serve the city trade.

According to the sugar producers it costs $4 to make a gallon of maple syrup. The OPA has set the price at only $3.39 a gallon, which may be all right for the big producer, the farmers say, but is too low for the little man.

Well, perhaps by next spring the weather man will provide a favorable season for the sugar harvest and the price lid on the produce of the sugar bushes will be off. But, in the meantime, it looks like those who like maple syrup on their waffles will have no alternative—the butter situation being what it is, to discs smeared with jelly.

Agency Separation Is Seen Marking Liberal Pattern

By MARK SULLIVAN

In what Congress is doing is a pattern and a direction. What these are can be illustrated by a recent action of the House.

Within the department of Agriculture are a number of agencies which make loans of government money to farmers, loans of several different kinds—the Farm Credit Administration, the Farm Security Administration; agencies which make emergency crop and feed loans, and the like.

Last month the House passed an act taking these lending agencies out of the department of Agriculture, and transferring them to an independent, consolidated agency, which the act set up.

The reasons for this step were stated many times in the House debate. One reason was that it is better governmental housekeeping. That reason would apply to any consolidation of different agencies carrying on the same function.

Other Reasons Expressed

But another group of reasons had to do with taking away from the department of Agriculture the function of lending money to farmers. As expressed in the report of the committee that wrote the measure, the purpose is to "keep agricultural credit out of politics." The reason was stated that way frequently; the secretary of agriculture, under any administration, is a political appointee; therefore neither he nor his subordinates should have power to grant or deny loans to farmers. As put by Representative Clifford H. Hope, of Kansas, the bill takes these lending agencies "out of a political agency and sets them up under a nonpartisan board . . . which is the way credit should be administered.

Representative August H. Andresen, of Minneapolis, put the reason in homely language. The step is taken, he said, so that no political office-holder can "put the bee on a man, and deny him credit because he refuses to vote" as the political office-holder desires. Mr. Andresen wanted government credit so administered that no matter what party is in power, a farmer "can come in and get a loan on merit without having to go to a Democratic county chairman or some other politician to get an O. K."

Applicable Elsewhere

That argument was for taking farm credit out of politics in the ordinary sense. It would be made for taking any agency out of any executive department whatever and putting it under a non-partisan board.

Another argument rested on the charge that in the department of Agriculture there has been politics in a special sense. Representative Gillie, of Indiana, said the purpose of the measure is to prevent farm credit from being used "as a big stick . . . or as an instrument to bring about the socialization of agriculture." Representative Hope said that on past occasions the department of Agriculture "wanted to use the coercive influence of agricultural credit to line up farmers on farm programs" laid down by the department.

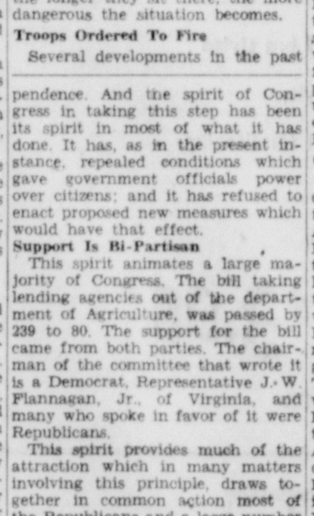

There is the underlying pattern and direction of what Congress is doing. It is to keep citizens free from subjection to government officials and bureaus. In the present instance it is to make farmers free to apply for loans without loss of independence. And the spirit of Congress in taking this step has been its spirit in most of what it has done. It has, as in the present instance, repealed conditions which gave government officials power over citizens; and it has refused to enact proposed new measures which would have that effect.

Support Is Bi-Partisan

This spirit animates a large majority of Congress. The bill taking lending agencies out of the department of Agriculture, was passed by 239 to 80. The support for the bill came from both parties. The chairman of the committee that wrote it is a Democrat, Representative J. W. Flannagan, Jr., of Virginia, and many who spoke in favor of it were Republicans.

This spirit provides much of the attraction which in many matters involving this principle, draws together in common action most of the Republicans and a large number of the Democrats. Those who follow this course are described by their opponents as conservatives or denounced as reactionaries. Actually, they are the true liberals. As it was put the other day by Representative B. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee: "Today in the United States the true 'liberal' is the man who fights encroachment by the federal government upon the freedom of citizens."

WORLD BANK HEAD?

ACCORDING to Washington reports, Lewis Douglas (above), insurance company president, may be proposed to head the World bank. Former Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in letters to President Truman and Treasury Secretary Vinson, opposed the administration's plan to name Douglas for the post.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 10—There is an excellent reason why Secretary of State James Byrnes has been urging the Russians to sit down with him soon at the long-delayed peace conference. There is also a significant back-stage reason why the Russians up until this week had been hanging back.

Both reasons revolve round the same dynamite-laden situation — Trieste. Each side, however, views it from a different angle.

The Russians wanted to delay the peace conference until Marshal Tito could get his troops inside this controversial city. If he could get his troops inside, the Russian-Yugoslav bloc could present the peace conference with an accomplished fact and dare the diplomats to give Trieste to someone else.

Secretary Byrnes, on the other hand, wanted to confer with the foreign ministers this month, not only because the peace conference already was too long delayed, but because American troops in Trieste are already at the brink of open warfare with a former ally. And the longer they sit there, the more dangerous the situation becomes.

Troops Ordered To Fire

Several developments in the past few days have made Trieste even more explosive. They are:

1. Tito has forbidden American and British airplanes to fly over Jugoslav territory on reconnaissance flights. He has given his men orders to shoot such planes on sight.

2. Twenty thousand Russian troops have left Hungary and crossed the border into Jugoslavia. U. S. observers know this from the reconnaissance flights which Tito has now banned. Probably that's the reason he banned them—to prevent further knowledge of Russian troop movements.

3. U. S. troops in Trieste have been given orders to fire if the Jugoslavs enter the city.

4. The Italian Government has offered to place 15 divisions at the disposal of the Americans and British. However, they lack heavy arms and would have to be given new equipment. The United States has declined this offer.

In brief, Trieste has all the potentialities of war. Some diplomatic observers think this is what the Russians want—armed conflict between the United States and Jugoslavia. Obviously the Russians don't want to bear the brunt of this conflict or initiate it. However, if a puppet such as Tito, who has a reputation for irresponsible bragadoccio, can be the front man, the Russians might be delighted.

Capital Chaff

Judge Sam Rosenman, although off the White House pay-roll, was the chief author of the President's Army day speech in Chicago. . . . Bob Hannegan, who went to Arizona to regain his health, was ill again last week in Tucson with a strep throat. He is better now. . . . Two weeks ago, Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin sent two members of Parliament to northern Iran to investigate the Red Army of occupation. They are still sitting in Tabriz waiting for travel permits. The Russian Commander won't let them through. . . . Wallace Murray, American Ambassador to Iran, is quite ill. . . . Parting advice which Randolph Churchill gave to Americans before he sailed from New York was: "Abolish the OPA." Some people are wondering if young Churchill wasn't satisfied with the trouble his father caused when he tried to advise the American people. However, like father, like son. . . . Randolph Churchill had a long secret conference with that great friend of England, Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, before he sailed.

Soviet Diplomat Laughs

Even after the Soviet Ambassador walked out of the U. N., one Russian remained at the Security Council table—Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet Deputy Director-General.

The other day Sobolev was in Washington and attended a luncheon given by the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees for U. N. officials. Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, arriving late, sat down next to Sobolev without recognizing who he was.

Wanting to be sociable, Guffey turned to Sobolev, asked:

"Well, tell me, how's everything in the House."

Sobolev caught on immediately, knew Guffey had mistaken him for a member of the House of Representatives.

"I think things are all right," replied Sobolev. "What do you think."

The Senator from Pennsylvania then launched on a long discourse on the lower chamber, following which Sobolev gleefully confessed his identity.

Note—Later, Sobolev reported to a friend: "Guffey was sure I wasn't a member of the Senate because I'm not fat enough."

G. I. Clothes in Alaska

The Doolittle "Caste System" Board really got an earful when it listened to the testimony of ex-Pvt. Malcolm C. Douglas, who once served with the Byrd Expedition to the Antarctic and later with the Air Forces in Alaska.

Douglas assailed the custom of AAF officers using "flight time" and "instrument checking" as excuses for flying fellow officers on dates; also criticized inequities in the type of clothes issued officers and enlisted men in Alaska.

Enlisted men stationed at Ladd Field, near Fairbanks in Alaska, were not permitted to wear the heavy Arctic clothes and furs issued to officers, Douglas said, "because the powers that be were afraid some visiting general might mistake us for officers." As a result, he added, a number of G. I.'s became ill from the intense Alaskan cold.

"It did us no good to gripe," Douglas testified, "because all our mail from Alaska was heavily censored."

General Doolittle said he was aware of the problem, but that efforts were under way to correct it by standardizing officers' and enlisted men's clothing and making it possible for enlisted men to voice their complaints to travelling inspectors general without going through the usual chain of command.

"I think I know what you were up against in Alaska," remarked Doolittle. "I once drove a dog team at Nome."

Merry-Go-Round

President Truman is still shopping around for a new Under Secretary of the Navy, wants a man who will support Army-Navy unification 100 per cent. Paul Porter may be the man. . . . Robert Rossow, the American consul in Tabriz, still reports no evacuation of Soviet troops from Iran. He's the consul the Russians put in jail several weeks ago. . . . Despite Henry Morgenthau's charge that Lew Douglas's appointment to the International Bank would turn the new world financial organization over to Wall Street, Secretary Vinson is still urging Douglas's nomination.

Unified Service Quarrel Is Viewed As Costly Waste

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Time that should be spent on pressing problems of military and naval policy of an immediate nature has been virtually wasted on a measure to combine the armed services under a single civilian secretary.

The bill has just been completed by a Senate subcommittee on military affairs after many months of work. It represents the effort of a pressure group to get more appropriations for one service as against another. It is a controversy that could well have been postponed and the same amount of time and thought given to the extension of the Selective Service act and the maintenance of an adequate air force as well as navy.

While the various service chiefs and their lobbyists on Capitol Hill have been quarreling about a theoretical plan to consolidate the departments into one, the army has been demobilized far beyond the point that it should go, the air forces are not up to the strength they should be in a world that must inevitably see air power as of primary importance, and the navy has been cut down to the point where it is admittedly ineffective today.

Proud of Budget Cut

If anything were needed to prove the unwisdom of a single department with only one civilian at the cabinet table, it is what has happened already to the navy's appropriations. The director of the budget and not the men of experience in the navy have cut the budget. The same thing happened before 1939. That is why America had a Pearl Harbor tragedy and why it can conceivably have another if war comes again.

Fortunately for the present administration, it will be out of power when the next conflict comes and some congressional committee will be trying to find out what happened in a past era. That's why the United States expended tens of thousands of lives in the Pacific—and that's why many more tens of thousands are now at home maimed and sick. It's because the United States never listened to its military and naval men but put the responsibility for defense in the hands of civilians who cut the appropriations to fit their own conception of what ought to be done.

The army and navy and air forces got along fairly well together during the war in the arrangement known as the joint chiefs of staff, from an operating standpoint. The plan could be given the sanction of law and a joint operating set-up continued.

Study by Truman Needed

But the single department of defense isn't needed in order to make the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff effective.

Actually, Mr. Truman is a busy man and he has given only superficial consideration to the plan. He never brought it up before the cabinet and yet he publicly commended the plan in a message to Congress. When some of his cabinet remonstrated with him at a private luncheon, he did not agree. In other words, the president of the United States, who is entrusted with the responsibility of being commander-in-chief, did not make a study of the whole defense problem and hear all sides before coming to a conclusion.

What chance would there be for navy under a set-up which prompts the president to take a prejudiced view of the whole matter from the start? It has been said that Mr. Truman has favored the selection for secretary of the navy now of only a man who is willing to curtail the navy's present position in the cabinet. This is not a happy augury.

More Bickering Seen

If the plan goes through, it will mean more instead of less bickering. Will Congress in both houses agree to consolidate the naval and military committees? Obviously separate committees will remain, and the navy will be asking for reconsideration there of cuts made by persons unfriendly to the navy program. Similarly the air forces will quite naturally be out for their service and the army will likewise seek to keep its concept of what should be spent for ground forces.

Just why the president wants a single secretary at the cabinet table, when he doesn't really allow any of the cabinet to discuss the problem nowadays at cabinet meetings anyhow, is a mystery. The man who really runs the armed services is the budget director, and he acts on instructions from the president, who doesn't give the matter the study he should for the simple reason that he hasn't the time. The Pearl Harbor committee records ought to be read and re-read. What America needs is three secretaries—for army, navy and air force—and the president should listen to all three and then formulate policy.

The Power Of The Plan

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

All great enterprises are carefully planned out. The useful life is the result of a plan, in which will, courage, faith, self-reliance, and a multitude of human ingredients are essential—but the plan is the thing that clicks the forward march. It has cumulative power. It is power!

If the non-military nations were as wise as the military nations in their planning, or if all nations planned as carefully, and as enthusiastically, for perpetual peace as they do for war, there would be a different, and a happier, picture before the eyes of the world today. Had the world planned for peace before this recent tragic war there would have been no war. Even Churchill admitted this to be a fact.

The Russian nation has risen from an almost illiterate nations, to a powerful literate state, through the means of a definite plan. And this in hardly more than two generations! It's a good idea to watch the man, or nation, with a plan. Neither is traveling backward. One of the gravest faults of the democracies is that they rarely have a definite plan toward which to work ceaselessly. Their enemies never rest. They have plans!

When the late W. R. Harper, the first president of Chicago University, died I read that he had made plans, and had them all outlined for fifty years ahead for that great institution. No wonder it has had such a remarkable growth since he left.

There is incentive, the imagination is stirred, and enthusiasm is greatly increased when a carefully worked out plan is made. The builder is always studying his plan. Those who plan ahead by regular savings, and careful investments, build a security for the later years that greatly rewards their efforts. They earn their independence.

The UNO plan for a permanent peace is one of the greatest steps forward in the history of the world, but the plans of the individual nations must melt and mold into this greater plan, if it is to be successful. Certainly the ambitions of no single nation should be of more importance than the unity and the happiness of all the nations. If all agree upon peace, how can any one nation fear for war?

I spent most of the morning in my backyard dickering with a gopher. I just heard that the navy is planning to drop another atom bomb this spring and I want to get a large hole dug for crawling-into purposes . . . . Just in case anything gets out of hand.

They're going to drop the bomb out in the Marshall islands on a fleet of outdated and enemy ships. If they were really looking for a good target, they shuld've taken a lot of the old cars off the roads for atom bait . . . . And I would have gladly thrown in a few relatives.

The bomb it still very mysterious. It's really nothing but a big noise followed by a blast of hot air. Of course, it's not new. We've had the same thing here for years and called it a "congressional debate."

They're setting up equipment to send the explosion out by television. Maybe they can even get someone to sponsor it. It'd make a wonderful spot for an aspirin commercial.

They're keeping the test a secret. All the fish around the Marshalls have to wear special badges before they can swim in that area.

But this is just going to be a preliminary test. If the bomb is powerful enough to sink the fleet of battleships, they're going to give it the supreme test and see if it can blast a nickle back out of a drugestore telephone.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Professor Zogi, The Magician Marvelous!

Professor Zogi, the magician, came to our town Saturday and put on a performance for the benefit of the Orphanage.

It was quite a show! Among other things, the professor holds a pitcher in his hands, and asks folks what they'd have to drink. Ma Hoskins asks for buttermilk and the professor promptly pours her a rich, creamy glassful.

Then Zeb Collins asks for cider, and out of the same pitcher comes a mug of cider. Doc Hollister next calls for beer—and presto, from the pitcher comes a sparkling glass of beer, white collar and all!

"Just goes to show," says Doc, astonished, "that it takes a magician to satisfy all tastes."

From where I sit, the professor has a mighty good act ... one that points a moral too. Tastes differ—but people can have a friendly, happy time enjoying the beverage that each prefers—and being tolerant of one another's preferences.

Advice to Diabetics

● Beware of patent medicines advertised as cures or remedies for diabetes! They are fakes. Diabetes was first recognized about 1552 B.C. This was about the time of Moses, or 200 years before the birth of King Tut. Ever since that time, at intervals, some faker comes up with a cure. A dependable treatment for diabetes was discovered less than twenty years ago. It will not cure the disease, but it will enable the diabetic to live a normal life. The discovery is known as Insulin. Your doctor knows all about it. If he finds it necessary in your case, we can supply it in just the right strength.

Over-Vigorous Training Habits May Harm Child

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

When it comes to baby's toilet training, wise mothers will let well enough alone. They will not attempt training too early nor insist on perfection.

All too many mothers, however, regard the establishing of regular habits as a life-and-death matter. Under the mistaken impression that absolute clock-like regularity of elimination is necessary to health, they begin training early and pursue it rigorously with the result that they often have a rebellious and constipated baby to deal with.

Distort Personality

Indeed, many specialists believe that these over-vigorous training habits not only interfere with normal bowel habits, but may also permanently distort the child's personality.

According to Dr. Benjamin Spock, New York, it is very important for mothers to learn the right way of going about this training. It should never be pressed to the point where the child rebels, a particular danger during the second year of life.

Rebellion means conflict and conflict means emotional scars, sometimes of life-long duration.

Babies may rebel against the training merely because having a bowel movement is uncomfortable. An infant who has had painful, hard movements on frequent occasions naturally dreads the toilet seat. Thus it is necessary to prevent or cure constipation throughout the first two years of life by regulating the diet.

Another factor to be given consideration is whether or not the infant naturally has bowel movements at a regular time. The baby who always moves his bowels at the same time each day is never a training problem.

Three Forms

Dr. Spock points out that the resistance against training may take three forms: First, the baby resists sitting on the toilet or even going to the bathroom. In severe cases, there may be violent rages and temper tantrums. In another group of cases, the baby may sit on the toilet willingly but nothing happens. The bowel movement occurs immediately after he gets up.

In a third variety the baby will not have a bowel movement either while on the toilet or afterwards. He acquires constipation merely because of his mental attitude. The retained bowel movement becomes hard within the bowel and then is painful to eliminate. Then the baby has two reasons for failure to have a bowel movement, the hard stool and resistance to the toilet seat.

In the process of training, the baby should be put on the toilet casually and briefly, and only after he can sit up well without help. If the baby does not seem to cooperate, efforts should be relaxed until weeks or months later.

Every child will gradually acquire control of the bowel function in the normal way if he is let alone to a great extent. Too much persistence will do more harm than good.

Over-Vigorous Training Habits May Harm Child

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

When it comes to baby's toilet training, wise mothers will let well enough alone. They will not attempt training too early nor insist on perfection.

All too many mothers, however, regard the establishing of regular habits as a life-and-death matter. Under the mistaken impression that absolute clock-like regularity of elimination is necessary to health, they begin training early and pursue it rigorously with the result that they often have a rebellious and constipated baby to deal with.

Distort Personality

Indeed, many specialists believe that these over-vigorous training habits not only interfere with normal bowel habits, but may also permanently distort the child's personality.

According to Dr. Benjamin Spock, New York, it is very important for mothers to learn the right way of going about this training. It should never be pressed to the point where the child rebels, a particular danger during the second year of life.

Rebellion means conflict and conflict means emotional scars, sometimes of life-long duration.

Babies may rebel against the training merely because having a bowel movement is uncomfortable. An infant who has had painful, hard movements on frequent occasions naturally dreads the toilet seat. Thus it is necessary to prevent or cure constipation throughout the first two years of life by regulating the diet.

Another factor to be given consideration is whether or not the infant naturally has bowel movements at a regular time. The baby who always moves his bowels at the same time each day is never a training problem.

Three Forms

Dr. Spock points out that the resistance against training may take three forms: First, the baby resists sitting on the toilet or even going to the bathroom. In severe cases, there may be violent rages and temper tantrums. In another group of cases, the baby may sit on the toilet willingly but nothing happens. The bowel movement occurs immediately after he gets up.

In a third variety the baby will not have a bowel movement either while on the toilet or afterwards. He acquires constipation merely because of his mental attitude. The retained bowel movement becomes hard within the bowel and then is painful to eliminate. Then the baby has two reasons for failure to have a bowel movement, the hard stool and resistance to the toilet seat.

In the process of training, the baby should be put on the toilet casually and briefly, and only after he can sit up well without help. If the baby does not seem to cooperate, efforts should be relaxed until weeks or months later.

Every child will gradually acquire control of the bowel function in the normal way if he is let alone to a great extent. Too much persistence will do more harm than good.

Officers of the sorority are Miss Mary Grace Rollins, delta; Miss Helen Cooke, vice-delta; Miss Janeva Henline, phi; Miss Dorothy Snyder, omicron; Miss Ann Llewellyn, guard. Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, advisors to the organization, will be among the guests attending the dance.

Numerous Parties Are Being Given For Bride-Elect

Miss Aileen Jones Will Become Bride of F. F. Dawson Tomorrow

Miss Gladys Stevens and Mrs. Earl Stevens will entertain in honor of Miss Aileen Virginia Jones with an informal party this evening at Mrs. Jones's home, Shriver avenue. The party will be held following the wedding rehearsal and guests will include, besides the bridal party, members of the immediate families of the couple.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Jones, Bowling Green, Miss Jones will become the bride of Fred Franklyn Dawson, son of Harry W. Dawson, Ridgeley, W. Va., and the late Mrs. Mattie Z. Spring flowers decorated the house and the bridal motil was carried out in the table appointments, where covers were laid for sixteen guests. A feature of the entertainment was the playing of a recording, which had been cut off the "Honeymooner's" radio program with the names of Aileen and Fred substituted. At the end of the recording the voice told the guests to remain where they were as Mrs. Utterback would have a surprise for the bride-elect, at which time the hostess brought in the shower gifts.

Officers of the sorority are Miss Mary Grace Rollins, delta; Miss Helen Cooke, vice-delta; Miss Janeva Henline, phi; Miss Dorothy Snyder, omicron; Miss Ann Llewellyn, guard. Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, advisors to the organization, will be among the guests attending the dance.

A feature of the entertainment was the playing of a recording, which had been cut off the "Honeymooner's" radio program with the names of Aileen and Fred substituted. At the end of the recording the voice told the guests to remain where they were as Mrs. Utterback would have a surprise for the bride-elect, at which time the hostess brought in the shower gifts.

Mrs. Lewis Millholland, Mrs. Arlie Canfield and Mrs. Charles Smith were hostesses at a party of all the neighbors, at the former's home in Bowling Green. Motorists Soon May Be Able To Drive To South America, FWA Official Says

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Better start peering at South American road maps, you tourists.

One of these days you'll be able to drive to Buenos Aires and other points south.

This promise was made by J. L. Harrison, who works for the roads division of the Federal Works Agency.

"You're going to climb into your car and drive right to Buenos Aires," he told a meeting of the American Road Builders' Association. "And it won't be any more difficult than a trip to San Francisco."

Harrison later told a reporter that it's too early to give tourists an exact date for such a jaunt. But he figures that a drive to the Panama canal will be possible within the next three or four years.

"The big drawback in the inter-American Highway Program," he said, "is the Rio Atrato, a river few Americans ever heard of."

This river, in Northern Colombia, is almost as wide as the Mississippi. Rivers can be spanned, of course, but the Atrato has ten to fifteen miles of swamp land on each side.

Harrison isn't too pessimistic about the Atrato. He points out that no survey has been made of highway possibilities. Everyone has been too busy planning a road through Central America.

"Once that is finished," he said, "the 250 miles of highway from the canal into Colombia can be tackled."

Harrison says the road will beat a whole tearoom full of diplomats at cementing North and South American friendships.

"The best way to become acquainted," he said, "is to jump in a car and drive down there"

Child Is in Hospital With Fifth Bone Fracture

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 10 (AP) — The nineteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kline, of Big Springs, is at the Washington County hospital for treatment of the fifth bone fracture he has suffered since birth.

Hospital officials say the baby is believed to be suffering from a rare bone disease resulting from a deficiency of calcium.

His arm was fractured when he was only a few months old. Shortly afterward, he suffered a broken right thigh, followed by a double fracture of the left thigh. Next he fractured a rib.

He now has a fractured hip, suffered while he was asleep in bed. The family's physician said the fractures were "spontaneous."

UNO Gets a $9,000,000 White Elephant

By HENRY W. BAGLEY
AP Newsfeatures

LONDON—The League of Nations is going to give the United Nations about $11,000,000, by the league's reckoning. That is the figure the league puts on its property and equipment, which it plans to turn over to its successor. The transfer should be complete by August 1.

The biggest item in the league's assets is the famous white secretariat building and assembly hall at Geneva. The league values it at nearly $9,000,000, and as yet nobody has figured out what the United Nations will use it for. The International Labor Office would like to use the assembly hall and to have the facilities of the library. Another scheme put forward is establishment of an international university in the immense building.

$800,000 in Books

The other items on the league's assets are, by comparison, chickenfeed. Books in the library are valued at about $800,000; other real estate, including four villas, at about $660,000, and furniture and other equipment at about $440,000.

There are also smaller amounts for the equipment of the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague and for stocks of stationery and supplies.

A committee of the league and another for the United Nations, in drawing up their joint plan of transfer, recommended that the league's assets be calculated at their cost to the league. That meant gifts to the league would be given to the United Nations without charge. Included is the library building, which John D. Rockefeller contributed.

Neither that amount nor the value of other lesser gifts are included in the $11,000,000 estimate UN, also, will acquire free the archives of the League and of the permanent Court of International Justice.

Figuring Credits

In making the transfer, the league takes on the job of figuring out what percentage of the total is to be credited to each country. In the case of states which are members of the league but have not joined UN—like Switzerland, Sweden and Portugal—the joint plan merely says that the claims "should be dealt with overwise by the League of Nations." Countries such as the United States, which were never members of the league, will get none of this credit in the United Nations books.

The league's assets include some things that would surprise you a little. For example, 847 visitors arm chairs which cost over $23,000; fireproof chinaware valued at about $755, and air-raid equipment rated at $2,300.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS ARE CHIEF CAUSE OF ARRESTS HERE

Traffic and parking violations, as usual, headed the list of arrests in Cumberland for the year ending March 31, according to the annual report of Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police.

Eight hundred and forty eight violations of traffic regulations were listed, while arrests for drunkenness was next with 621 persons taken into custody on the charge. Members of the Police department investigated 799 complaints.

The number of service personnel cases showed a big decrease with only 211 soldiers, sailors and marines being held for being absent from leave. The department made 39 arrests in gambling cases, 14 of them being for bookies, dice and card games and 25 of persons maintaining slot machines. There were only three arrests for sale of beer to minors.

The report reveals 14 runaway boys and ten runaway girls were apprehended by police. A total of 19 other minors were held for their parents in various cases and there were 38 cases of loitering, which involved a number of youths. The police arrested 41 minors for the juvenile court.

Of 20 bicycles stolen almost all the thefts were attributed to youths. Fourteen "lost" children were picked up and returned to their parents. Included in 52 persons reported missing from their homes were a large number of boys and girls. Police report 49 of these persons returned home or were apprehended.

Other cases in the report include 92 auto thefts with 19 recovered by the state police, and 33 by city police; 15 cleared by arrests, and 87 cases of "joy riding" in cars cleared with the machines recovered.

The report also includes 104 larceny cases involving less than $50 each with 52 arrests, five suicide attempts and the finding of 75 business places with doors unlocked at night.

APPEAL TO BE FILED IN DAIRY DISPUTE, DEFENDANTS REPORT

Counsel for the defendants announced Tuesday that an appeal will be taken to the Maryland Court of Appeals in the stock dispute of the Queen City Dairy, Inc., against Clarence U. Llewellyn and Harvey E. England. The high court will be asked to rule on a demurrer filed by defense attorneys which was overruled by Chief Judge William A. Huster in circuit court.

Judge Huster Tuesday revoked a restraining order signed January 30, which had prevented the defendants from transferring or assigning any stock or options on shares. The restraining order was dismissed "with the consent of all parties involved."

Thomas Lohr Richards and Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., attorneys for the defendants, in announcing that the court of appeals will be asked to rule on the demurrer, said that their clients can now purchase or assign stock in the firm.

F. Brooke Whiting, George Henderson and D. Lindley Sloan, attorneys for the dairy firm, had charged the defendants were "seeking to seize control" of the company by buying stock from shareholders and making misstatements about the firm's financial condition. This was denied by the defendants, who asserted that their purchases of shares were lagal and made without exercise or fraud.

THURSDAY, APRIL 11

WHEN—? "Lord, when saw we thee an hungered and fed thee." Matthew 25:37. Read Matthews 25:38-46.

The second surprise is in the responses of the judged. They themselves were surprised. The blessed had won their reward without knowing it; the rejected did not expect their condemnation. The parable teaches then — amongst other things — that God's tribunals are not in the skies, but in our streets, our homes, always and everywhere.

Dr. Atkins

There are the entries on the leaves of the book of ultimate judgment which we write for ourselves day by day.

The "blessed" inherited the recompense of their daily habits; they had become God's "blessed" in their ministries of love and kindness, rendered with no thought of destiny or reward, and the more beautiful because they sought no reward. 'We are," a wise man once said, "is what become of us. Character is eternal destiny." And all its fabric, shining or shadowed is woven on the loom of time.

PRAYER: O thou who hast given us the great and precious trust of life, help us, we pray thee, so to live and love and labor that we may give to all our days and deeds a good accounting. May we so begin in wisdom, continue on in duty and end in love, that the whole course of our lives may in the end be blessed by thee. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen.

SHARP INCREASES URGED BY SCHWELLENBACH IN RETIREMENT BENFITS

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Labor Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach has asked Congress for sharp increases in social security retirement benefits.

He told the House ways and means committee the minimum payable beginning at 65 should be boosted from $10 a month to $20, and the maximum from $85 to $120. He called the present figure "pitifully inadequate."

Moreover, he recommended:

1. Expanding the security program to include 20,000,000 gainfully employed persons not now covered —including 8,000,000 farmers and farm workers; 4,500,000 self-employed including small businessmen; employes of government, state and local; workers for non-profit organizations, and domestic employes.

2. Broadening the act to cover disability to work. Under the present law a disabled worker cannot receive benefits until attaining the age of 65.

3. Special consideration for veterans whose payments into their security accounts were interrupted by the war.

4. Reduce the age at which a wife may qualify from 65 years to 60.

Local Navy Officers Are Released from Service

Two Cumberland naval officers were released to inactive duty Monday at the Naval Personnel Separation Center in Washington. They are Lt. (jg) Jack E. Wright, of 804 Gephart drive and Lt. (jg) George M. Perdew, of 33 Virginia avenue.

Six Cumberland sailors have been discharged in recent days at Bainbridge. They are Joseph C. Mooney, S., 1-c., 616 Niagara street; Matthew D. Dowling, GM., 3-c., Route 2; Herman L. Minnick, MoMM., 3-c., Oldtown Road; Thomas A. Block, BM., 2-c., 76 Greene street; Arthur L. Nestor, S., 2-c., 13 Roberts street; and William A. McBride, SM., 3-c., 411 Central avenue.

Signalman McBride was cited by the commander of the LST flotilla which invaded Southern France. During 19 months overseas, he also took part in the invasions of Anzio and the island of Elba.

Firemen Extinguish Blaze in Garage

East Side and Central Fire Companies were called to the Shipway Motor Express garage, 357 Frederick street, Tuesday at 1:06 p. m. when a gasoline fire broke out in the place.

Firemen said two cans of gasoline in the garage were ignited and reported the flames set fire to the tires of a tractor-trailer and damaged the interior of a Ford coupe parked in the place.

The chief damage to the building, firemen reported, was to glass broken by the intense heat from the flaming gasoline. Fire fighters said the blaze was reported over the telephone as in the 500 block of Frederick street.

I'LL OVER IT

Remember that first bitter disappointment when you were barely more than a kid? Perhaps it was when you found you couldn't have a new dress or suit for your graduation dance. Or when you lost your first job—or your first sweetheart.

Whatever it was, you were sure you'd never get over it. For days your heart was like lead. Nothing interested you. You'd never care like that again—or so you thought.

Yet in time—and a surprisingly short time—you did care again. The keenness of the hurt wore away.

You did not realize it at first. The healing began unconsciously and you couldn't believe it when you discovered at last that the old eagerness and happiness had returned. Yet it had. They had left scars, to be sure. You were a little older and a little wiser. But you were still as full of dreams and desires as you had ever been.

And the same thing has happened dozens of times since then, when you've gone through far greater trouble. Many's the time when you thought that your world had really come to an end—when you couldn't take any more. Yet, even while you cried aloud in despair, the healing was starting. New hope and faith were forming . . . you were getting ready for a new deal.

That's one of the major miracles of our human life—that miracle of a new life starting on the ashes of the old. It seems as if the very forces within us which make us capable of such suffering have also the power to give us a fresh start.

"I'll never get over it!" you cry. To which an old darky gave this valiant answer—"I'll over it!"

You can "over" anything—if you are willing. But there's the joker. Many of us aren't willing to get over our hurts and losses. We aren't willing to accept our scars as part of the day's work and go ahead. Instead we hug our bitter memories. We use them for an escape from reality.

Some of us actually make a racket out of pain. For where could we find a better way to attract attention to ourselves or gain sympathy? Or a finer excuse for evading the struggle and pressure of life?

You can "over" it!

There's no pain or heartache that you can't turn to healthy profit.

BUT YOU HAVE TO BE WILLING!

CONSTIPATION VICTIM TELLS OF RELIEF

Druggist's Wife Praises Famous Laxative Food

Is constipation making your life miserable? This sincere, unsolicited letter may show you the way to lasting relief!

"Just a note of thanks for what KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN has meant to me! For a long period, I suffered from habitual constipation. My husband, a druggist, finally suggested that I try ALL-BRAN. To my joy, it does the trick. Now a bowl of this delicious cereal is on my daily menu." Mrs. Louis Stein, 1404 N. Berendo St., Los Angeles 27, Calif.

If your constipation is due to lack of bulk in the diet, you may never again have to take another harsh laxative—if you eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. Do this for 10 days. If not completely satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. Get double your money back. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a wholesome and nutritious cereal that provides gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat it as a cereal or in muffins every day.

Ask your grocer for ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Physical Training Should Be Changed, Coach Asserts

By LILLIAN HARDEN CRABTREE

HYNDMAN, Pa., April 10—Bruce Fisher, physical director of Bedford high school, spoke Tuesday night at the P.-T. Association meeting in the Hyndman school auditorium.

Coach Fisher, whose athletic teams have had marked success during the past season, stressed the need for an improved program of physical training, not only in this area but throughout the entire state. He recalled that during his 21 years as an instructor very little progress in method of presenting physical education for children has been made. Approximately seventy-five per cent of the physical defects at the present time are a result of physical education, he said.

The meeting, in charge of Mrs. Evelyn Sides, president, was opened with group singing led by Mrs. C. F. Smith and Mrs. Fred Porter at the piano. Officers elected for the year 1946-1947 are as follows: Mrs. Evelyn Sides president; Guy Hyre, vice president; Mrs. Gertrude Shaffer, secretary; Mrs. C. V. Bowers, treasurer.

Refreshments were served in the home economics room by the girls in Miss Harietta White's cooking class.

The May meeting, last of the year, will feature a style show.

Gigging Termed Illegal

District Game Protector John Shanholtz announced at a meeting of the Hardy County Fish and Game Association Tuesday night that gigging is illegal. A recent ruling of the conservation commission was interpreted by some fishermen as permission to gig.

"Only carp and garfish may be gigged," said Shanholtz, "and then only in the presence of and under the supervision of a paid game protector." He also stated that violators would be subject to arrest.

Game food seed may be obtained from the game protectors for sowing on the edges of cultivated fields or in mountain patches not being pastured. The game feed seed consists of a mixture of barley, buckwheat, kafir corn, broom corn, grape and many other seeds and will grow food for all types of game. Strips of this feed sowed along the edges of corn fields keep deer out of corn. Requests for the seed should be placed with game protectors this week.

Shanholtz also announced that seedling trees are available for planting at this season.

It was announced that the bass ponds at the Ed Gilkeson memorial rearing ponds are being filled and that brood bass will be placed in them this week. All four ponds will be devoted to bass this year.

Keyser Negro Is Fatally Injured In Auto Accident

Perry Smith, 21, Dies in Hospital after Crash of Car and Truck

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 10—Perry Smith, 21, negro, was fatally injured when a car he was driving sideswiped a truck on U. S. Route 220, one mile south of the Keyser filtration plant, at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday night.

The accident occurred when a truck going south on the highway swerved to the left to avoid hitting a cyclist, at the time the car driven by Smith was approaching, traveling north in the direction of Keyser. Smith turned to the right, but the distance was too close to avoid the collision, authorities said.

Riding with Smith were four other young men, Clarence Edward Keys, 366 South Water street; Linwood "Buck" Brown, 320 South Mineral street, Arnold Redman, 44 Newton street, and Ernest Price, 135 Erin street, Piedmont. The five men had spent the evening in Petersburg, and were returning to Keyser.

The men were taken to Potomac Valley hospital, where Smith died early this morning. His left arm was torn off and he suffered severe internal injuries. Keys suffered a probable skull fracture and a broken neck. He remains in the hospital in a critical condition. Brown, Redman and Price were treated for minor injuries and were released from the hospital.

The car, a 1936 two-door Ford sedan, owned by Mrs. Martha Smith, mother of Perry Smith, was virtually demolished. The entire left side, including the front wheel and fenders, was torn off. The truck, owned by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and driven by Roy Vance Miller, Burlington, was also badly damaged. Other than being badly shaken up, Miller escaped injury.

The accident is being investigated by state police. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot stated that no charges had been preferred, pending a more thorough investigation.

Perry Smith, who served in the navy during the war, received his honorable discharge four months ago. He was employed at the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. He was unmarried and lived with his parents, John and Martha Elizabeth Smith, at 157 Lincoln street.

Besides his parents he is survived by five brothers and four sisters, all at home. They are John, Jr., Andrew, Lawrence, Alfred, Robert, Dorothy, Margaret, Bettie and Gloria.

Interment will be in Thorn Rose cemetery. The time of the funeral has not been set.

Gigging Termed Illegal

District Game Protector John Shanholtz announced at a meeting of the Hardy County Fish and Game Association Tuesday night that gigging is illegal. A recent ruling of the conservation commission was interpreted by some fishermen as permission to gig.

Game food seed may be obtained from the game protectors for sowing on the edges of cultivated fields or in mountain patches not being pastured. The game feed seed consists of a mixture of barley, buckwheat, kafir corn, broom corn, grape and many other seeds and will grow food for all types of game. Strips of this feed sowed along the edges of corn fields keep deer out of corn. Requests for the seed should be placed with game protectors this week.

Shanholtz also announced that seedling trees are available for planting at this season.

It was announced that the bass ponds at the Ed Gilkeson memorial rearing ponds are being filled and that brood bass will be placed in them this week. All four ponds will be devoted to bass this year.

Keyser Negro Is Fatally Injured In Auto Accident

Perry Smith, 21, Dies in Hospital after Crash of Car and Truck

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., April 10—Perry Smith, 21, negro, was fatally injured when a car he was driving sideswiped a truck on U. S. Route 220, one mile south of the Keyser filtration plant, at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday night.

The accident occurred when a truck going south on the highway swerved to the left to avoid hitting a cyclist, at the time the car driven by Smith was approaching, traveling north in the direction of Keyser. Smith turned to the right, but the distance was too close to avoid the collision, authorities said.

Riding with Smith were four other young men, Clarence Edward Keys, 366 South Water street; Linwood "Buck" Brown, 320 South Mineral street, Arnold Redman, 44 Newton street, and Ernest Price, 135 Erin street, Piedmont. The five men had spent the evening in Petersburg, and were returning to Keyser.

The men were taken to Potomac Valley hospital, where Smith died early this morning. His left arm was torn off and he suffered severe internal injuries. Keys suffered a probable skull fracture and a broken neck. He remains in the hospital in a critical condition. Brown, Redman and Price were treated for minor injuries and were released from the hospital.

The car, a 1936 two-door Ford sedan, owned by Mrs. Martha Smith, mother of Perry Smith, was virtually demolished. The entire left side, including the front wheel and fenders, was torn off. The truck, owned by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and driven by Roy Vance Miller, Burlington, was also badly damaged. Other than being badly shaken up, Miller escaped injury.

The accident is being investigated by state police. Trooper L. E. Proudfoot stated that no charges had been preferred, pending a more thorough investigation.

Perry Smith, who served in the navy during the war, received his honorable discharge four months ago. He was employed at the Keyser shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. He was unmarried and lived with his parents, John and Martha Elizabeth Smith, at 157 Lincoln street.

Besides his parents he is survived by five brothers and four sisters, all at home. They are John, Jr., Andrew, Lawrence, Alfred, Robert, Dorothy, Margaret, Bettie and Gloria.

Interment will be in Thorn Rose cemetery. The time of the funeral has not been set.

Local Red Cross Workers Visit Baker Hospital

Newton D. Baker General Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., the army hospital nearest Cumberland, is not accepting any new patients and nothing is known as to the institutions status after May 1, Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of the Red Cross here, was told yesterday when she visited there.

Whether the hospital will be continued as an army hospital or as a veterans hospital, or will be closed seems to be undetermined officially. The commander of the hospital told his visitors yesterday that he does not know.

Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross volunteers have done considerable service work at Baker hospital for patients there. The number of local army veterans who have received treatment there during and since the war is large.

Mrs. Dean, accompanied by Mrs. John Thomas, chairman of the home service corps for Red Cross here, attended an all-day meeting at the hospital yesterday. Mrs. Dean said Major John Michaels of Harvard University, army psychiatrist, and several other noted psychiatrists gave lectures and demonstrations on the subject. Methods of treating and caring for men suffering from mental and nervous disorders were explained and demonstrated. The visitors were then taken on a tour of the institution.

Amick Jr., and Mrs. Jack Wetzel, local Red Cross representatives in charge of furnishing entertainment and recreation for patients at the hospital will make their regular visit. Mrs. Amick said last night that the men have requested popcorn poppers, T-shirts, handkerchiefs and radios.

One radio has been donated and several more are needed. Persons who have pop-corn poppers, new or used are asked to contribute them for the use of these hospital patients. Handkerchiefs and T-Shirts will also be accepted by the Red Cross as gifts for the men.

Steinla Purchases Garage Building

Purchase of the large garage building on Bedford road three miles northeast of Cumberland by Oscar Ervin Steinla from the Harris-Boyer Company, Incorporated, was revealed yesterday by a deed recorded in the office of the clerk of court. The purchase price of the structure was $15,775.

Steinla said last night that his object in purchasing the building that was erected originally as a garage was to provide for the "overflow" business from his present garage at 218 South Mechanic street.

Steinla said that he is fairly certain that he will soon broaden the activities of his organization by handling industrial and road equipment. The building on Bedford road will be used for this line of equipment, he said.

The building purchased yesterday is a brick and concrete structure, fifty by 100 feet in size. Of late years, it has been used by the Harris-Boyer Company as a loading and unloading center but it was originally built for a garage. One feature of the building is that it has no posts in it.

Small Fry Easter Party

ICE CREAM FOR KIDDIES: Makes the party complete.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

The Easter of bunnies and little chicks and gaily colored candy eggs is a children's season. It offers a very fine time to have a young party.

Ice cream spells "party" to young ones, no matter what the season. Here's an inexpensive, easily made ice cream which should produce a creamy, smooth result. Try it and see!

Magic Vanilla Ice Cream

⅔ cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Mix sweetened condensed milk, water and vanilla. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Freeze in freezing unit of refrigerator until half frozen. Scrape from tray. Beat until smooth, but not melted. Replace in freezing unit until frozen.

Serve this creamy ice cream in individual dishes, decorated with brightly-colered jelly beans, which are crunchy with the ice cream.

There almost must be rabbit and chicken cookies to make this party an Easter one. If you use a good, simple recipe, the children can at least help to make them if not do the whole job themselves. That will make the party much more fun when it's presented.

Plain Cookies

2½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅔ cup shortening

Cream shortening and sugar. Beat in egg. Add vanilla. Mix and sift two cups flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the first mixture and then add sufficient additional sifted flour to form a dough which is just stiff enough to roll. Chill thoroughly. Roll one-eighth inch thick, cut into rabbit and chick shapes, and bake on ungreased cookie sheets, at 375° for eight minutes. A little sugar sprinkled on these cookies is an excellent addition. You can make eyes in the Easter rabbit with currants, or bits of same.

Work on WOW Home Is Allowed To Continue

Despite the objection of Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, construction of the Woodmen of the World home on Union street is proceeding, it was announced yesterday.

The fire chief complained to the mayor and city council Monday that the building code was being violated as no openings were being left in the front of the building for firemen to gain admittance in case of fire.

Chief Hoenicka won his point and construction was ordered stopped. Woodmen officials appealed the decision and according to Mayor T. S. Post, Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, ruled that the code was not being violated. Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, contended Monday that the code gives the engineer the right to amend regulations in the light of modern construction methods.

The railroad side of claim prevention activities was presented by W. T. Bradburn, assistant general freight claim agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Baltimore.

Other topics presented by Leo H. Ley, traffic manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, included reference to reduction of demurrage rates on box and refrigerator cars although, he said, the demand for such equipment is still heavy.

Local Red Cross Workers Visit Baker Hospital

Newton D. Baker General Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., the army hospital nearest Cumberland, is not accepting any new patients and nothing is known as to the institutions status after May 1, Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of the Red Cross here, was told yesterday when she visited there.

Whether the hospital will be continued as an army hospital or as a veterans hospital, or will be closed seems to be undetermined officially. The commander of the hospital told his visitors yesterday that he does not know.

Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross volunteers have done considerable service work at Baker hospital for patients there. The number of local army veterans who have received treatment there during and since the war is large.

Mrs. Dean, accompanied by Mrs. John Thomas, chairman of the home service corps for Red Cross here, attended an all-day meeting at the hospital yesterday. Mrs. Dean said Major John Michaels of Harvard University, army psychiatrist, and several other noted psychiatrists gave lectures and demonstrations on the subject. Methods of treating and caring for men suffering from mental and nervous disorders were explained and demonstrated. The visitors were then taken on a tour of the institution.

Next week, on April 18, Mrs. A. H. Amick Jr., and Mrs. Jack Wetzel, local Red Cross representatives in charge of furnishing entertainment and recreation for patients at the hospital will make their regular visit. Mrs. Amick said last night that the men have requested popcorn poppers, T-shirts, handkerchiefs and radios.

One radio has been donated and several more are needed. Persons who have pop-corn poppers, new or used are asked to contribute them for the use of these hospital patients. Handkerchiefs and T-Shirts will also be accepted by the Red Cross as gifts for the men.

Steinla Purchases Garage Building

Purchase of the large garage building on Bedford road three miles northeast of Cumberland by Oscar Ervin Steinla from the Harris-Boyer Company, Incorporated, was revealed yesterday by a deed recorded in the office of the clerk of court. The purchase price of the structure was $15,775.

Steinla said that he is fairly certain that he will soon broaden the activities of his organization by handling industrial and road equipment. The building on Bedford road will be used for this line of equipment, he said.

The building purchased yesterday is a brick and concrete structure, fifty by 100 feet in size. Of late years, it has been used by the Harris-Boyer Company as a loading and unloading center but it was originally built for a garage. One feature of the bufiding is that it has no posts in it.

Work on WOW Home Is Allowed To Continue

Despite the objection of Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, construction of the Woodmen of the World home on Union street is proceeding, it was announced yesterday.

The fire chief complained to the mayor and city council Monday that the building code was being violated as no openings were being left in the front of the building for firemen to gain admittance in case of fire.

Chief Hoenicka won his point and construction was ordered stopped. Woodmen officials appealed the decision and according to Mayor T. S. Post, Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, ruled that the code was not being violated. Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, contended Monday that the code gives the engineer the right to amend regulations in the light of modern construction methods.

Tri-State Traffic Club Marks Perfect Shipping Campaign

Members of the Tri-State Traffic Club and their guests observed the tenth annual April Perfect Shipping campaign last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club with an address by Joseph C. Colquitt, chairman of the National Classification committee of the American Trucking Association, Incorporated.

Colquitt discussed some of the many problems that result in loss and damage to shipments. By using sound slide films he demonstrated how traffic can be handled to the advantage of shippers and consignees and with a savings in claim payments to the transportation agencies.

The railroad side of claim prevention activities was presented by W. T. Bradburn, assistant general freight claim agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Baltimore.

Other topics presented by Leo H. Ley, traffic manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, included reference to reduction of demurrage rates on box and refrigerator cars although, he said, the demand for such equipment is still heavy.

Cumberland will be on one of the new through sleeper routes of the B. and O. railroad which will operate a Pullman sleeper between Washington, D. C., and the West coast, according to a report made at the meeting.

Peter J. Decker, vice president, was in charge of the meeting, arrangements for which were made by Martin L. Johnson, John L. Carnochan, Leo H. Ley and William C. Somerville.

Entertainment was provided by Oscar C. Parrish, magician.

Traveling Recruiter Gets Commendation

Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, traveling recruiter assigned to the local navy recruiting office has been awarded a commendation ribbon for meritorious conduct on submarine duty in the Pacific, according to Chief Boatswains Mate Bradford Smith, local navy recruiter.

The citation reads, "For meritorious conduct in the performance of his duties in the U. S. S. Hake during the Sixth War Patrol of that vessel from August 5, 1944 to September 25, 1944. As chief of the boat, his industry, skill and able supervision in maintaining a high state of readiness in the Control Room at all times were of invaluable assistance to his Commanding Officer in conducting a successful attack which resulted in the sinking of a Japanese destroyer of the Asashio class. His coolness and high devotion to duty contributed directly to the success of his vessel in evading severe enemy countermeasures. His conduct throughout was an inspiration to all with whom he served and in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service".

The letter of commendation was signed by Admiral R. A. Spruance.

Market's Advance toward 15-Year Highs Is Halted by Irregularities

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — The stock market's advance toward fifteen-year highs was halted today in a session of irregular movements.

Total sales for the day were 1,580,000 shares compared with 1,710,000 Tuesday. Of 1,015 issues traded, 440 declined and 384 advanced.

Analysts said the market was vulnerable after its rise to within a shade of the February top, and lacking bullish news developments, support for a new push failed to develop. Predictions that the soft coal walkout would be of long duration and a strike threat by shipyard workers were anything but encouraging. Strike settlements, stock split proposals and dividend actions propped individual issues.

Off fractions to more than a point at the close were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Willys-Overland, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Anaconda, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.) and Northern Pacific. Gainers included Youngstown Sheet, J. I. Case, United States Gypsum, American Can, New York Central, Texas Company, Loew's, Burroughs Adding Machine, Sun Chemical, Dow Chemical, United Cigar-Shelan Stores and International Telephone.

Advancing in the Curb were Divco (on a dividend boost), Sterling, Inc., and Mesabi Iron. Lower were Electric Bond and Share, Bohack common and first preferred, Cities Service and Niles-Bement-Pond. Turnover here was 590,000 shares against 660,000 Tuesday.

Renewed demand propped long-term federal issues while domestic corporate loans wavered after a try at higher levels in bond trading.

Higher were Central of Georgia 5s of '59 "C" at 29⅞, St. Paul convertible 4½s at 90, Rock Island convertible 4½s at 38¼, Wisconsin Central Superior and Duluth division 4s at 54⅝, and Denver and Rio Grande Western assented 5s at 25.

On the losing side were American Telephone 3s at 151⅛, Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at 80¾, Chicago and Alton 3s at 61¾ and Lehigh Valley 4s stamped of 2003 at 56¼.

Volume of $5,480,000 compared with $5,400,000 Tuesday.

Restoration of Elevator Service in Public Safety Building Discussed

Plans for restoring the elevator in the Public Safety building to working order were discussed at a meeting of the board of health, Tuesday morning in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, a member of the board, was asked to contact the company which installed the elevator for an estimate of the cost.

Mayor Post recalled that five years ago the cost of repairing the elevator was estimated at about $800, but that the cost will probably be greater now because of the rise in price of materials since that time.

The board recommended that Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, and Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer, be re-appointed.

The recommendation will be referred to the mayor and city council.

JACKSON SCORES DEFENSE IN WAR CRIMES TRIAL

NUERNBERG, April 10 (AP)—Chief U. S. Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson accused defense counsel for Nazi leaders on trial for war crimes of using the international military tribunal as a sounding board for "violent anti-Semitism," and proposed that the court deny further printing facilities to the defense.

Jackson's attack, charging the defense with a "flagrant case of contempt of court," was levelled at an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for former Nazi philosopher Alfred Rosenberg.

Jackson read excerpts from the documents which characterized Jews as a "bastard population," and as "arrogant, shrewd and crooked."

"The United States cannot print and disseminate to the press this violent anti-Semitism," Jackson said. "The defense believes we are here to try the issue of the causes of anti-Semitism with this tribunal as a sounding board. That is wrong. The issue is not Rosenberg's philosophy, but we are charging the murder of four to five million Jews."

The tribunal accepted Jackson's suggestion that a special master be named to rule on the relevance of material submitted for printing, taking the burden from the prosecutors and the tribunal itself.

Divorce Granted Lonaconing Man

James S. Orr, 31, Lonaconing, Tuesday was awarded an absolute divorce from Mrs. Eva M. Orr on the grounds that she left home while he was in the service and joined a carnival. Since that time she has indicated that she did not wish to return to him.

Orr, represented by Noel Speir Cook, testified that he met and married his wife while he was on furlough in 1942 and that later his wife visited him at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. While stationed in Aintree, England, he received a letter from his wife informing him saying that their marriage was a mistake.

The court Tuesday awarded an absolute decree to Mrs. Mabel M. Hardman, 36, Route 2 Cumberland, represented by Paul M. Fletcher, from Marshall E. Hardman, and was given the custody of their two minor children. They were married in 1926 and separated last year.

Mrs. Mabel I. Brown Flynn, 26, Wilmington, Del., a former member of the Women's Reserve of the Marines, has been awarded a divorce from James T. Flynn, Cumberland, a former sailor. She was given the custody of their son, one-year old, and Flynn was ordered to pay $30 a month for the child's support.

The wife, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said they married May 12, 1944, in Williamsburg, Va., after he was divorced from his first wife. Both were in the service at that time. She was discharged in June, 1944, and he received his discharge last December.

Mrs. Wilma E. Gadbois has filed suit for divorce from Henry D. Gadbois, but grounds were not disclosed by her counsel, William L. Wilson, Jr.

Mrs. Clara L. Harvey Carroll, 407 Cumberland street, has filed suit for a partial divorce from William L. Carroll, and also asks for the custody of their daughter, aged four. The wife, represented by Edwin M. Horchler, said they were married February 18, 1941, and lived together until last December 1. Both still occupy the same house, she added. Chief Judge William A. Huster has ordered Carroll to pay his wife $20 a week alimony, pending a decision in the case, and restrained him from entering the home or molesting her in any way.

Famous Restaurant Damaged by Fire

BALTIMORE, April 10—(AP)—Destruction of large stocks of food and a complete wine cellar resulted Tuesday from a three-alarm fire in Miller Brothers' restaurant which tied up traffic for more than an hour on main streets of the city.

John Henry Miller, proprietor of the restaurant, said the wine cellar, adjoining a basement room in which the fire started, was flooded, and that destruction of food stores had forced the closing of the restaurant for an indefinite period.

The fire started about 9 a. m. in the basemen under the kitchen. Paul Pantzer, head chef, said workmen were installing refrigeration equipment there, and twenty-five employees were at work in the kitchen when the workmen rushed up and told them about the fire.

Prowler Reported At LaVale Home

State police received a call Tuesday night to the home of Mrs. Edgar Kendall, LaVale, who reported a prowler.

Trooper Harold Basore, answering the call, went to the home, and after talking to Mrs. Kendall went to the basement to look around.

The light switch at the top of the basement stairs failed to work the lights in the basement, and the trooper, on investigation, found that the light bulb had been loosened. Just as he got the lights on, he noticed a man's leg disappearing in the coal shute.

The man got away but police are still investigating.

Market's Advance toward 15-Year Highs Is Halted by Irregularities

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — The stock market's advance toward fifteen-year highs was halted today in a session of irregular movements.

Total sales for the day were 1,580,000 shares compared with 1,710,000 Tuesday. Of 1,015 issues traded, 540 declined and 384 advanced.

Analysts said the market was vulnerable after its rise to within a shade of the February top, and lacking bullish news developments, support for a new push failed to develop. Predictions that the soft coal walkout would be of long duration and a strike threat by shipyard workers were anything but encouraging. Strike settlements, stock split proposals and dividend actions propped individual issues.

Off fractions to more than a point at the close were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Willys-Overland, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Anaconda, Air Reduction, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.) and Northern Pacific. Gainers included Youngstown Sheet, J. I. Case, United States Gypsum, American Can, New York Central, Texas Company, Loew's, Burroughs Adding Machine, Sun Chemical, Dow Chemical, United Cigar-Shelan Stores and International Telephone.

Advancing in the Curb were Divco (on a dividend boost), Sterling, Inc., and Mesabi Iron. Lower were Electric Bond and Share, Bohack common and first preferred, Cities Service and Niles-Bement-Pond. Turnover here was 590,000 shares against 660,000 Tuesday.

Renewed demand propped long-term federal issues while domestic corporate loans wavered after a try at higher levels in bond trading.

Higher were Central of Georgia 5s of '59 "C" at 29⅞, St. Paul convertible 4½s at 90, Rock Island convertible 4½s at 38¼, Wisconsin Central Superior and Duluth division 4s at 54⅝, and Denver and Rio Grande Western assented 5s at 25.

On the losing side were American Telephone 3s at 151½, Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at 80¾, Chicago and Alton 3s at 61¾ and Lehigh Valley 4s stamped of 2003 at 56¼.

Volume of $5,480,000 compared with $5,400,000 Tuesday.

Restoration of Elevator Service in Public Safety Building Discussed

Plans for restoring the elevator in the Public Safety building to working order were discussed at a meeting of the board of health, Tuesday morning in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, a member of the board, was asked to contact the company which installed the elevator for an estimate of the cost.

Mayor Post recalled that five years ago the cost of repairing the elevator was estimated at about $800, but that the cost will probably be greater now because of the rise in price of materials since that time.

The board recommended that Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, and Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer, be re-appointed.

The recommendation will be referred to the mayor and city council.

JACKSON SCORES DEFENSE IN WAR CRIMES TRIAL

NUERNBERG, April 10 (AP)—Chief U. S. Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson accused defense counsel for Nazi leaders on trial for war crimes of using the international military tribunal as a sounding board for "violent anti-Semitism," and proposed that the court deny further printing facilities to the defense.

Jackson's attack, charging the defense with a "flagrant case of contempt of court," was levelled at an exhibit of documentary evidence which the tribunal's presses had printed for former Nazi philosopher Alfred Rosenberg.

Jackson read excerpts from the documents which characterized Jews as a "bastard population," and as "arrogant, shrewd and crooked."

"The United States cannot print and disseminate to the press this violent anti-Semitism," Jackson said. "The defense believes we are here to try the issue of the causes of anti-Semitism with this tribunal as a sounding board. That is wrong. The issue is not Rosenberg's philosophy, but we are charging the murder of four to five million Jews."

The tribunal accepted Jackson's suggestion that a special master be named to rule on the relevance of material submitted for printing, taking the burden from the prosecutors and the tribunal itself.

Divorce Granted Lonaconing Man

James S. Orr, 31, Lonaconing, Tuesday was awarded an absolute divorce from Mrs. Eva M. Orr on the grounds that she left home while he was in the service and joined a carnival. Since that time she has indicated that she did not wish to return to him.

Orr, represented by Noel Speir Cook, testified that he met and married his wife while he was on furlough in 1942 and that later his wife visited him at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. While stationed in Aintree, England, he received a letter from his wife informing him saying that their marriage was a mistake.

The court Tuesday awarded an absolute decree to Mrs. Mabel M. Hardman, 36, Route 2 Cumberland, represented by Paul M. Fletcher, from Marshall E. Hardman, and was given the custody of their two minor children. They were married in 1926 and separated last year.

Mrs. Mabel I. Brown Flynn, 26, Wilmington, Del., a former member of the Women's Reserve of the Marines, has been awarded a divorce from James T. Flynn, Cumberland, a former sailor. She was given the custody of their son, one-year old, and Flynn was ordered to pay $30 a month for the child's support.

The wife, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said they married May 12, 1944, in Williamsburg, Va., after he was divorced from his first wife. Both were in the service at that time. She was discharged in June, 1944, and he received his discharge last December.

Mrs. Wilma E. Gadbois has filed suit for divorce from Henry D. Gadbois, but grounds were not disclosed by her counsel, William L. Wilson, Jr.

Mrs. Clara L. Harvey Carroll, 407 Cumberland street, has filed suit for a partial divorce from William L. Carroll, and also asks for the custody of their daughter, aged four. The wife, represented by Edwin M. Horchler, said they were married February 18, 1941, and lived together until last December 1. Both still occupy the same house, she added. Chief Judge William A. Huster has ordered Carroll to pay his wife $20 a week alimony, pending a decision in the case, and restrained him from entering the home or molesting her in any way.

Famous Restaurant Damaged by Fire

BALTIMORE, April 10—(AP)—Destruction of large stocks of food and a complete wine cellar resulted Tuesday from a three-alarm fire in Miller Brothers' restaurant which tied up traffic for more than an hour on main streets of the city.

John Henry Miller, proprietor of the restaurant, said the wine cellar, adjoining a basement room in which the fire started, was flooded, and that destruction of food stores had forced the closing of the restaurant for an indefinite period.

The fire started about 9 a. m. in the basemen under the kitchen. Paul Pantzer, head chef, said workmen were installing refrigeration equipment there, and twenty-five employees were at work in the kitchen when the workmen rushed up and told them about the fire.

Prowler Reported At LaVale Home

State police received a call Tuesday night to the home of Mrs. Edgar Kendall, LaVale, who reported a prowler.

Trooper Harold Basore, answering the call, went to the home, and after talking to Mrs. Kendall went to the basement to look around.

The light switch at the top of the basement stairs failed to work the lights in the basement, and the trooper, on investigation, found that the light bulb had been loosened. Just as he got the lights on, he noticed a man's leg disappearing in the coal shute.

The man got away but police are still investigating.

Cardinals Picked To Finish First By Whitney Martin

Club Has "Practically Everything" That Ball Team Needs

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — At the risk of being practically an isolationist, as there are only a few million others with the same idea, we are picking the St. Louis Cardinals to finish first in the National League race, followed by the Chicago Cubs, followed by chaos.

The remainder of the clubs loom as a vague jumble of arms and legs, with the Giants having a hand on third place and a foot on seventh or the Braves with an elbow in the first division and a knee near the cellar. You just can't tell much about any of them.

Just to make some sort of order out of the situation, however, we'd place the Brooklyn Dodgers in third place behind the Cubs, the New York Giants fourth, the Boston Braves fifth, the Pittsburgh Pirates sixth, the Philadelphia Phillies seventh and the Cincinnati Reds last.

Cubs No Threat

Right now we can't see any serious challenge the Cardinals might have to face, and it is an odd situation indeed when the defending champions, in this case the Chicago Cubs, are not rated a serious threat, although selected for the runnerup spot.

We base our selection of the Cards on the theory they have more of practically everything than any other club, that they probably are more improved than any other club through the return of service men, and that if they could finish a close second last year they should be a shoo-in this year because of that improvement.

They have pitching in quantity and quality, their star-studded pre-war outfield, and a satisfactory infield. They don't have Walker Cooper to catch, but then, they didn't last year either.

In comparison with the Cards, the Cubs seem to have improved little. They have Hi Bithorn back, a good pitcher, and may get Dom Dallessandro, capable outfielder. But aside from them, the team is about the same, only a year older.

The Dodgers seem to be a big gamble to finish third, as they've been so beset by injuries this spring it's hard to tell much about them. However, if they can get together sometime all in one piece they might offer a pretty stout argument.

The Giants leave your guessing, and it's just a guess that their power hitting — on paper anyway — might offset a recognized pitching deficiency sufficiently to allow them to bludgeon their way into the first division. Walker Cooper undoubtedly will be a valuable asset, although just how great remains to be seen.

Hopp is Asset

In moving the Braves up from their sixth place finish of last year to fifth we are putting much faith in the managerial ability of Billy Southworth. We think he'll have a hustling team, the hustle making up for some obvious deficiencies. We aren't counting on Mort Cooper too much, but do think Johnny Hopp will be a great asset.

We do not think the Pirates have improved too much, and can't see them matching their fourth-place finish of last year. The Phils will be improved, and will continue to improve, but whether they have improved enough to move up more than one position is very doubtful.

We dislike the idea of putting the Reds last, but aside from good pitching and a promising rookie baseman Bill McKechnie doesn't seem to have much. The admittedly are building for the future, and it looks like they'll be starting to build where most building starts—from the basement.

Errors Contribute To LaSalle's 4-0 Loss to Alumni

Regular Schedule Opens Friday Afternoon at Berkeley Springs

LaSalle Alumni took advantage of six errors by the LaSalle baseball club yesterday afternoon to defeat the Blue and Gold nine 4-0, at Community park despite one-hit pitching by Pat Creegan and Jim Dulaney.

The game was the season's curtain raiser for LaSalle, which opens its regular sixteen-game schedule Friday afternoon at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., following another practice setto this afternoon against the LaSalle seniors.

Despite the loss yesterday, Brother Matthew, team moderator, said the LaSalle nine "looked good" and should "hold its own" against other high school teams on its schedule.

A ten-game schedule for LaSalle was announced last week, but Brother Matthew said yesterday that home and home games have been arranged with Berkeley Springs high school, Kitzmiller high school and Masontown, Pa., high school.

LaSalle's schedule opens at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Berkeley Springs, and the second game will be played Saturday afternoon at Kitzmiller.

Masontown will be played at Masontown on Wednesday, May 8. On Thursday, May 9, Berkeley Springs will play here. Masontown will be met here on Wednesday, May 15, and Kitzmiller will be played here on Friday, May 31.

Boxing Tournament Tickets Go on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the third and final night of the tri-state amateur boxing tournament next Monday night at the state armory are now on sale, according to John R. Kelley, Jr., chairman of the ticket committee. The tourney is sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Kelly said tickets may be secured at the Legion home, Richardson's drug store, the L.O.O. Moose home, the Nu-Way shoe shop, Keech's drug store and the Savoy bowling alleys.

Only one championship, the 135-pound open, remains to be decided. In the finals, "Shoeless Bob" Porter will meet Jack Klosterman. However, Matchmakers Bob Chisholm and Phil Fleming are making an effort to bring in an out-of-town team to meet a group of local mittmen as an extra attraction.

Navy Baseballers Defeat Villanova

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10. (AP)—The Navy baseball team hung up another victory today, downing the Villanova college aggregation 12 to 5.

It was a wild game, in which bases on balls and errors contributed heavily to the scoring by both teams. Phil Thom alone passed ten Villanova batters.

Navy took a first inning lead, added a second run in the next frame and put the game on ice in the third. The Tars counted seven times in that round on hits by Bob Hill and Ken Woods, four walks and a couple of errors.

Woods, Middie catcher, made one third of the putouts for his team, while Shortstop Jay McKie accounted for eight others.

Olympic Winner Is Now Studying Music in Texas

Earl Meadows, Former GI, Says He Is Through with Athletics

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 10—(AP)—Out at Texas Christian university these days you'll find Earl Meadows, Olympic titleholder and ex-GI, working on his Masters degree in music, his first love.

A decade ago he was the toast of the track and field realm—world's record-holder and champion of the Olympic games in the pole vault.

Meadows, who went from high school stardom in Fort Worth to the University of Southern California to win international acclaim, is through with sports. After he receives his music degree he hopes to get into radio. Voice is his major.

In 1933 he set the Texas schoolboy pole vault record at 13 feet 1½ inches. It still stands today. That attracted the attention of Southern California and Meadows was wooled into the ranks of the Trojans. He proceeded to shatter all previous West coast records and was chosen to represent the United States in the Olympic games in Berlin in 1936—last time the big show was held.

He won the championships. Second and third places went to two Japanese athletes, friends of Meadows at the time. During the war they were killed in combat flying Japanese Zeros over the Philippine islands.

In 1937 Meadows broke the world's record with a leap of 14 feet 11 iuches. It stood until 1942 when Cornelius Warmerdam soared 15 feet 7¾ inches.

During the war Meadows served two-and-a-half years in the China theater. In succession he was an officer in intelligence, a director of athletics and worked on information and educational courses for GI's. A captain when he was discharged, he came to Texas Christian under the GI Bill of Rights.

Sidelight of his service overseas was participation in a Chinese and American track and field meet in 1944 in which nine records were shattered. Earl won the pole vault at 14 feet even.

Meadows is reticent about talking of his track exploits. "No one is interested in that—it's old stuff."

Kentucky Derby Hopeful To Race At Havre De Grace

HAVE DE GRACE, Md., April 10. (AP)—Two score of the promising three-year-old crop of 1946 have been nominated for the $20,000-added Chesapeake Stakes to be run at the Havre De Grace race track April 27.

Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan's list announced today included Assault, King Ranch's Kentucky Derby eligible, victor in the Experimental Handicap at Jamaica yesterday, and Bobanet Stable's Marine Victory, winner of his first outing at Bowie last week.

Others in this mile and a sixteenth test include Cedar Farm's Lovemenow, stakes winner on several occasions; Foxcatcher Farms' Hampden, recent galloping winner in New York; the speedy Rippey, one of four eligibles from the William Helis String; Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' highly regarded Natchez; Edward Lasker's Athene; Christiana Stable's Sea Snack, and Crispin Oglebay's Air Hero.

Most of these three-year-olds are eligible for the Chesapeake trial, a six furlong dash worth $5,000 which will be run April 20, a week before the Chesapeake itself, thus providing trainers a chance to test their charges for the richer event to follow.

Before the war forced the closing of Havre De Grace, the Chesapeake, along with the Wood Memorial at New York, was regarded as an important step toward participation in the Kentucky Derby. The Wood will be run April 20, the Derby May 4.

At the end of the first two weeks of the decathlon, Spencer Rossell and Ronald Hansrote are tied for first place in the B class with 125 points each. Ronald Cage is leading the A class with 200 points and Schley Lyons is second with 105 points.

McCoy Fails To Make Grade with Detroit

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 10 (AP)—Benny McCoy, released this spring by the Philadelphia Athletics, failed to make the grade in his week's tryout for a Detroit Tiger infield berth, Manager Steve O'Neill announced today.

In 1940, McCoy received a $45,000 bonus for signing with the Athletics after the late Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis had declared him a free agent. Prior to that time he had played parts of two seasons with the Tigers.

Mesl Is Winner Of Kindergarten Stakes at Bowie

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BOWIE, Md., April 10 (AP)—Jouett Shouse's Mesl, two-year-old daughter of Head Play-Arden Lass, scored a mild upset today in the eighteenth running of the $5,000 Bowie Kindergarten stakes, to hand the favored Bobanet stable its first defeat in the juvenile division during the Bowie meeting.

The crowd of approximately 15,000 persons made the Bobanet entry of Regained and Can't Catch Me the odds-on favorite, after this pair won maiden races last week, but Mesl had too much for R. Bruce Livie's pair in today's four-furlong dash.

Mesl was first away, held a neck advantage over Regained at the far turn, and permitted Regained to take a head lead at the home lane before Jockey Bobbie Root urged his mount to the wire with a three fourths length victory over C. E. Buckely's Buck C.

After his bid on the stretch turn, Regained faded to third, a length in arrears of Buck C., in the field of seven juveniles. E. K. Bryson's Bullow, coupled with Mesl in the wagering, was fourth.

Mesl, which had been going good at Hialeah during the winter, traveled the half mile in forty-eight seconds flat over a fast track, compared with the track record of 46.3 set by Too High in 1928. Lovely Imp, from the Bobanet string, covered the distance in 47.4 here Monday.

Today's winner paid $10.40, $9.30 and $2.10, while Buck C.'s place backers collected a sweet $25.

Cardinals Picked To Finish First By Whitney Martin

Club Has "Practically Everything" That Ball Team Needs

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP) — At the risk of being practically an isolationist, as there are only a few million others with the same idea, we are picking the St. Louis Cardinals to finish first in the National League race, followed by the Chicago Cubs, followed by chaos.

The remainder of the clubs loom as a vague jumble of arms and legs, with the Giants having a hand on third place and a foot on seventh or the Braves with an elbow in the first division and a knee near the cellar. You just can't tell much about any of them.

Just to make some sort of order out of the situation, however, we'd place the Brooklyn Dodgers in third place behind the Cubs, the New York Giants fourth, the Boston Braves fifth, the Pittsburgh Pirates sixth, the Philadelphia Phillies seventh and the Cincinnati Reds last.

Cubs No Threat

Right now we can't see any serious challenge the Cardinals might have to face, and it is an odd situation indeed when the defending champions, in this case the Chicago Cubs, are not rated a serious threat, although selected for the runnerup spot.

We base our selection of the Cards on the theory they have more of practically everything than any other club, that they probably are more improved than any other club through the return of service men, and that if they could finish a close second last year they should be a shoo-in this year because of that improvement.

They have pitching in quantity and quality, their star-studded pre-war outfield, and a satisfactory infield. They don't have Walker Cooper to catch, but then, they didn't last year either.

In comparison with the Cards, the Cubs seem to have improved little. They have Hi Bithorn back, a good pitcher, and may get Dom Dallessandro, capable outfielder. But aside from them, the team is about the same, only a year older.

The Dodgers seem to be a big gamble to finish third, as they've been so beset by injuries this spring it's hard to tell much about them. However, if they can get together sometime all in one piece they might offer a pretty stout argument.

The Giants leave your guessing, and it's just a guess that their power hitting — on paper anyway — might offset a recognized pitching deficiency sufficiently to allow them to bludgeon their way into the first division. Walker Cooper undoubtedly will be a valuable asset, although just how great remains to be seen.

Hopp is Asset

In moving the Braves up from their sixth place finish of last year to fifth we are putting much faith in the managerial ability of Billy Southworth. We think he'll have a hustling team, the hustle making up for some obvious deficiencies. We aren't counting on Mort Cooper too much, but do think Johnny Hopp will be a great asset.

We do not think the Pirates have improved too much, and can't see them matching their fourth-place finish of last year. The Phils will be improved, and will continue to improve, but whether they have improved enough to move up more than one position is very doubtful.

We dislike the idea of putting the Reds last, but aside from good pitching and a promising rookie baseman Bill McKechnie doesn't seem to have much. The admittedly are building for the future, and it looks like they'll be starting to build where most building starts—from the basement.

Kentucky Derby Hopeful To Race At Havre De Grace

HAVE DE GRACE, Md., April 10. (AP)—Two score of the promising three-year-old crop of 1946 have been nominated for the $20,000-added Chesapeake Stakes to be run at the Havre De Grace race track April 27.

Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan's list announced today included Assault, King Ranch's Kentucky Derby eligible, victor in the Experimental Handicap at Jamaica yesterday, and Bobanet Stable's Marine Victory, winner of his first outing at Bowie last week.

Others in this mile and a sixteenth test include Cedar Farm's Lovemenow, stakes winner on several occasions; Foxcatcher Farms' Hampden, recent galloping winner in New York; the speedy Rippey, one of four eligibles from the William Helis String; Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' highly regarded Natchez; Edward Lasker's Athene; Christiana Stable's Sea Snack, and Crispin Oglebay's Air Hero.

Most of these three-year-olds are eligible for the Chesapeake trial, a six furlong dash worth $5,000 which will be run April 20, a week before the Chesapeake itself, thus providing trainers a chance to test their charges for the richer event to follow.

Before the war forced the closing of Havre De Grace, the Chesapeake, along with the Wood Memorial at New York, was regarded as an important step toward participation in the Kentucky Derby. The Wood will be run April 20, the Derby May 4.

Mesl Is Winner Of Kindergarten Stakes at Bowie

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BOWIE, Md., April 10 (AP)—Jouett Shouse's Mesl, two-year-old daughter of Head Play-Arden Lass, scored a mild upset today in the eighteenth running of the $5,000 Bowie Kindergarten stakes, to hand the favored Bobanet stable its first defeat in the juvenile division during the Bowie meeting.

The crowd of approximately 15,000 persons made the Bobanet entry of Regained and Can't Catch Me the odds-on favorite, after this pair won maiden races last week, but Mesl had too much for R. Bruce Livie's pair in today's four-furlong dash.

Mesl was first away, held a neck advantage over Regained at the far turn, and permitted Regained to take a head lead at the home lane before Jockey Bobbie Root urged his mount to the wire with a three fourths length victory over C. E. Buckely's Buck C.

After his bid on the stretch turn, Regained faded to third, a length in arrears of Buck C., in the field of seven juveniles. E. K. Bryson's Bullow, coupled with Mesl in the wagering, was fourth.

Mesl, which had been going good at Hialeah during the winter, traveled the half mile in forty-eight seconds flat over a fast track, compared with the track record of 46.3 set by Too High in 1928. Lovely Imp, from the Bobanet string, covered the distance in 47.4 here Monday.

Today's winner paid $10.40, $9.30 and $2.10, while Buck C.'s place backers collected a sweet $25.

Errors Contribute To LaSalle's 4-0 Loss to Alumni

Regular Schedule Opens Friday Afternoon at Berkeley Springs

LaSalle Alumni took advantage of six errors by the LaSalle baseball club yesterday afternoon to defeat the Blue and Gold nine 4-0, at Community park despite one-hit pitching by Pat Creegan and Jim Dulaney.

The game was the season's curtain raiser for LaSalle, which opens its regular sixteen-game schedule Friday afternoon at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., following another practice setto this afternoon against the LaSalle seniors.

Despite the loss yesterday, Brother Matthew, team moderator, said the LaSalle nine "looked good" and should "hold its own" against other high school teams on its schedule.

A ten-game schedule for LaSalle was announced last week, but Brother Matthew said yesterday that home and home games have been arranged with Berkeley Springs high school, Kitzmiller high school and Masontown, Pa., high school.

LaSalle's schedule opens at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Berkeley Springs, and the second game will be played Saturday afternoon at Kitzmiller.

Masontown will be played at Masontown on Wednesday, May 8. On Thursday, May 9, Berkeley Springs will play here. Masontown will be met here on Wednesday, May 15, and Kitzmiller will be played here on Friday, May 31.

Boxing Tournament Tickets Go on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the third and final night of the tri-state amateur boxing tournament next Monday night at the state armory are now on sale, according to John R. Kelley, Jr., chairman of the ticket committee. The tourney is sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Kelly said tickets may be secured at the Legion home, Richardson's drug store, the I.O.O. Moose home, the Nu-Way shoe shop, Keech's drug store and the Savoy bowling alleys.

Only one championship, the 135-pound open, remains to be decided. In the finals, "Shoeless Bob" Porter will meet Jack Klosterman. However, Matchmakers Bob Chisholm and Phil Fleming are making an effort to bring in an out-of-town team to meet a group of local mittmen as an extra attraction.

Navy Baseballers Defeat Villanova

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 10. (AP)—The Navy baseball team hung up another victory today, downing the Villanova college aggregation 12 to 5.

It was a wild game, in which bases on balls and errors contributed heavily to the scoring by both teams. Phil Thom alone passed ten Villanova batters.

Navy took a first inning lead, added a second run in the next frame and put the game on ice in the third. The Tars counted seven times in that round on hits by Bob Hill and Ken Woods, four walks and a couple of errors.

Woods, Middie catcher, made one third of the putouts for his team, while Shortstop Jay McKie accounted for eight others.

Olympic Winner Is Now Studying Music in Texas

Earl Meadows, Former GI, Says He Is Through with Athletics

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 10—(AP)—Out at Texas Christian university these days you'll find Earl Meadows, Olympic titleholder and ex-GI, working on his Masters degree in music, his first love.

A decade ago he was the toast of the track and field realm—world's record-holder and champion of the Olympic games in the pole vault.

Meadows, who went from high school stardom in Fort Worth to the University of Southern California to win international acclaim, is through with sports. After he receives his music degree he hopes to get into radio. Voice is his major.

In 1933 he set the Texas schoolboy pole vault record at 13 feet 1½ inches. It still stands today. That attracted the attention of Southern California and Meadows was wooled into the ranks of the Trojans. He proceeded to shatter all previous West coast records and was chosen to represent the United States in the Olympic games in Berlin in 1936—last time the big show was held.

He won the championships. Second and third places went to two Japanese athletes, friends of Meadows at the time. During the war they were killed in combat flying Japanese Zeros over the Philippine islands.

In 1937 Meadows broke the world's record with a leap of 14 feet 11 inches. It stood until 1942 when Cornelius Warmerdam soared 15 feet 7¾ inches.

During the war Meadows served two-and-a-half years in the China theater. In succession he was an officer in intelligence, a director of athletics and worked on information and educational courses for GI's. A captain when he was discharged, he came to Texas Christian under the GI Bill of Rights.

Sidelight of his service overseas was participation in a Chinese and American track and field meet in 1944 in which nine records were shattered. Earl won the pole vault at 14 feet even.

Meadows is reticent about talking of his track exploits. "No one is interested in that—it's old stuff."

Knights of Pythias Tossers Will Drill

The Knights of Pythias softball squad will practice this evening at 6 o'clock at Community park, according to Manager C. B. Racing Will Be Resumed Today At Keeneland

Nine Horses, Including Three Derby Nominees Entered in Feature

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 10 (AP)—Racing will be resumed tomorrow at Keeneland race course here after a four-year lay-off, and nine horses, including three Kentucky Derby nominees, have been entered for the opening day feature, the $5,000-added Phoenix Handicap.

Derby candidates listed for the six-furlong Phoenix route, for three-year-olds and upward, include Calumet Farm's In Earnest and High Shine, and Hal Price Headley's Pellicle.

The Keeneland meeting since 1942 has been held at Louisville's Churchill Downs, and an eleven-day card, ending April 25, will mark its return to the colorful Fayette county plant.

Traditional feature of the Keeneland program is the Blue Grass Stakes for three-year-olds, a $10,000-added event over a mile and one-eighth, considered one of the best tests for Derby candidates.

Every available stable at the course is occupied, with more than 600 horses, most of them Kentucky-bred, quartered at the track. Some of the nation's leading thoroughbreds will go the route in the various stakes this year.

Workouts have been underway at Keeneland for about eight weeks.

Many of the bangtails, too, will race over a course just a few yards from the Keeneland sales pavilon where, as yearlings in the last three years, they were auctioned — some for record sums, some for bargain prices.

The Churchill Downs meeting, featuring the Derby, follows the Keeneland program.

Whirlaway Still Holds Record for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The fastest time for a Kentucky Derby winner was established in 1941 by Calumet Farm's Whirlaway, who ran the mile and one-fourth in two minutes, one and two-fifths seconds.

Whirlaway, the greatest money winner in American turf history, has retired from racing and is in stud at Calumet Farm near Lexington, Ky.

Racing Will Be Resumed Today At Keeneland

Nine Horses, Including Three Derby Nominees Entered in Feature

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 10 (AP)—Racing will be resumed tomorrow at Keeneland race course here after a four-year lay-off, and nine horses, including three Kentucky Derby nominees, have been entered for the opening day feature, the $5,000-added Phoenix Handicap.

Derby candidates listed for the six-furlong Phoenix route, for three-year-olds and upward, include Calumet Farm's In Earnest and High Shine, and Hal Price Headley's Pellicle.

The Keeneland meeting since 1942 has been held at Louisville's Churchill Downs, and an eleven-day card, ending April 25, will mark its return to the colorful Fayette county plant.

Traditional feature of the Keeneland program is the Blue Grass Stakes for three-year-olds, a $10,000-added event over a mile and one-eighth, considered one of the best tests for Derby candidates.

Every available stable at the course is occupied, with more than 600 horses, most of them Kentucky-bred, quartered at the track. Some of the nation's leading thoroughbreds will go the route in the various stakes this year.

Workouts have been underway at Keeneland for about eight weeks.

Many of the bangtails, too, will race over a course just a few yards from the Keeneland sales pavilon where, as yearlings in the last three years, they were auctioned — some for record sums, some for bargain prices.

Keeneland is a non-profit track, owned and operated by breeding interests, with its executive officers, except the general manager, serving without pay.

The Churchill Downs meeting, featuring the Derby, follows the Keeneland program.

Russian-Iranian Case Is Subject For Radio Forum

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 10. (AP)—After going into the draft question last week, America's Town Meeting on Thursday night is to turn to the Russian-Iranian case. Air time is the regular 8:30 on the ABC station list.

The question will be put as "What Are the Real Issues in the Russian-Iranian Disputes?" with a panel of four newspaper and radio men in action. They are William Shirer, Louis Discher, Edgar Ansel Mowrer and Max Lerner.

Under the CBS scheduling the Danny O'Neil theater bids adieu at 10:30, with the replacement program to be selected before next week. A feature will be a medley from "Girl Crazy."

Comes another break in the Groucho Marx guesting in the Dinah Shore show on NBC at 8:30. It will be another comedian, Alan Young, of ABC.

Murder is the theme of the "Carrington Playhouse" on MBS at 8. It will be "Design for Murder," comprising the eighth in the current series which gives its attention the newer writers for radio.

Andre Kostelanetz will switch his CBS music at 9 to Latin-America, doing a "fiesta" with the help of the organ playing of Ethel Smith and the tenoring soloing of Nester Chagres. . . . Licia Albanese again will be back with the Alfredo Antonini concert on MBS at 9:30. . . "Story of Music" of NBC at 11:30, Dr. Frank Black conducting, will go further into the musical suite.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling son, James Floyd Boone, who departed this life three years ago today, April 11, 1943.

Jesus has taken a beautiful bud
Out of our garden of love;
Borne it away to the city of God,
Where no more trouble or sorrow is known.

No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of our grief born in sorrow
For the one we loved so well.

You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
No one can fill your vacant place.

Sadly missed by his MOTHER AND FATHER.
4-11-1t-NT

In loving memory of Clifton Columbus Nixon, who gave his life in Germany one year ago today, April 11, 1945.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near,
Only those who lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave so far away,
Where they laid our dearest loved one
Just one year ago today.

Sadly missed by his WIFE AND SON.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling son, James Floyd Boone, who departed this life three years ago today, April 11, 1943.

Jesus has taken a beautiful bud
Out of our garden of love;
Borne it away to the city of God,
Where no more trouble or sorrow is known.

No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of our grief born in sorrow
For the one we loved so well.

You are not forgotten loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
No one can fill your vacant place.

Sadly missed by his MOTHER AND FATHER.
4-11-1t-NT

In loving memory of Clifton Columbus Nixon, who gave his life in Germany one year ago today, April 11, 1945.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought the end so near,
Only those who lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.

Some may think we are not lonely,
When at times they see us smile,
But little do they know the heartache
We suffer all the while.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave so far away,
Where they laid our dearest loved one
Just one year ago today.

Sadly missed by his WIFE AND SON.

Rep. Glenn Beall Reveals He Will Seek Re-election

Republican Announces He Will File Certificate Today

J. Glenn Beall, representative in the Sixth Maryland congressional district, who was first elected in 1942 and was re-elected in 1944, announced last night in Washington that he will file his certificate for re-election at Annapolis today, subject to the action of the Republican primary on June 24.

Born in Frostburg, Mr. Beall was educated in the public schools and at Gettysburg college. He served with the army in World War I, and was honorably discharged with the rank of sergeant. His interest in veterans' affairs is reflected in the legislation he has sponsored and indorsed both as a member of the Maryland State Senate and in Congress.

Carried All Counties

Mr. Beall is married and the father of three sons, one of whom is now serving in the navy. Beall served in the Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Congresses. He carried all five counties in the district in 1942 and 1944, being the only congressional candidate to ever carry all counties in two elections. The Sixth district is the largest geographically in Maryland, being 221 miles long, and is the second largest in population, there being 385,000 persons in the district.

Rep. Beall introduced a bill to repeal the $5 auto use tax law as of July 1, last year. He also introduced a veterans' housing bill, parts of which were embodied in the present housing law for veterans. He is one of the co-sponsors of the G. I. Bill of Rights and also introduced a resolution giving defendants in OPA cases the right to jury trial.

One of the measures Rep. Beall introduced, which has attracted considerable attention throughout the country, is a resolution to prohibit exporting any lumber, logs or fabricated lumber until domestic demands are taken care of in this country. The bill is now in committee.

Active on Committees

Rep. Beall secured the only appropriation by legislative action during the war giving a municipality money for an airport. He secured an appropriation of $150,000 for the Frederick airport.

The local congressman is a member of the House Roads committee for which post he is excellently qualified because of his experience as chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission. One of the outstanding achievements of this committee was the enactment of legislation appropriating $300,000,000 a year for lateral and farm-to-market roads for the next three postwar years.

Beall is also a member of the District of Columbia committee, which handles all legislation pertaining to affairs in the district, and of the Flood Control committee, which is now trying to work out a solution for flood control on the Potomac river.

250 Appointments Made for Clinic

Approximately 250 appointments have been made for a clinic for crippled children, to be conducted here April 26 and 27 by Dr. George E. Bennett, Baltimore, noted orthopedic surgeon, according to Miss Mary Alice Brown, office secretary at the headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

The clinic will be held at league headquarters from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Friday, April 26, and from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Saturday April 27.

Accompanying Dr. Bennett will be Dr. David Weinberg and Dr. George Eaton. The latter, a native of Cumberland, was discharged several months ago after serving more than three years in the South Pacific theater in charge of a general hospital unit sponsored by Johns Hopkins hospital.

Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, league president, will head a corps of volunteers who will act as assistants during the two-day clinic. They include Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mrs. Fred Steiding, Mrs. Albert Carlson, Mrs. Thomas Davis, Miss Hazel Borror and Mrs. Donald Brown.

A similar orthopedic clinic will be held at the Garrett county health office in Oakland on Thursday, April 25, by Dr. Eaton, Miss Brown said.

Accident Victim Sues Cab Company

Mrs. Bessie E. Callis, Oldtown road, has filed suit by titling in circuit court against Fred W. Jenkins, trading as the Astor Cab Company, as the result of a traffic accident last year.

Her counsel, Lewis M. Wilson, indicated that damages of $5,000 would be asked when a declaration is filed in the case. Mrs. Callis returned here last June 26 from Detroit and got in the taxicab at the Queen City station. She said the driver first went to a bus stop on Frederick street to discharge another passenger and then backed up suddenly, crashing against a parked automobile. Mrs. Callis alleged that she was thrown against the roof of the taxicab and the back of the driver's seat, suffering severe injuries.

Announcement was made yesterday that a settlement has been effected in a suit for $200 damages filed by Ronald Eckard, a youth, against Jerome D. Laffey, but terms of the agreement were not disclosed by Charles Z. Heskett, counsel for Laffey.

The action was filed for the youth by his parents, George M. and Vera A. Eckard, since he is a minor. It was alleged that Laffey was negligent in the operation of his automobile on February 20, when the machine struck the boy on the McMullen highway at Danville. The youth suffered a fractured leg and other injuries.

Civilian Group Named To Assist Army Recruiting

Thomas F. Conlon Appointed Chairman of Volunteer Committee

A Civilian Volunteer committee was organized last night at a meeting in city hall auditorium for the purpose of aiding the United States Army in its recruiting program.

Lt. Col. James T. Cooper, commander of the Baltimore recruiting district, was presented by Capt. L. M. Bairstow, commander of the local recruiter district, and the purpose of the meeting was explained.

Col. Cooper outlined briefly the privileges and advantages open to young men who enlist or re-enlist in the army. Under the "GI Bill of Rights," he explained, a young man who graduates from high school in June, and enlists for three years in the army, is entitled to a full four-year college course at government expense.

Young Men Needed

The recruiting committee is formed here, he explained, as one of similar committees being organized in every part of the country, for the purpose of encouraging army enlistment. The country must have a sizeable army, he said, and more young men are needed.

Thomas F. Conlon was named chairman of the group, and tentative plans were made for at least one week of activity here, on the part of civilians, calling attention to advantages of army service, and need for men in the peacetime force.

Several committees were named to make arrangements for some of the activities and programs discussed, and it was decided to hold another meeting of the volunteer group next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the city hall.

Program To Guard Timber Resources Planned by State

Tree Farm Will Be Devoted to Commercial Crop Production

A new and unusual program designed to conserve Maryland's timber resources has been announced by District Forester William H. Johnson. This is the establishment throughout the state of tree farms, dedicated to the continuous production of commercial forest crops in accordance with sound principles of management. The farms may be of any size from three acres up.

To qualify a property as a tree farm, the owner must agree to adhere to the rules of forest practice established by the commission of state forests and parks, to give the area effective protection from fire and excessive grazing by livestock, and to furnish information as to its program when requested.

To the owner of a tract approved as a tree farm, after inspection by a representative of a district forestry board, will be issued a certificate testifying to the fact and signed by the state forester. At a conspicuous place on a tree farm itself will be erected a rustic sign to call attention to the tract.

As established, tree farms will be dedicated in formal exercises, usually on a county basis with short talks by a representative of the governor of Maryland, another of the lumber industry and the state forester. It is within the province of the state forester to revoke a tree farm designation in cases where the owner fails to adhere to his original agreement.

The tree farm program is sponsored by the department of state forests and parks through the various district forestry boards and by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Army To Consider Resuming Savage River Dam Work

Chief of Engineers Agrees To Resurvey Possible Flood Benefits

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington yesterday announced that army engineers will make a new study of the advisability of completing the Savage river dam above Westernport.

Reps. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) and Jennings Randolph, (D-W.Va.) said after a conference with Lt. Gen. Raymond Wheeler, chief of the army engineers, that he agreed to resurvey possible flood control benefits.

Construction of the dam, on which approximately $4,000,000 has been spent and which is about seventy per cent completed was halted at the start of the war.

Army engineers have since held the completion of the project—estimated to cost another $2,200,000—would not materially help to control floods in the Potomac river basin.

Both Beall and Randolph, however, told a reporter they argued it would be of considerable benefit to the North branch of the river and to a population of 30,000 or 40,000, principally in the towns of Westernport and Luke, Md., and Piedmont and Keyser, W. Va.

Engineers agree completion of the dam would be of great benefit to industry in the Cumberland area, alleviating perennial low water conditions in the summer months.

Randolph said he is hopeful the project can be included in an Omnibus Flood Control bill now being written by a House committee. He and Beall also conferred with Chairman Whittington (D-Miss.) of the Flood Control committee.

Of the amount needed to complete the dam, Beall said the Upper Potomac River Commission has on hand about $200,000.

Salvation Army Activities Are Outlined by Ball

The March activities of the Salvation Army were on an unusually broad scale with the Evangelistic Brigade meetings conducted in eleven churches being a feature of the month's events, the report given yesterday by Adjutant Robert S. Ball at the advisory board meeting revealed.

A total of 127 members of the army participated in the eleven services held in Cumberland churches which were conducted by the Evangelistic Brigade.

Ten meetings of the women's home league were held attended by a total of 124, thirty-six indoor senior meetings were conducted attended by 770 and sixteen open air meetings were attended by 153. A total of fifty-eight senior meetings were held with a total attendance of 1,054.

In the young peoples' classification, ten Sunday school classes were held with an attendance of 479; eight religious training classes for young Bible students attended by forty-seven; and forty youth program classes were conducted attended by 462. A total of sixty-one young peoples' meetings were held with an attendance of 1,021.

Twenty grocery orders were given out during the month and 127 garments, the latter being on a somewhat larger scale than usual due to the recent South Cumberland fire. Eighteen pairs of shoes were given out.

A total of twenty-three families were given aid of one type or another.

In the transient division, there were forty-nine applicants, ninety-six meals, seventy-seven lodgings and one assist on transportation.

Expenses for the month were $1,876.

Coca Cola Worker Is Struck by Car, Hearing Set Today

Robert Hinze, 46, Coca Cola Bottling Company worker, 23 Ridgeway terrace, was treated in Allegany hospital last evening at 9:35 o'clock for abrasions and bruises on both legs suffered, he told police, when he was struck by a car at the intersection of Baltimore and North Mechanic streets.

Police said the driver of the car, Russell Uhl, Mt. Savage, is held under $10 bond for a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving and that Ralph White, Ridgeley, W. Va., posted $5 bond for his appearance as a witness in the case.

Report on Medical Care in County Is Made at Meeting

Total of 1,708 Persons Are Certified as Eligible for Assistance

Total amount of bills charged to the county board of health from doctors and pharmacists taking part in the Allegany county medical care program was $2,300.56 in March, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The report was made at the monthly meeting of the county medical care board, held yesterday evening in Dr. Franklin's office.

Of the total amount for the month, $1,674.65 represented doctors' bills, and $625.91 represented pharmacists' bills. Thirty-three doctors, representing approximately one-half the physicians in the county, sent in a total of 260 bills to the health department under the program. Fifteen county druggists sent in a total of 480 bills, a sharp increase over the February total of 339 pharmacists bills.

Total amount of bills submitted in February was $1,917, approximately $400 less than last month's total.

A check of reports made since the program was inaugurated last November shows that the total amount of bills received from doctors and druggists through the end of March is $6,517.80. Last July the state allocated Allegany county $18,800, at the beginning of the current fiscal year, to conduct the county program for the year.

Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld, secretary of the board and executive secretary of the county welfare board, reported that 1,708 persons have been certified since November as being eligible for medical care.

She said that the total represents persons receiving direct public assistance and old age assistance, as well as children living in foster homes and blind persons receiving assistance.

Some of the certificates, which are good for six months, will expire next month, and identical certificates, with an appropriate date, will be issued, Mrs. Westerfeld said. In this connection, Dr. Franklin pointed out that doctors should examine medical care certificates to make sure they are still valid.

Mrs. Westerfeld also said that some persons may be eligible for free hospitalization who are ineligible for medical care. Certificates for the former are marked "Certification for State Aid," while medical care certificates are marked "Certificate of Eligibility for Medical Service." Dr. Franklin said that some confusion has resulted from the fact that doctors in several cases have accepted hospitalization certificates as proof of a person's eligibility for medical care.

Dr. Franklin said he plans to explain these points in a bulletin to be sent to county physicians next week. The letter will also discuss the work of the medical care program since it was started in the county.

B-17 War Memorial Brought to Airport

A B-17 bomber that saw service in the European campaign was brought to Cumberland Municipal Airport Tuesday where it will remain as a war memorial to area men who fought in the war.

The big ship was flown in by Harry Flook, former officer in the air corps, who completed thirty-five missions against the Nazis, and John A. Chapman, airport manager, who acted as co-pilot. The ship arrived around 6 p. m. after completing the last lap of its trip from Walnut Ridge, Ark.

The ship will be open for public inspection Sunday, Chapman said. He plans to have a registration book on hand and wants the first signers to be members of mayor and council and the municipal airport commission. Chapman said the registration book will be used as a basis of determining the selection of local persons for free flight instruction and free passenger hops.

The big bomber, a four-engined Boeing, cost the government in the neighborhood of a quarter million dollars. It was bought by Cumberland for $350. The plane was the latest model of the B-17 to be made by Boeing. The ship carries a crew of ten and has 1,500 flying hours to its credit and is equipped with a chin turret.

The trip here was the last flight for the ship as under purchase regulations the planes are not allowed to take the air after they reach their permanent location.

James Bangerd, Homer Bice and George Taylor Are Vice Presidents

Celanese Attacks State Jobless Benefits Law

The Celanese Corporation of America yesterday filed a brief with the Maryland Court of Appeals attacking an application of the State Unemployment Compensation law.

A hearing has been scheduled for today.

The corporations asked the high court to overrule a Baltimore Superior Court judgment denying it a refund of $84,279 in unemployment compensation contributions for the July 1-September 30, 1944, period.

Celanese contended it was not a war industry and should have been granted the privilege of paying the lowest contribution rate of nine-tenths per cent of its payroll for the period.

One section of the law under attack gives employers the benefit of paying contributions on a graduate scale from nine-tenths per cent to 2.7 per cent, according to their experience rating in maintaining employment.

The corporation contended also that another section was intended to apply to war-expanded industries. It claimed that its 1940 payroll was not a "normal" one because of a strike during that year, and that the section on rates was unconstitutional as applied to it.

In reply, the Unemployment Compensation Board brief contended that Celanese was responsible for contributions under the highest rate for the period in question.

It relied upon the formula of the law which stipulates that firms must pay the maximum of 2.7 per cent for a year if their preceding year's payroll was 150 per cent of the 1940 base year payroll.

Food for Famine Program Outlined At Meeting Here

Committees Are Named To Promote Food Conservancy Practices

Tasker G. Lowndes, who was recently named a member of the Food for Famine Emergency Committee of Maryland, yesterday called a meeting in the office of the chamber of commerce where a group of representative citizens heard a talk by John E. Mahoney, of the Production and Marketing Administration.

Mahoney told the group that due to the famine throughout many sections of the world, Marylanders during the next four months are being asked to:

Cut consumption of bread twenty-five per cent and eat three slices less per day per person.

Use more poultry.

Use less fats and oils.

Plant home gardens.

In addition, farmers will be asked to cut down on their use of feed.

Cites Truman's Appeal

In addressing the group, Mahoney cited President Truman's recent appeal and declared the conservation of food in this country was a must unless the citizens of this country want to see a large portion of the world revert to anarchy, and worse.

In drawing up a program to promote conservative practices in this area, Mayor Thomas S. Post assumed the responsibility of issuing news stories in regard to the campaign. Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will have charge of radio promotion, and the Rev. R. L. Henthorne, president of the ministerial association, will have charge of churches.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, who was asked to promote the campaign in the schools, had already launched his own private program by urging teachers and students to practice sound practices of food conservation and by urging all schools to plant gardens.

O'Neal Has Big Part

Lowndes, who is serving as the overall chairman of the program, also agreed to contact all civil and fraternal organizations. Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, Mrs. Lloyd Shaw, president of the Associated Women of the County Farm Bureau, and Mrs. B. C. Robinette, president of the County Council of Homemakers Clubs, will have charge of women's activities in connection with the conservation program. Smith also agreed to contact restaurants and hotels.

Albert O'Neal, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Conservation Association, will have a big part to play in the program as one of the general chairmen and also as contact men with agriculturalists in the county. R. M. Hudak, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will have charge of the industrial end of the program.

In speaking of the immensity of the present problem, Mahoney said that 500 millions of people are starving throughout the world with 140 million in Europe, eighty-four million in China, and 130 million in Southeast Asia.

Seen as Moral Responsibility

"And of the entire world, only the Western Hemisphere and the United States in particular has help to give," Mahoney said. "America's obligation to do everything possible to reduce the terrible suffering caused by the acute food shortage in all parts of the world is seen by President Truman as a moral responsibility of the highest order resting squarely on the shoulders of each of us.

"Wheat is the most vital commodity for shipment to famine countries because it can be transported best and used to feed the most people in the shortest time," Mahoney continued. "The goal for wheat shipments set last fall calls for six million tons in the first half of 1946. But because of the crisis we are endeavoring to increase this goal to nine million tons. The extra three million tons must be furnished from three categories: one million through reduction of livestock feeding; one million through reduction of brewers' grains and one million through conservation."

Rep. Glenn Beall Reveals He Will Seek Re-election

Republican Announces He Will File Certificate Today

J. Glenn Beall, representative in the Sixth Maryland congressional district, who was first elected in 1942 and was re-elected in 1944, announced last night in Washington that he will file his certificate for re-election at Annapolis today, subject to the action of the Republican primary on June 24.

Born in Frostburg, Mr. Beall was educated in the public schools and at Gettysburg college. He served with the army in World War I, and was honorably discharged with the rank of sergeant. His interest in veterans' affairs is reflected in the legislation he has sponsored and indorsed both as a member of the Maryland State Senate and in Congress.

Carried All Counties

Mr. Beall is married and the father of three sons, one of whom is now serving in the navy. Beall served in the Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Congresses. He carried all five counties in the district in 1942 and 1944, being the only congressional candidate to ever carry all counties in two elections. The Sixth district is the largest geographically in Maryland, being 221 miles long, and is the second largest in population, there being 385,000 persons in the district.

Rep. Beall introduced a bill to repeal the $5 auto use tax law as of July 1, last year. He also introduced a veterans' housing bill, parts of which were embodied in the present housing law for veterans. He is one of the co-sponsors of the G. I. Bill of Rights and also introduced a resolution giving defendants in OPA cases the right to jury trial.

One of the measures Rep. Beall introduced, which has attracted considerable attention throughout the country, is a resolution to prohibit exporting any lumber, logs or fabricated lumber until domestic demands are taken care of in this country. The bill is now in committee.

Active on Committees

Rep. Beall secured the only appropriation by legislative action during the war giving a municipality money for an airport. He secured an appropriation of $150,000 for the Frederick airport.

The local congressman is a member of the House Roads committee for which post he is excellently qualified because of his experience as chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission. One of the outstanding achievements of this committee was the enactment of legislation appropriating $300,000,000 a year for lateral and farm-to-market roads for the next three postwar years.

Beall is also a member of the District of Columbia committee, which handles all legislation pertaining to affairs in the district, and of the Flood Control committee, which is now trying to work out a solution for flood control on the Potomac river.

Accident Victim Sues Cab Company

Mrs. Bessie E. Callis, Oldtown road, has filed suit by titling in circuit court against Fred W. Jenkins, trading as the Astor Cab Company, as the result of a traffic accident last year.

Her counsel, Lewis M. Wilson, indicated that damages of $5,000 would be asked when a declaration is filed in the case. Mrs. Callis returned here last June 26 from Detroit and got in the taxicab at the Queen City station. She said the driver first went to a bus stop on Frederick street to discharge another passenger and then backed up suddenly, crashing against a parked automobile. Mrs. Callis alleged that she was thrown against the roof of the taxicab and the back of the driver's seat, suffering severe injuries.

Announcement was made yesterday that a settlement has been effected in a suit for $200 damages filed by Ronald Eckard, a youth, against Jerome D. Laffey, but terms of the agreement were not disclosed by Charles Z. Heskett, counsel for Laffey.

The action was filed for the youth by his parents, George M. and Vera A. Eckard, since he is a minor. It was alleged that Laffey was negligent in the operation of his automobile on February 20, when the machine struck the boy on the McMullen highway at Danville. The youth suffered a fractured leg and other injuries.

Alleging slander, suit for $1,000 damages has been filed by Archibald C. Willis, local negro, against Garland H. Darr and his wife, Mrs. Hazel Darr, also negroes, 336 Central avenue. Willis, represented by William L. Wilson, Jr., said he was in the American Legion home of Fulton Myers Post, North Mechanic street, last March 21, when the defendants made the remark, "He is a thief" in the presence of other persons.

Civilian Group Named To Assist Army Recruiting

Thomas F. Conlon Appointed Chairman of Volunteer Committee

A Civilian Volunteer committee was organized last night at a meeting in city hall auditorium for the purpose of aiding the United States Army in its recruiting program.

Lt. Col. James T. Cooper, commander of the Baltimore recruiting district, was presented by Capt. L. M. Bairstow, commander of the local recruiter district, and the purpose of the meeting was explained.

Col. Cooper outlined briefly the privileges and advantages open to young men who enlist or re-enlist in the army. Under the "GI Bill of Rights," he explained, a young man who graduates from high school in June, and enlists for three years in the army, is entitled to a full four-year college course at government expense.

Young Men Needed

The recruiting committee is formed here, he explained, as one of similar committees being organized in every part of the country, for the purpose of encouraging army enlistment. The country must have a sizeable army, he said, and more young men are needed.

Thomas F. Conlon was named chairman of the group, and tentative plans were made for at least one week of activity here, on the part of civilians, calling attention to advantages of army service, and need for men in the peacetime force.

Several committees were named to make arrangements for some of the activities and programs discussed, and it was decided to hold another meeting of the volunteer group next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the city hall.

Program To Guard Timber Resources Planned by State

Tree Farm Will Be Devoted to Commercial Crop Production

A new and unusual program designed to conserve Maryland's timber resources has been announced by District Forester William H. Johnson. This is the establishment throughout the state of tree farms, dedicated to the continuous production of commercial forest crops in accordance with sound principles of management. The farms may be of any size from three acres up.

To qualify a property as a tree farm, the owner must agree to adhere to the rules of forest practice established by the commission of state forests and parks, to give the area effective protection from fire and excessive grazing by livestock, and to furnish information as to its program when requested.

To the owner of a tract approved as a tree farm, after inspection by a representative of a district forestry board, will be issued a certificate testifying to the fact and signed by the state forester. At a conspicuous place on a tree farm itself will be erected a rustic sign to call attention to the tract.

As established, tree farms will be dedicated in formal exercises, usually on a county basis with short talks by a representative of the governor of Maryland, another of the lumber industry and the state forester. It is within the province of the state forester to revoke a tree farm designation in cases where the owner fails to adhere to his original agreement.

The tree farm program is sponsored by the department of state forests and parks through the various district forestry boards and by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Army To Consider Resuming Savage River Dam Work

Chief of Engineers Agrees To Resurvey Possible Flood Benefits

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington yesterday announced that army engineers will make a new study of the advisability of completing the Savage river dam above Westernport.

Reps. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) and Jennings Randolph, (D-W.Va.) said after a conference with Lt. Gen. Raymond Wheeler, chief of the army engineers, that he agreed to resurvey possible flood control benefits.

Construction of the dam, on which approximately $4,000,000 has been spent and which is about seventy per cent completed was halted at the start of the war.

Army engineers have since held the completion of the project—estimated to cost another $2,200,000—would not materially help to control floods in the Potomac river basin.

Both Beall and Randolph, however, told a reporter they argued it would be of considerable benefit to the North branch of the river and to a population of 30,000 or 40,000, principally in the towns of Westernport and Luke, Md., and Piedmont and Keyser, W. Va.

Engineers agree completion of the dam would be of great benefit to industry in the Cumberland area, alleviating perennial low water conditions in the summer months.

Randolph said he is hopeful the project can be included in an Omnibus Flood Control bill now being written by a House committee. He and Beall also conferred with Chairman Whittington (D-Miss.) of the Flood Control committee.

Of the amount needed to complete the dam, Beall said the Upper Potomac River Commission has on hand about $200,000.

Salvation Army Activities Are Outlined by Ball

The March activities of the Salvation Army were on an unusually broad scale with the Evangelistic Brigade meetings conducted in eleven churches being a feature of the month's events, the report given yesterday by Adjutant Robert S. Ball at the advisory board meeting revealed.

A total of 127 members of the army participated in the eleven services held in Cumberland churches which were conducted by the Evangelistic Brigade.

Ten meetings of the women's home league were held attended by a total of 124, thirty-six indoor senior meetings were conducted attended by 770 and sixteen open air meetings were attended by 153. A total of fifty-eight senior meetings were held with a total attendance of 1,054.

In the young peoples' classification, ten Sunday school classes were held with an attendance of 479; eight religious training classes for young Bible students attended by forty-seven; and forty youth program classes were conducted attended by 462. A total of sixty-one young peoples' meetings were held with an attendance of 1,021.

Twenty grocery orders were given out during the month and 127 garments, the latter being on a somewhat larger scale than usual due to the recent South Cumberland fire. Eighteen pairs of shoes were given out.

A total of twenty-three families were given aid of one type or another.

In the transient division, there were forty-nine applicants, ninety-six meals, seventy-seven lodgings and one assist on transportation.

Expenses for the month were $1,876.

Coca Cola Worker Is Struck by Car, Hearing Set Today

Police said the driver of the car, Russell Uhl, Mt. Savage, is held under $10 bond for a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving and that Ralph White, Ridgeley, W. Va., posted $5 bond for his appearance as a witness in the case.

Report on Medical Care in County Is Made at Meeting

Total of 1,708 Persons Are Certified as Eligible for Assistance

Total amount of bills charged to the county board of health from doctors and pharmacists taking part in the Allegany county medical care program was $2,300.56 in March, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The report was made at the monthly meeting of the county medical care board, held yesterday evening in Dr. Franklin's office.

Of the total amount for the month, $1,674.65 represented doctors' bills, and $625.91 represented pharmacists' bills. Thirty-three doctors, representing approximately one-half the physicians in the county, sent in a total of 260 bills to the health department under the program. Fifteen county druggists sent in a total of 480 bills, a sharp increase over the February total of 339 pharmacists bills.

Total amount of bills submitted in February was $1,917, approximately $400 less than last month's total.

A check of reports made since the program was inaugurated last November shows that the total amount of bills received from doctors and druggists through the end of March is $6,517.80. Last July the state allocated Allegany county $18,800, at the beginning of the current fiscal year, to conduct the county program for the year.

Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld, secretary of the board and executive secretary of the county welfare board, reported that 1,708 persons have been certified since November as being eligible for medical care.

She said that the total represents persons receiving direct public assistance and old age assistance, as well as children living in foster homes and blind persons receiving assistance.

Some of the certificates, which are good for six months, will expire next month, and identical certificates, with an appropriate date, will be issued, Mrs. Westerfeld said. In this connection, Dr. Franklin pointed out that doctors should examine medical care certificates to make sure they are still valid.

Mrs. Westerfeld also said that some persons may be eligible for free hospitalization who are ineligible for medical care. Certificates for the former are marked "Certification for State Aid," while medical care certificates are marked "Certificate of Eligibility for Medical Service." Dr. Franklin said that some confusion has resulted from the fact that doctors in several cases have accepted hospitalization certificates as proof of a person's eligibility for medical care.

Dr. Franklin said he plans to explain these points in a bulletin to be sent to county physicians next week. The letter will also discuss the work of the medical care program since it was started in the county.

B-17 War Memorial Brought to Airport

A B-17 bomber that saw service in the European campaign was brought to Cumberland Municipal Airport Tuesday where it will remain as a war memorial to area men who fought in the war.

The big ship was flown in by Harry Flook, former officer in the air corps, who completed thirty-five missions against the Nazis, and John A. Chapman, airport manager, who acted as co-pilot. The ship arrived around 6 p. m. after completing the last lap of its trip from Walnut Ridge, Ark.

The ship will be open for public inspection Sunday, Chapman said. He plans to have a registration book on hand and wants the first signers to be members of mayor and council and the municipal airport commission. Chapman said the registration book will be used as a basis of determining the selection of local persons for free flight instruction and free passenger hops.

The big bomber, a four-engined Boeing, cost the government in the neighborhood of a quarter million dollars. It was bought by Cumberland for $350. The plane was the latest model of the B-17 to be made by Boeing. The ship carries a crew of ten and has 1,500 flying hours to its credit and is equipped with a chin turret.

The trip here was the last flight for the ship as under purchase regulations the planes are not allowed to take the air after they reach their permanent location.

Celanese Attacks State Jobless Benefits Law

The Celanese Corporation of America yesterday filed a brief with the Maryland Court of Appeals attacking an application of the State Unemployment Compensation law.

A hearing has been scheduled for today.

The corporations asked the high court to overrule a Baltimore Superior Court judgment denying it a refund of $84,279 in unemployment compensation contributions for the July 1-September 30, 1944, period.

Celanese contended it was not a war industry and should have been granted the privilege of paying the lowest contribution rate of nine-tenths per cent of its payroll for the period.

One section of the law under attack gives employers the benefit of paying contributions on a graduate scale from nine-tenths per cent to 2.7 per cent, according to their experience rating in maintaining employment.

The corporation contended also that another section was intended to apply to war-expanded industries. It claimed that its 1940 payroll was not a "normal" one because of a strike during that year, and that the section on rates was unconstitutional as applied to it.

In reply, the Unemployment Compensation Board brief contended that Celanese was responsible for contributions under the highest rate for the period in question.

It relied upon the formula of the law which stipulates that firms must pay the maximum of 2.7 per cent for a year if their preceding year's payroll was 150 per cent of the 1940 base year payroll.

In addition, farmers will be asked to cut down on their use of feed.

Cites Truman's Appeal

In addressing the group, Mahoney cited President Truman's recent appeal and declared the conservation of food in this country was a must unless the citizens of this country want to see a large portion of the world revert to anarchy, and worse.

In drawing up a program to promote conservative practices in this area, Mayor Thomas S. Post assumed the responsibility of issuing news stories in regard to the campaign. Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will have charge of radio promotion, and the Rev. R. L. Henthorne, president of the ministerial association, will have charge of churches.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, who was asked to promote the campaign in the schools, had already launched his own private program by urging teachers and students to practice sound practices of food conservation and by urging all schools to plant gardens.

O'Neal Has Big Part

Lowndes, who is serving as the overall chairman of the program, also agreed to contact all civil and fraternal organizations. Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, Mrs. Lloyd Shaw, president of the Associated Women of the County Farm Bureau, and Mrs. B. C. Robinette, president of the County Council of Homemakers Clubs, will have charge of women's activities in connection with the conservation program. Smith also agreed to contact restaurants and hotels.

Albert O'Neal, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Conservation Association, will have a big part to play in the program as one of the general chairmen and also as contact men with agriculturalists in the county. R. M. Hudak, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will have charge of the industrial end of the program.

In speaking of the immensity of the present problem, Mahoney said that 500 millions of people are starving throughout the world with 140 million in Europe, eighty-four million in China, and 130 million in Southeast Asia.

Seen as Moral Responsibility

"And of the entire world, only the Western Hemisphere and the United States in particular has help to give," Mahoney said. "America's obligation to do everything possible to reduce the terrible suffering caused by the acute food shortage in all parts of the world is seen by President Truman as a moral responsibility of the highest order resting squarely on the shoulders of each of us.

"Wheat is the most vital commodity for shipment to famine countries because it can be transported best and used to feed the most people in the shortest time," Mahoney continued. "The goal for wheat shipments set last fall calls for six million tons in the first half of 1946. But because of the crisis we are endeavoring to increase this goal to nine million tons. The extra three million tons must be furnished from three categories: one million through reduction of livestock feeding; one million through reduction of brewers' grains and one million through conservation."
